

BOILERS OF GUNBOAT BENNINGTON KNOWN TO BE DEFECTIVE, SAY MEN

Many of Them Feared That an Explosion Would Occur.

Believed That More Bodies Will Be Found In Wreck.

An Investigation Will Be Made Into the Catastrophe.

San Diego, Cal., July 22.—The appalling list of victims of yesterday's explosion on board the United States ship Bennington grew throughout the night, almost every hour adding to the long row at the already overcrowded morgues. Forty-nine known dead is the latest summary. This includes the forty-two bodies at the various morgues, and the seven bodies which are still floating about the flooded boiler room, and which cannot yet be reached. Following is a revised and corrected list of the dead:

- N. K. PEARY, lieutenant U. S. N.
- F. W. BROWN, yeoman, machinist, first class.
- H. W. NEWCOMBE, boatswain's mate.
- B. A. HUGHES, seaman.
- A. E. CARR, able seaman.
- W. C. CHERRY, coal passer.
- C. RUSHINGTON, coal passer.
- A. P. SCROGGIE, San Francisco, seaman.
- E. H. HAGBLOOM, coal passer.
- A. E. CARR, able seaman.
- D. F. SAUNDERS, apprentice.
- W. W. WILGHT, coal passer.
- E. DRESCH, ordinary seaman.
- J. L. BURNS, seaman.
- L. G. QUINN, oiler.
- L. KUNZ, coal passer.
- JOSEPH HILSCHER, Washington, fireman.
- G. I. BROWNLEE, seaman.
- J. G. KIDNEY, coal passer.
- E. B. FERGUSON, chief machinist's mate.
- R. HOUSE, apprentice fireman.
- E. W. HURON, chimney, Neb.
- JOE HUNT, oiler.
- CHARLES MCKEEN.

- L. E. ARCHER, ordinary seaman.
- M. G. CHAMBERS.
- JOHN MACKIN, Michigan.
- PEYTON CAIPESTER, Little Rock, Ark., ordinary seaman.

Eight unidentified from the ships hold which are classified as unidentified.

Besides these there are missing about twenty or twenty-five men.

About fifty injured are scattered among the various city, private and public hospitals, according to the statement compiled at an early hour today.

Of the injured several are expected to die and it is expected the death toll will be swollen to 40 and possibly will exceed these figures. Of the missing it is expected a number will turn up today and it is believed the bay will give up several dead.

San Francisco, July 22.—Rear Admiral McCullough, commanding the navy yard at Mare Island, on hearing of the blowing up of the Bennington's boilers, dispatched Capt. Drake, surgeon, and three men of the hospital corps to the scene of the disaster and dispatched the tug Fortune from Fort Huachuca to assist in the recovery of the bodies. So far he has received no explanation of the cause of the disaster.

Drake has instructions to investigate the affair. If Surgeon Smith considers it advisable the wounded men will be brought here by special train.

The only officers included in the list of victims of the disaster are Ensign N. K. Peary, who was killed, and his wounds and Ensign Leo Sahn, whose right hand was scalded. The latter's injuries were dressed by the surgeons and he did not go to the hospital.

The city of San Diego loaded a fire engine on a lighter and ran it alongside the Bennington, where she now lies beached and it is now being used to pump out the vessel's engine room. As the vessel now lies beached she has a heavy cant to starboard and at least fifteen feet of water in her hold.

The number of men reported missing at last reports is estimated at from twenty-one to twenty-five, and it is feared that when the water is known the list of dead will be largely increased. A roll-call some hours after the explosion showed sixty-one men present, leaving 136 unaccounted for. This included the dead, injured and missing.

San Diego, July 22.—An examination of the Bennington above deck does not disclose any great damage. The vessel was covered with a gray coating, the color of ashes. The escaping steam carried a great coating of mud which smothered everything, even the sides of the boat. There were broken gangways and displaced machinery of minor character, but no serious damage to the main deck which was visible. It was explained by those on board that the wreck was all below, but just how serious this will be fully determined only after a thorough examination can be made.

Commander Young expresses the opinion that there was a weak spot in one of the boilers, but said there had been no visible defects so far as known. The men who were injured, including Ensign Peary, tell a different story. They say that it has been the talk of the ship for at least six months, that the boilers were defective, many of them had feared for a

FINN POLICE CHIEF IS ASSASSINATED

Col. Kremarenko Shot Down In the Streets of Helsingfors.

Helsingfors, Finland, July 22.—Col. Kremarenko, chief of police, was shot yesterday by a man named Procopce, and is in a critical condition. Procopce was arrested and has been identified as an accomplice of the man who recently tried to assassinate Former Governor Misseldoff.

London, July 22.—A dispatch to a news agency says the Col. Kremarenko has died of his wounds.

MUTINIOUS CONSPIRACY Discovered Among Crews of Black Sea Fleet.

Odessa, July 22.—A report has reached here from Sebastopol that a mutinous conspiracy has been discovered among the crew of the vessels of the Black sea fleet, in consequence of which the long time that just such an accident would happen. One of the men said that a year ago last February, while the ship was at Mardaleia bay the engineer of the cruiser New York was sent for to inspect the boilers, and he reported that they were in good condition. While the vessel was in San Francisco last year the talk of defective boilers again arose, but no steps were taken to remedy them.

The upper deck amidships presents a mass of wreckage. The smokestacks have been blown out of place and the superstructure is bent and twisted in all sorts of shapes. The plates on the side are bulging out and leaks in a number of places are letting in the water.

John Turpin, a colored man of the crew, who was on board the Maine when she was blown up in Havana harbor, was on board the Bennington, and again escaped injury. He rendered valuable aid in rescuing the dead and wounded.

Oyster Bay, July 22.—President Roosevelt was shocked greatly at the news of the disaster to the gunboat Bennington in the harbor of San Diego, Cal. Beyond expressing his profound regret he chose, however, to get at the bottom of the matter until he should have received complete details.

Washington, July 22.—Commander Lucien Young, of the gunboat Bennington, at San Diego, Cal., last night sent the following telegram to the navy department:

"Arrangements being made to bury the dead at Port Roscerans Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. Seven bodies placed under the boilers, covered by water. Have engaged a fire engine to pump out so as to assist in their recovery. Also cutting away bulkheads in order to get at the bodies. Several men to die during the night. Will verify department in the morning. Everything that is possible to be done is being done. Only able to identify one man on board so far. He is R. B. Carr, seaman."

RECIPROCITY CONFERENCE

May Be Attended By Any One Interested In Subject.

Chicago, July 22.—Chairman Sanders of the committee on arrangements of the national reciprocity conference to be held in Chicago Aug. 16 and 17, announced today that while the call for delegates has been mailed to all national state and local agricultural and live stock associations whose addresses could be obtained, it is not the intention to deny a seat in the convention to any farmer or stockman who desires to manifest interest by taking advantage of the reduced railroad rates and attend the sessions of the convention.

In order that all may actively participate in the proceedings, credentials will be accepted from any reputable organization of business men whether agricultural or commercial. Credentials from boards of county commissioners, officials of the county associations and similar bodies will also be honored. In localities where no organizations are available for this purpose, farmers and stockmen are urged to hold local conventions for the purpose of naming delegates to the conference.

LAW CONDEMNED.

Stock Dealers Oppose Twenty-Eight Hours Measure.

Buffalo, July 22.—The national live stock exchange, at yesterday's session, condemned the twenty-eight hours' stock transit law, and will send a lobby to Washington to attempt its repeal.

These officers were elected: President, A. L. Keechler, St. Louis; vice president, Charles Fitch, St. Paul; secretary, C. W. Baker, Chicago; treasurer, C. H. Graves, Indianapolis.

HURT IN AUTO WRECK.

Prominent Woman Taken to Chicago For Operation.

Chicago, July 22.—An operation was performed, today, on Mrs. D. G. Simmons, wife of a retired millionaire capitalist of Kenosha, Wis., who was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Viola, Wis., and was brought at once to the Presbyterian hospital here on a special train chartered by her husband in the hope of saving her life. After the operation, physicians reported that Mrs. Simmons was still under the influence of the anesthetic, but they had hope that she would recover.

The automobile party of which Mr. and Mrs. Simmons were members narrowly escaped death on Carriage hill, near Viola, when en route to attend the golf tournament at La Crosse. In the automobile in addition to Mr. Simmons and his wife were S. S. Simmons and Miss Edith Brown, also of Kenosha and a chauffeur. All members of the party were more or less seriously injured. Mrs. Simmons' leg was broken and she was otherwise painfully injured. A Viola physician set the fractured bone and the train was engaged to bring the party to Chicago.

LABOR UNIONS OBJECT TO CHINKS ON THE CANAL.

New York, July 22.—Chinese labor on the Panama canal was the subject of a speech delivered last night by Samuel Gompers, president of the federation of labor, before the trades union club, Brooklyn. Resolutions were adopted calling on the government to exclude coolies from Panama and to employ only improved machinery in the work.

ABDUL FELL SHORT

Abdul Hamid Has a Narrow Escape From Assassination.

A Number of Soldiers and Several Horses Were Killed.

Constantinople, Friday, July 21, via Sofia, Bulgaria, July 22.—The bomb which was intended to blow up the sultan fell short and exploded about thirty yards distant from his majesty.

The latter was at the time on the top of the flight landing in the mosque. A panic immediately seized the sultan's entourage and the court dignitaries rushed up and implored Abdul Hamid to remain in the mosque. The sultan, however, insisted on proceeding, and entered his carriage with a calmness not usually attributed to him, and picking up the reins drove himself to the Yildiz palace amid the cheers of the admiring officials.

The explosion was heard as far as the Pera quarter. Besides the soldiers in the vicinity several horses were killed, carriages were smashed into kindling wood and the windows of the pavilion reserved for the diplomatic corps were broken. The pavilion contained among others U. Grant-Smith, second secretary of the American legation here, who was accompanied by Capt. Smith of the United States army. No one was hurt in the pavilion with the exception of a few attendants, who received scratches from flying glass. The force of the explosion also damaged the clock tower in the court yard of the mosque.

Immediately after the sultan had departed a detachment of cavalry charged down the street parallel with the mosque and from which the bomb was thrown in the hope of finding the author of the attempt who, however, has not yet been discovered.

Although the outrage occurred at 1 p. m., the sultan's majesty's life had been in danger did not become generally known until night, when it reached widespread excitement as it was the first bomb explosion of this character that ever occurred in the city. The majority of those killed or injured were soldiers, who were lining the street and near the mosque. The authorities are greatly disturbed and unable to explain why the would-be regicide passed through the crowd without being arrested. The road leading to the mosque so soon as the sultan leaves the palace.

STOLE VESSEL AND ITS CARGO

Ship Believed to Have Been Seized By Cuban Crew.

San Francisco, July 22.—Sailing somewhere in the tropical seas is the American vessel Robert Genter. At its mast floats unlawfully the flag of Spain. Heavily laden with wines and rich in cargo, on last Jan. 7, this vessel, manned by a crew of Cubans, sailed out of the port of Tampa, Fla., consigned to Antonio P. Garcia, one of the wealthiest merchants of Sagua, La Grande, Cuba. Since that date nothing has been seen or heard of either the crew or vessel. S. J. Hulse, the owner of it, has appealed to the federal authorities at Washington and they in turn have notified the local federal officers to try and locate the missing boat and bring its crew into the hands of the law.

For two days previous to the departure of the vessel from the Florida port the members of the crew spent their nights in the wine rooms and gambling dens of Tampa. Their money was all spent, and they made friends with several South American sailors, who, it is believed, induced them secretly to sell the ship. It would be impossible to make this wrongful sale while in port, so it was apparently agreed to carry out the transaction on the high seas.

Weeks went by and the owner received no notice of the arrival of the vessel at the Cuban port. He became uneasy and called in the aid of the Florida authorities. Through them it was learned that not only had the vessel never reported its destination, but that a boat answering its description had been seen off the coast of one of the South American ports flying the flag of one of the Spanish dominions. The crew when last seen were engaged in riotous revelry. Descriptions of the boat and orders to immediately seize and arrest its crew have been sent to all of the ports in the United States.

WARM SHOT FOR STOKES

Organ of East Side Jews Objects to His Work.

New York, July 22.—The Hebrew Standard publishes an editorial, resenting the plan of J. G. Phelps Stokes and his bride to take up their residence in the Ghetto to uplift its inhabitants. The Standard refers to Mrs. Stokes as an apostate and adds:

"The Christological influence the young millionaire and his newly Christianized bride will exert over the children with whom they will come in contact will be distinctly harmful. They are Jewish children, and any teaching which will create a gulf between them and their parents certainly must be regarded with suspicion."

Notwithstanding the statement that all work the gentleman in question will do on the East side will be of a non-Jewish character, we find that he is a director of the Federation of Churches, which is doing distinctly Christian work on the East side.

We may safely presume that the work both he and his newly-made wife will be engaged in among Jewish children will be of the same character, and to this we strenuously object.

"That this Christian gentleman and Jewish girl should have married in their own business; that the young woman should have adopted another religion is a matter for her own conscience; but the announcement that they are to work on the East side among the Jewish children is certainly a very frank and openly that they would have shown far better taste had the young couple made the announcement that they would leave the East side and continue their 'uplifting' work among other sections of the population in greater need of it than the Jewish community."

CUBAN SOLDIERS

Will Soon Get Pay Long Due Them.

Havana, July 22.—The house of representatives last night, adopted measures for the liquidation of the entire remaining half of the revolutionary soldiers' pay by means of issuing bonds of various denominations to the soldiers to draw 5 per cent interest until paid. The bill devotes, besides other funds, the entire treasury surplus, which is at present about $13,000,000 toward the payment of these claims, less $5,000,000 which will be devoted to public works.

ATTORNEY GENERAL TELLS GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE TO PACKERS

Delivers an "Inspired" Address to the Lincoln Club.

Explains Away Natural Misunderstanding Which Has Existed.

Believes Public Should Know Conduct of Its Servants.

Nahant, Mass., July 22.—Attorney General W. H. Moody, in an address before the Lincoln club of Boston at its midsummer outing here today, gave a resume of the government's proceedings against the combination of beef packers. The attorney general said that his conclusion to review the situation was due to the "not unusual misunderstanding as to the attitude of the administration." He said also that it was done "with the approval of the president."

Mr. Moody's address in part was as follows:

"There has been an occasional complaint that upon subjects in which the public naturally takes a keen interest, I have, as attorney general, withheld facts which the people have a right to know. Much of the work of the department of justice can only be done efficiently when it is done quietly and in secret. It is not easy to draw the line between facts which ought to be confided to the public, and those which, for the time being, in the interest of justice, ought to be withheld from it. I can only say that I have tried to draw the line solely in the interest of the public and to recognize fully the right of the people ultimately and in due season to know of the conduct of their servants."

There has been so much not natural misunderstanding as to the attitude of the administration towards the proceedings at Chicago which have resulted in indictments against the beef packers that with the approval of the president, I have caused to be printed a brief review of all the proceedings which have led up to the present situation with most improper taken. This can be done without impairing the just rights of those who are under accusation, who must by fundamental principles be presumed to be innocent of all wrongdoing, unless, after hearing, they have been adjudged guilty. In May, 1902, Attorney General Knox filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States at Chicago in which it was alleged that the defendants, seven in number, had entered into a conspiracy to suppress competition in the purchase of live stock and in the sale of fresh meat through the country and to obtain rebates from common carriers on account of their shipments of meat.

The case was placed in the charge of Mr. Bethea, then district attorney for Illinois, who has now, I regret to say, resigned his position in the public service.

In February, 1903, the demurrer of the defendants to this bill was overruled in an opinion by Judge Crossland. In May, 1903, an injunction was issued against all the defendants, forbidding the continuance of the conspiracy alleged in the bill. The case was then removed to the supreme court, and in January, 1905, with the assistance of Mr. Day, I argued the case before that court. The same morning the case was decided in favor of the government by an unanimous court, and the decree of the circuit court was affirmed in all substantial particulars. For most time under the direction of a department a diligent inquiry whether the defendants had been observing the injunction had been in progress. In September preceding the decision of the supreme court, a special agent of the department of justice had been directed to Chicago to confer with the district attorney and certain other persons. The inquiry, however, had no important result. As soon as the decision of the supreme court was rendered, District Attorney Bethea was ordered to report at Washington for the consideration of the complaint, which were before the department. Most abundant assurances, however, had been received from counsel for defendants that they had strictly observed the injunction, and the complaints themselves contained little that was worthy of the name of legal evidence. Returning to Chicago, the district attorney, on Feb. 4, 1905, five days after the rendition of the decision of the supreme court, having fully considered the materials submitted to him by the department, reported that at that time there was not sufficient competent evidence to sustain either an indictment or proceeding for contempt, but that sufficient facts had been developed to warrant the summoning of the grand jury for investigation of the whole case, and asked authority to report at the department again for conference, and after a thorough consideration of the whole case, recommended that the district attorney was approved by the attorney general, and the question submitted to the president. His authorized particular recommendation of the district attorney was approved by the president. On February 21, 1905, by telegraphic orders of the department, subpoenas to nearly 200 witnesses were served simultaneously by the different United States marshals throughout the country. The strictest secrecy was enjoined upon these officials.

On February 24, 1905, the attorney general sent a circular letter to each United States attorney directing him to gather such evidence on the subject

PAUL JONES' BOAT REACHES THE U. S.

Escorted By Three Great Fleets, It Enters Chesapeake Bay.

Norfolk, Va., July 22.—The body of Admiral John Paul Jones, recently found in Paris as the result of a search conducted under the direction of Gen. Horace Porter, formerly United States ambassador to France, passed in the Virginia capes this morning on the United States cruiser Brooklyn under Rear Admiral Sigbee, the Brooklyn having as escorts the cruisers Galveston, Tacoma and Chattanooga.

Off this coast the fleet was met by the battleship fleet of the North Atlantic in two divisions, the first being under the command of Admiral Evans, and the second commanded by Admiral Davis. The three fleets approached the capes together, the ships under command of Admiral Evans, leading and the Davis and Sigbee fleets close following. On the vessels reaching Cape Henry, Admiral Evans' fleet composed of the battleship Maine as flagship, the battleships Missouri, Kentucky and Kearsarge passed into lower Chesapeake bay at 7:10 o'clock.

Then came the Sigbee fleet in the following order: The flagship Brooklyn, the cruisers Galveston, Tacoma and Chattanooga. Following these were the vessels of Admiral Davis' fleet which entered the lower bay in this order: The battleships Alabama, Illinois, Massachusetts and Iowa. The

ALLIANCE BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN CONSIDERED PROBABLE

Washington, July 22.—Far Eastern advisers tell of the effect on the Chinese of the victories gained by Japan over Russia. Not only has the government been affected but the people have come to regard Japan in a new light and the diplomatic corps at Peking already has begun to discuss the probability of an alliance between China and Japan.

On this point a high official—a diplomat thoroughly cognizant of the situation at Peking and in touch with official and popular feeling in China, says: "This will not come today or tomorrow—this alliance with Japan, but it is only a question of time when China and Japan will enter into a strong alliance, the keynote of which shall be the development of the Far East under the administration of Far Eastern peoples. China would be the loser by such a union at this time because she has not enough to offer Japan to insure an alliance of mutual benefit."

"You do not think that Russia and Japan after the treaty of Washington is signed will become allies?" was asked.

"I do not believe the Japanese will accept any such offer," the diplomat replied.

"With China rehabilitated, her legal system reformed, her modern ideas introduced and the country developed along lines of Japan, I believe Tokio will welcome, in fact, seek from China some sort of alliance. But as I said at the outset, this will not come in a day or in a year. China is not ready for it yet."

MYSTERY OF BIG LOAN CLEARED UP

New York, July 22.—Most of the mystery surrounding the $655,000 loan which the Mercantile Trust company has standing on its books to the joint account of ex-President James W. Alexander and ex-President Thomas K. Jordan of the Equitable Life Assurance society, when Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks made his investigation, has been removed, says the Times. The endorser of the note securing the loan was the paper assets, a well-known official of the Equitable society, who recently disposed of his holdings of stock. Former

FLAGMAN GIVES LIFE FOR ANOTHER

New York, July 22.—In saving the lives of an unknown woman and her baby, William J. McDonald, flagman of the Long Island railroad, died a martyr at his post in Long Island City, today. McDonald took the job only a week ago. His widow and children are left destitute. Hundreds of tollers in nearby factories used the crossing where McDonald was stationed.

He was to have been relieved in fifteen minutes when he saw a woman with her baby in a cart walk directly in the track in front of an incoming train. The flagman sprang to her side just in time to drag her from the tracks. As he turned back a train on the opposite track crushed his life out. The woman witnessed his horrible fate and rushed screaming from the scene. More than fifty persons have been killed at the same crossing within the past three years.

ANOTHER GERMAN FLEET AT COPENHAGEN.

Copenhagen, July 22.—The first German fleet, commanded by Admiral Von Koester, arrived here today and exchanged salutes with the forts and the Danish fleet. The German and Danish admirals then exchanged visits.

King Christian gave an audience to Admiral Von Koester and invited him to dinner. His majesty conferred the Danish order of that of the Elephant, on Admiral Von Koester. The fleet will leave Danish waters Monday.

LAND SLIDE CAUSES DAMAGE.

Naples, July 22.—A land slide here yesterday destroyed the dry dock which was built in 1900, and otherwise caused great damage.

BOMB KILLS SEVERAL.

AUTO AND COACH COLLIDE.

Aix Les Bains, July 22.—A stage coach collided with an automobile here yesterday. The occupants of the car were severely injured and minor injuries were sustained by the occupants of the automobile.

HAD AN ITEM.

The average man's idea of the value of news is curiously nebulous and out of line, says the New York Telegram.

Chris Hawthorne, the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, was walking toward his office the other afternoon, trying to fix something up in his mind wherewith to lead up to his story of the day in New York, when a wily excited man of his acquaintance grabbed him by the sleeve and whistled him away.

"Say, I've got the greatest piece of news ever," exclaimed the whistler excitedly.
"It's a sensation right! I'm the only man in town that knows about it except the newspaper editors. I've got it, and they won't peach! I've got a blasted good notion to give it to you exclusively, although I certainly ought to give it to the Associated Press—it's so big."
You know.

Mr. Hawthorne had heard this kind of a preamble, but nevertheless he thought that after all, the excited man might really have run into a piece of news worth listening to. "What is it?" he inquired, without, however, permitting the frayed perspiration to break out on his forehead. "Let's have it."

"Oh, it's a corker!" went on the man with the supple sash on his sleeve. "Can't give it to you here—somebody might overhear me. Let's go to

DROWNS MILL

C. H. Marr of Grand Rapids Talks of Backed Up Water.

Declares Mississippi Dams to Be Detriment to North Country.

Charles H. Marr, a leading merchant of Grand Rapids and owner of the townsite of Deer River, is in the city, having come down yesterday with the excursion which came in over the Great Northern. In speaking of the stories of the floods along the Mississippi and the attacks on the system of dams, Mr. Marr said that while there has been considerable sensational exaggeration in some newspapers regarding conditions, there is no doubt that the dams ought to go, as they are a detriment to the progress and settlement of the northern part of the state which they affect.

Mr. Marr says he does not know anything of the conditions around Altkin, Brahm and other places on the lower end of the Mississippi, but he does know the conditions on the upper end.
At Deer River he declares the Pillsbury & Joyce sawmill, which has been employing quite a number of men, is drowned out and the greater part of the work at the mill has been stopped.
This is caused by the breaking up of the dam on account of the dam at Pokegama Falls, which is between Grand Rapids and Deer River. The management of this mill is very sore over the affair, and while it was figuring on putting in a box factory to use up the product of the mill in the way of cut second-growth timber, there is now some doubt as to whether they can safely do so or not.

"This box factory, if it goes in, says Mr. Marr, would be of great aid to the country in the way of employing people and establishing a permanent industry and would make a market for second grade timber which can be used for nothing else but boxes and the like," said Mr. Marr.

"Thousands of acres are submerged all along the river and these bottom lands would make first-class farms which should be taken up and made into farms. It would be among the choicest selections were the water menaced away and would be sought after.
The system of dams is a detriment to the progress of the country and the presented conditions make would-be settlers from other farming districts hesitate about coming to this section. It is due to the mercy of the officials in charge of the district for the war department for one cannot tell what

COMMISSION RULE AMENDED

Duluth Board of Trade
Adopts Some New Provisions.

The Duluth Board of Trade has adopted amendments to the commission rule that are of considerable importance. The hours of trading have been limited to the hours of the session of the board and no trading in cash wheat outside of those hours or off the floor of the exchange is to be permitted.

Another amendment is that no member shall purchase from any one not a member of the board without charging and deducting from the purchase price this regular commission.
Members of the Superior Board of Trade will find this rule of more interest, probably, than any other persons. It has been a common practice for them to bring to Duluth in the afternoon during the busy season such grain as they could not get to the millers over there, who provide the only market for it, and sell it to members of the Duluth board. They were thus enabled to find a market for grain consisting to the return to the shipper deducting their commissions.

Now they will be cut off from doing this and if they want to sell to Duluth members must sell on the exchange and be charged the usual commission.

A. J. Pederson, of The Fair, Superior's popular dry goods store has just returned after a month's absence in the Eastern markets. Excessive and continued rains combined with the long
market in a very depressed condition.
Many orders had been cancelled, which wholesalers expected would be duplicated, and as a result many of their finest products have been sold at low prices. The Fair's special Tuesday sales for Duluth women have become a very popular feature. Owing to Mr. Pederson's absence they have been suspended for sometime. Next Tuesday, however, thrifty shoppers may fill all their needs with the greatest bargains in the history of the city. The entire stock being not a burglar, though all my work is done at night. Like an owl I rest at day time, usually in some dark closet, but I am really not ashamed to have the light turned on me. In fact, I am very good-looking, and in India, where my cradle stood, I can be seen at any time of the twenty-four hours, especially when the weather is hot.

My name is "Pajama," and I put people to sleep. Not only this, but I make their sleep restful and agreeable, so that they can enjoy walking in a pair of those special $1.95 Columbia Outing Pants, after they get up in the morning.

In case you wake up at night you need not fret about being seen if I am around—that is, around you. Some gay members of my family are on exhibition in the Columbia window, offering their services for $1.58. In Burrows' time it used to be $2.00. If you want to see me, meet me at

WHOLESALE ESCAPE OF PRISONERS PREVENTED

New York, July 22.—A report reached the city today that a well conceived plan for the wholesale delivery of military prisoners confined on Governor's island has been foiled by a sentry, who shot Frederick R. Snyder, a prisoner, who, with half a dozen others, tried to escape. Snyder was shot through the arm by the sentry.

The sound of the shot brought other soldiers to Snyder's aid, and the men who were trying to escape were soon subdued.

GAS PIPE LINE

Furnace Company May Supply Twin Cities With Commodity.

Plans Being Considered But Have Taken No Definite Form.

A possibility, even a probability, exists that at some time in the indefinite future, a gas pipe line will be established between Duluth and the Twin Cities, connecting the Zenith Blast Furnace company's plant at West Duluth with St. Paul and Minneapolis. Such a plan is now under consideration, but as yet it has taken no definite form, according to A. E. Wolvin, head of the local concern, and there is no certainty that, if the project were carried out, it could be made a success, because of the distance between the points of supply and demand.

The proposition has been "informally" discussed with the managers of the gas companies in St. Paul and Minneapolis. At Duluth recently Governor Johnson had a conversation with one of the stockholders of the furnace company, who mentioned that the company would like to dispose of surplus gas from the coke ovens by conveying it by pipe to the Twin Cities.

"As yet the plan has taken only the most indefinite form," said A. E. Wolvin today. "The idea was suggested by one of the stockholders at a meeting this year, and at first was hardly considered seriously, but later, I believe the matter was investigated somewhat. It was taken up, however, as a mere suggestion, and nothing was ever come of it. It is true enough that we would like to dispose of the superfluous gas from the West Duluth coke ovens in the manner mentioned, were such a thing possible, but we are not at all sure that such a thing is possible."

"The laying of gas pipes for a distance of more than 150 miles would be a big proposition. It might be a success and it might not. It will need a lot more investigation before it can be decided either way, but there certainly is a possibility of the project being carried through successfully. I know so little about it myself that I can say little more on the subject. Serious physical difficulties which would hinder the carrying out of the idea, must be given consideration, and then there must be an assurance that there would be a good market for the gas once we had succeeded in getting it to the Twin Cities. As yet this assurance is lacking."

C. W. Andrews, general manager of the furnace company, has been down here a couple of times and has talked to me and the Minneapolis company about the matter, but he has nothing to offer as yet. I can't say whether it is a good scheme or not; it's a long ways off. I can't say whether it would reduce the cost of gas here. It would be necessary to keep the plant here in readiness in case that something should happen to the pipe line which would act as a means of preventing the price being as low as it might be. Nothing definite has been done about the matter. I am not going to cross the bridge before I get to it."

Coal is one of the main expenses in operating a gas plant, and the saving in freight for carrying coal from Duluth to the Twin Cities would be considerable. The Zenith company is able to supply cheap gas because it is simply a by-product of the plant at West Duluth.

The West Duluth Rod and Gun club will meet Monday night to consider rules for the shoot which will decide the ownership of the cup presented by the Du Pont & Laffin people. The presentation of the cup by this firm and the contest which will result has attracted a great many new applications have come into the club and will be considered on Monday night.

The members of the club are doing some excellent shooting and a number of those who have been over the first time within the last few weeks are getting their gun sight and are doing shooting that is remarkable under the circumstances.

W. F. Hurst will soon have ready the medals which he will present to the club for a shoot.

WORKING ON DANGER POINT.

The city has put several men to work on the deserted foundation at Fifty-third avenue west and Ramsey street. The excavation is pretty well filled with water and the men have a pump working to empty it out. At this time it would seem to compare favorably with a hydraulic pump working on Lake Superior for the same purpose. The foundation is of stone and is from four to six feet high. Every rain has added to the depth of the water until there are three or four feet in the excavation and it has been an open danger to children playing in that neighborhood. It is hoped the work will be allowed to cease until the water is out and the excavation filled up.

WEST DULUTH CHURCHES.

At the Norwegian Lutheran Synod church, corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Gosnell street, there will be services tomorrow morning commencing at 10:30 conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. Wulfsberg, Jr. Sunday school will meet at 9:30 o'clock.

At Holy Apostles Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Ellnor street, morning prayer will be held at 9 o'clock. Evening prayer and sermon will be held at 8 p. m. The subject of the sermon which will be preached by the rector, Rev. Frederick J. Money, will be "The Old Paths."

At the Second Norwegian Danish M. E. church, whose services are conducted at Olson & Kauppi's hall, West Duluth, Rev. O. R. Staff will preach tomorrow morning and evening. All are cordially invited to attend these services.

Rev. W. J. Lowrie will preach at the Westminster Presbyterian church at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The subject of his sermon will be "The Church's Mission to the Outside World." There will be no evening service.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Troubles of the Miller Brothers With Numerous Indian Ranch Owners.

Suppose you had 250 landlords instead of one. Having supposed that much, go a step further and suppose in the 250 were in the habit of dropping in on you at unexpected times to get breakfast or dinner, says the New York Sun.

That's the predicament of Miller Bros., proprietors of the 101 Ranch, Bliss Ok. T.

The Miller ranch embraces 57,000 acres. Only about 10,000 acres are owned outright, the rest being leased from the Otoe, Ponca and Missouri Indians, whose lands were allotted a number of years ago. In their tribes are the 250 landlords.

If you are a guest at the Miller house your curiosity is bound to be aroused by the constant file of Indians, in wagons and on horseback, coming and going. They go around the house to the office, and you follow presently to ascertain what is the trouble. Spotted Tail, fat and dirty, has just come in. He seems to be a cigar sign, gazing fixedly at a little torn place in the wall paper in the northwest corner of the office. After what seems an age he moves and looks at George Miller, the office manager, who appears as unconscious of Spotted Tail's presence as Spotted Tail seemed unconscious of yours. Then, for thirty minutes more, he scrutinizes the south wall, after which he grunts. Mr. Miller awakens to the fact that there is an Indian in the room.

Spotted Tail desires to collect his lease money. Mr. Miller gets down the books and proceeds to show that Spotted Tail has been paid already. The Indian grunts, but says nothing. It isn't his time to talk, and he knows it. He resumes his favorite cigar sign attitude.

Spotted Tail's allotment has been leased at a figure which permits Miller Bros. to be generous to him. Mr. Miller hands him $2.

With his eyes riveted on a newly-discovered defect in the wall paper, Spotted Tail automatically slips the $2 into a pocket concealed beneath his blanket, and then he sits again. The performance is not over. Hoinka Shoinka, meaning "Little Boy of Little Voice," the Indian name for Joe Miller, president of the ranch corporation, is his father, and a father should feed his children. After a while he is told to go over to the cowboy dining hall and get his dinner.

"Hardly a day passes," said George Miller, "that we do not have twenty-five to thirty Indians in to dinner. Sometimes there are more, seldom less, and on unexpected occasions they all come. We never can tell when or how many are going to call for a meal. They keep our Chinese cook on the ragged edge of nervous prostration."

"The heaviest strain on our hospitality is right after there have been a number of deaths among the Indians. The bereaved Indian always gives away everything he possesses to show his sorrow, and then he comes to us for food and a financial lift. It's the sort of thing you must expect when you lease Indian lands. The land we lease produces enough to enable us to treat the Indians handsomely. This year we have 9,000 acres of wheat and 3,700 acres of corn. There are on the ranch 15,000 head of cattle, 800 hogs and 300 suckling pigs; and the daily take of eggs from the poultry yard is about 130 dozen. So we are never pressed for want of things to feed our Indian landlords."

WEATHERCOCKS.

A contemplative individual, with some power of observation, was asking about weathercocks, says Success. "Why weathercocks?" he asked. "Most vane are in the form of arrows. Sometimes they are hands that point with the index finger in the direction toward which the wind is blowing; a running horse is quite popular as a vane; fish, trumpets, locomotives, and many other forms are used, but I seldom if ever see vane, except in pictures, that can with any propriety be called weathercocks."

I referred the matter by note to our mutual friend, Dr. Detail, and received the following reply: "The ninth century was a time of extreme ignorance among all countries which now lead in civilization. An authentic account of the controversies, political, social and religious, that then occupied Europe, would make a curious and interesting list of reading. In England, the question of how persons who devoted their lives to religion should wear their hair, and at what particular Sunday they should celebrate Easter, became so bitter that the conversion of that part of the Saxon people who still remained pagans fell into neglect, and even those that had been won from idolatry showed signs of apostatizing. "At this time, by a papal order, it was enacted that the figure of a cock should be set upon churches, in order to put the people in mind of Peter's denial of our Savior and of his unfeigned repentance, thus at once admonishing those who would renounce the Savior and offering forgiveness to the penitent apostle."

If a merchant fails to make it worth your while to read his advertisement he wastes his space. Space costs money; and very little of it is wasted. Therefore it is usually "worth your while" to read any store-advertisement.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH

TO SUBSCRIBERS:

It is important when desiring the address of your paper changed, to give both old and new addresses.

BONAPARTE AND MORTON.

Returning his railroad passes is not the only little thing of interest Mr. Bonaparte, the new secretary of the navy, has done which indicates his intention of doing the right thing by the people. He has been very discreditable to Paul Morton, his immediate predecessor, but his indiscretion is one that the people will readily forgive.

It seems that contractors at the Charleston, S. C., navy yard were building boats for the government. There were a couple of inspectors that the navy department had put over the work, and they undertook to make the contractors do it properly.

The next thing they knew they were removed from the work, by order of Secretary Morton.

The next thing they knew they were put back on the same job by order of Secretary Bonaparte, who had succeeded Secretary Morton.

This reversal of his predecessor's order is the indiscretion referred to, which might be taken as involving a lack of courtesy to Mr. Morton. But between these incidents that came to the attention of the inspectors who were the pawns in this little game there were other things that are partly known, partly guessed at. It is understood that the contractors did not like to have inspectors interfering with their work, and that their idea of an inspector was that he should go back under the shade of a tree and go to sleep, letting the contractors get as far from the plans and specifications as they wanted to. So they are supposed to have complained, and worked a pull strong enough to induce Secretary Morton to take the inspectors off the work.

When Secretary Bonaparte came in it turned out that his ideas of what an inspector ought to do were different from those of Mr. Morton and the contractors, so he put the two inspectors back to work again.

Somewhat, while the incident does not help to bear out the president's praise of Mr. Morton, it certainly does help create confidence in Mr. Bonaparte. Say rather that it adds to the confidence already felt in him. It is very enlightening as to the wide difference in the viewpoint of the two men, Morton and Bonaparte.

THE MAN THAT THINKS.

Ever prominent and ever admirable is the man that thinks, and, thinking, acts.

Everybody has been in a crowd when something happened. Most of the crowd stood open-mouthed and paralyzed by emotions, either fear or horror, while one man acted. It is generally that way. There is almost always one man in a crowd that thinks. There is seldom more than one—two at the very most.

Often the thing to be done is so obvious it sticks right out, and those who did not act mentally kick themselves for a week that they did not see it and become the hero of the occasion, instead of the man that did. A woman's clothes catch fire, for instance. The crowd stands about or runs about in impotent horror. One man grasps a rug or a blanket, rolls the woman in it, puts out the flames, saves her life, and is a hero. He thought, and, thinking, acted. There was probably nobody in that crowd that did not know a fire could be put out that way. But they did not think. In a crisis their reasoning powers were paralyzed. Afterwards they thought: "Of course, that was the thing to do. Why didn't I do it myself, and have people talking about my presence of mind, instead of admiring that Smith?"

"Presence of mind." That is what it is called by time-honored custom. Some current expressions don't mean much, but this is not one of them. "Presence of mind" is just what is required. In a contingency nine out of ten men seem to have left their minds home on the piano, and to have fared forth upon the street without any. One man in the crowd happened to bring his along, and he thinks of some simple, perfectly obvious thing, and becomes a hero.

The man that thinks, and that carries his mind along with him, is always useful, always needed, always sure of his chance to become a hero. He is the leader, the man in the emergency, the man who does things while mindless men stand around and gape and get in the way.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES.

While discussions of any sort are pursued but languidly during the heated term, at all times the "mail order merchant" is a live topic with the country press, and all over the state the newspapers are appealing to the public to stand by the local merchants who help pay taxes and support local institutions, instead of playing into the hands of the big Chicago houses that have no connection with the community beyond the profits they reap from the business they can get there.

There is no doubt about the duty of the citizens of a community in this respect. The country papers are eternally right, and they are to be highly commended for this patriotic stand, especially when in many cases it is clearly a one-sided obligation, as the country merchant, while expecting the country newspaper man to stand up for him in season and out of season, often holds back in the traces when the country newspaper man asks him to do his share by advertising.

The first duty of the citizen is toward his home community. It may seem that when he can buy an article 2 cents cheaper in Chicago than he can at home that he is economizing by doing his buying in Chicago. But this is false economy. Though it may cost him 2 cents more to do his trading at home, his money all stays at home, and sooner or later some of it, that extra 2 cents and some besides, is going to drift back his way. But if he sends his money to Chicago, he keeps 2 cents at home and the rest goes away, never to return. He must not lose sight of the fact that the Chicago house is never going to contribute a cent toward local taxation or toward any local purpose.

In a sense, the home community is a co-operative enterprise, in the profits of which each individual shares. He is a sort of a partner in the home grocery, the home dry goods store, the home hardware store, and by patronizing them instead of a Chicago house that sells all of these things and many besides he reaps ultimately a share of the profit, because the money stays at home and circulates instead of going away to help some other community. To see the injustice of the patronage of mail order houses in the small community one has only to carry it out to the point where everybody buys his goods abroad, and the home merchant has to go out of business, leaving the purchasers to bear alone the expenses of running the schools, building the roads and running the local government.

So the country editor who stands up for the home merchant is doing a good work. But the way the mail order houses attract the business of those who should buy from you, Mr. Country Merchant, is by advertising. You have the same way open to you through the local paper. Not as a matter of charity to the local editor, but as a matter of business and of profit to yourself, you should advertise, and attract the trade to yourself instead of sitting back and sulking and letting the country editor do all the fighting.

THE BIBLE'S INFLUENCE.

The influence of the Bible upon civilization has been enormous, and in spite of popular impressions to the contrary, that influence is growing every day in every part of the world. Practically all law, all rules of human conduct, all principles of human government that are worth enduring are based upon the admonitions of the Book that is the lawbook of Christianity.

Professor Goldwin Smith recently expressed a notion that is very commonly accepted when he said that the influence of Christian teaching is dying out. That notion is wholly mistaken. Never was that influence so strong and so productive of good as it is today. President Roosevelt's terse declaration for "a square deal" is the evolution of Christian influence. It is nothing more or less than the Golden Rule in other words. To do unto others as you would have them do unto you is to give "a square deal."

The Bible, according to London publishers, is still the "best selling book." Editions of popular novels run into thousands of copies, an almost incredible number of many of them being sold. Every year there are several that run into hundreds of thousands, besides hundreds of novels that reach into thousands and tens of thousands. Yet the publishers say that the annual sales of the Bible exceed in number the combined sales of all the popular novels of the day.

Some people may buy the Bible simply to have it on show, but most people buy it to read. Aside from its vital tenets, it is still the greatest literary work ever put forth, and the world is reading it with appreciation and reverence. While its literary excellences may tempt the scholar, the vast majority of people buy it for love of its doctrines. The discouraged view of the influence of its teachings doubtless comes from the myriad revelations of man's weaknesses that the public prints are giving, but this, instead of being a discouraging sign, is highly encouraging. The publications of these revelations is moulding a public sentiment against against them that will ultimately result in reducing many of them to a minimum.

THE DIME NOVEL.

The blood and thunder novel, the delight of the youthful and the bane of the careful parent, has been banished from the Pennsylvania railroad, which brings up for discussion once more the question of just how potential for mischief the cheap thriller may be.

The officers of the Pennsylvania are testifying to their belief that the yellow-back is harmful by their action in decreeing that its pages shall no more be seen on the trains and in the stations of the railroad. They regard such fiction as highly productive of crime, and they do not wish to be even passively a party to the promotion of crime.

Opinions of this character are becoming more plentiful every day, and they seem to be well grounded. Everybody has heard stories of boys who have started out to emulate the careers of the heroes of the penny dreadfuls they have read. The danger comes from the light that is thrown around deeds of desperate daring in these stories, many of which make the life of a desperado seem wonderfully attractive to the callow mind of youth.

In others a high moral plane is assumed, and virtue always triumphs while villainy is overthrown. There are many so-called dime novels which paint crime in horrid colors, while E. W. Hornung's "Raffles," which can by no means be classed among the cheap thrillers, gives the deeds of the well-dressed burglar who is its hero an attractive setting. Recently a gang of youthful criminals was discovered in New York whose members made "Raffles" their pattern.

This makes it evident that the element of danger is not altogether confined to the cheap novels, but it is merely the exception that proves the rule. Most of the dime novel class are pernicious and dangerous, and the best of them from the standpoint of interest are the most dangerous.

There are few grown men who need go beyond their own experience to realize the mischievous possibilities of this class of fiction. They will remember the days when such stories had a fascination for them, and when they used to steal away to the attic or the haymow to plunge with absorbed interest into the thrilling pages of forbidden literature. They may not have started out upon a life of crime as a result of this reading, but most of them will confess to periods when they would have hailed with delight a chance to emulate the examples of some of their paper-covered heroes.

Such literature can only appeal to the immature mind, but a mind in that condition is sensitive to impressions, and the impressions of the penny dreadful are dangerous. "The thoughts of youth are long, low thoughts," and who shall say how much or how little the youthful reading of a morbid class of tales may have affected the mind and character of men who think they have long outgrown their effects? The reading of a boy or a girl has much to do with the formation of their characters, and parents can hardly be too careful what sort of tastes are cultivated in the minds of their children.

JEKYLL AND HYDE.

The scale of humanity is a long one, and it runs from the heights reached only by angels down to depths frequented only by devils. Frequently in the same individual will be found elements belonging to both extremes. And it cannot be doubted that in every human being there is both good and bad. No one is so bad that he contains no good, and none is so good that there is not a little of bad in him somewhere. For that is humanity.

Not long ago a man named Totterman murdered a woman in New York, for which crime he was condemned to death in the electric chair. The murder was particularly atrocious, vicious and unpardonable—a deed which no one but a fiend could have done. Yet Governor Higgins of New York commuted the sentence to life imprisonment, because he found something besides fiend in the man's nature.

Totterman, the governor discovered, held a medal from congress for bravery on the battlefield Iowa in the battle of Santiago. He held another congressional medal for bravery elsewhere during the Spanish-American war. He had a medal awarded him for saving lives at sea. In short, he was what the world calls a hero.

Yet he killed a woman, killed her coldly, brutally, deliberately, in cold blood.

It is the story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde over again. And while some people see but a story in Robert Louis Stevenson's novel of that name, it is much more—it is an allegory. It pictures the strife between the good and the evil in a man's life. Dr. Jekyll is the good side, predominant at first. Mr. Hyde is the evil side, which grows more and more into mastery, as it is yielded to, until finally it becomes uppermost, and buries in oblivion all trace of gentle Dr. Jekyll.

It was the Mr. Hyde in this man Totterman that killed the woman. It was the Dr. Jekyll that risked his life to save men and that earned two congressional medals for bravery. It was the Mr. Hyde in him that was sentenced to die, and it was for the sake of the Dr. Jekyll in him that the governor granted life.

Every man contains the same elements, and he can make of himself whatever he will. He may become Dr. Jekyll or Mr. Hyde, as he chooses.

GOOD FOR McAVOY.

Wide attention is being drawn to the New York blackmail case, wherein one Ahle is accused of holding up prominent people for $500 subscriptions to a foolish and snobbish book, threatening to print in a society publication scandalous stories about them if they did not subscribe. Great admiration is felt and widely expressed for E. P. Post, the man who nibbled at Ahle's hook just enough to land Ahle behind prison bars and bring him before the courts. It took some nerve for him to trap the alleged blackmailer, particularly as he had been threatened with some sort of exposure if he failed to subscribe. Naturally he must have realized the greater danger of the publication of this story, whatever it is, connected with his task of exposing the blackmailers.

But the finest thing about the whole affair is the way Magistrate McAvoy of New York, before whom Ahle's hearing was held, sought to protect Mr. Post from such exposure, and to eliminate the danger of this contingency from the situation.

Mr. Post, pursuant to his resolution to perform a duty to society by exposing and assisting to punish the blackmailers, was on the stand under cross-examination, and Ahle's lawyer was trying to humiliate him by compelling him to tell in court the story that Ahle had threatened to publish.

"I am not going to permit you to make such an exhibition of this witness," said the court, "or to bring out any scandalous story. It makes no difference to the court whether the story was true or false; if the defendant attempted to extract money from Mr. Post in that manner, that is all the court needs or cares to know."

This was indeed a Daniel come to judgment. It was a proper rebuke to Ahle's lawyer, and a proper protection for Mr. Post. It is somewhat discouraging that such tactics as that of the lawyer are quite in accordance with legal ethics, but they appear to be. It is also a little unpleasant that such an expression from the court should be unusual, but it is.

Mr. Post is to be highly commended for the risk he is taking to punish a despicable crime, and Magistrate McAvoy is entitled to unstinted praise for his common-sense view of the matter and his protection of the witness.

THE FIELD SURVEY.

Theatrical note—H. H. Rogers is still playing the role of heavy villain in T. Lawson's celebrated melodrama, "Frenzied Finance."

Hotel Gossip.

"Seattle has grown so rapidly that it has been found necessary to fill in a part of Puget sound to afford sufficient room for new industries," said Walker Gregory of Hibbing, just returned from the Portland fair and other Pacific coast points, at the St. Louis. "From mud flats to manufacturing sites is a long leap, but in no part of the city has there been more enterprise shown than in the broad area of filled-in lands."

Ten years ago the lands that are now eagerly sought for manufacturing sites were covered with water at high tide, and at low tide vast stretches of mud flats were visible for miles. Today they represent future pre-eminence for Seattle as a manufacturing center, and land there brings surprisingly high prices.

"Forest fires are now making a lot of trouble over the country," said Gregory, although they are not doing as much damage as in previous years. There has been some trouble over the appointment of fire wardens, however, and the matter was being agitated by the Seattle papers while he was out there. It seems that every former game warden acted as fire warden also, but under a recent act of the legislature the appointment of these wardens was taken out of the hands of the county commissioners and delegated to a state warden, whose duty is supposed to be to divide the state into districts and assign deputies with power to patrol them. The state has been slow in acting, however, and the warden, who has been back here in Minnesota. They say that every summer, along some parts of the Pacific coast, the smoky haze from forest fires is so thick as to resemble a perpetual fog, shutting off all long-distance views."

"It is said the harvest will be late this year, but many of the men who intend to work in the harvest fields have already started west," said R. T. Olcott of Fargo, N. D., who has been about the same time of the year they begin to get disatisfied with the work they have been at, and with the low scale of wages, those of them who have been at work, at least. Not a few of the harvesters do practically nothing all summer except work in the fields. The remainder of the time they set the part of the hobo, and in the winter they work in the woods. This gives them enough money to carry them through the winter when they have made up their mind that they were going to work in the harvest fields, and the result is that the harvest is a lot of them. There are probably more gainers among the harvesters than among any other class of workmen. The reason is not far from the surface. The harvest is a money-making life to the majority, who are used to making their special business to visit the harvest fields every year and put in their time in the harvest fields. They are not the class of men who are playing many of the men who have been in the fields, but really to beat the unsuspecting of their hard earned wages. The harvesters make good money, and when they get into the harvest fields, they sometimes run pretty well, considering the class of men who are playing. PROGRESS OF WORK ON ST. LOUIS RIVER WATER POWER Magnitude of the Project Can Be Realized Only By Personal Inspection.

Gigantic Undertaking That Must Actually Be Seen To Be Appreciated.

During the past few days quite a number of Duluth people have taken advantage of the pleasant weather to drive or go by rail to Thomson, where the construction of the big dam and other work connected with the development of the St. Louis river power by the Great Northern Power company is under way. No person who has not been an eye witness of the work going on can form an adequate idea of the magnitude of the project from a mere word description. It is one of those gigantic undertakings that must actually be seen to be appreciated.

Standing on one of the big retaining walls of the proposed reservoir, just above the dam, and gazing over the wide expanse of country below and back for at least a mile, now dotted with trees, houses, workshops, offices, low lying hills covered, swamp lands and meadows, back almost as far as the eye will reach, one can hardly realize that the big concrete structure that is fast pushing its way across the St. Louis river torrent will, when it is completed, and its gates are closed, cause the water from the immense area of country drained above, to fill up this reservoir which nature seems to have purposely avoided. Where all these buildings, trees, hills, etc., now stand, a time is coming slowly, but surely, when these things will be obliterated, and the landscape will present another view, a large lake, about a mile square, and with an average depth of twenty-five feet, representing commercially a tremendous store of potential energy which, used according to the plans of the power company, is to mean so much to the future growth and prosperity of Duluth and surrounding towns or cities.

In picture No. 1 is shown a portion of this natural barrier which is to form part of the retaining wall, joining the west end of the dam, in the distance where the derrick is seen. The figures on the top of the embankment are then employed to cut it down to a level with the top of the concrete dam, so that it will be an outlet for surplus water in case of an overflow. All the ground to the left of this wall, as far back as can be seen in the picture, looking toward Thomson, and a vast area which cannot be seen, represents what will eventually be a part of the reservoir, and will be under water, averaging twenty-five feet in depth.

Picture No. 2 is an excellent representation of the retaining wall at the east side and the portions of the dam proper that have already been completed out in the river bed. The timber protection work seen on the concrete sections has all been removed in the past few days. The view was taken from the reservoir side. The first gap in the wall at the left is the opening left for the waste gates of iron construction which will be in place within the next two weeks, the foundation having been completed underneath the water rushing through. This work was protected by a cofferdam, but the recent high water in the river caused the floor to sweep away the cofferdam, and through this opening was washed a large quantity of debris and other material that had collected against the dam.

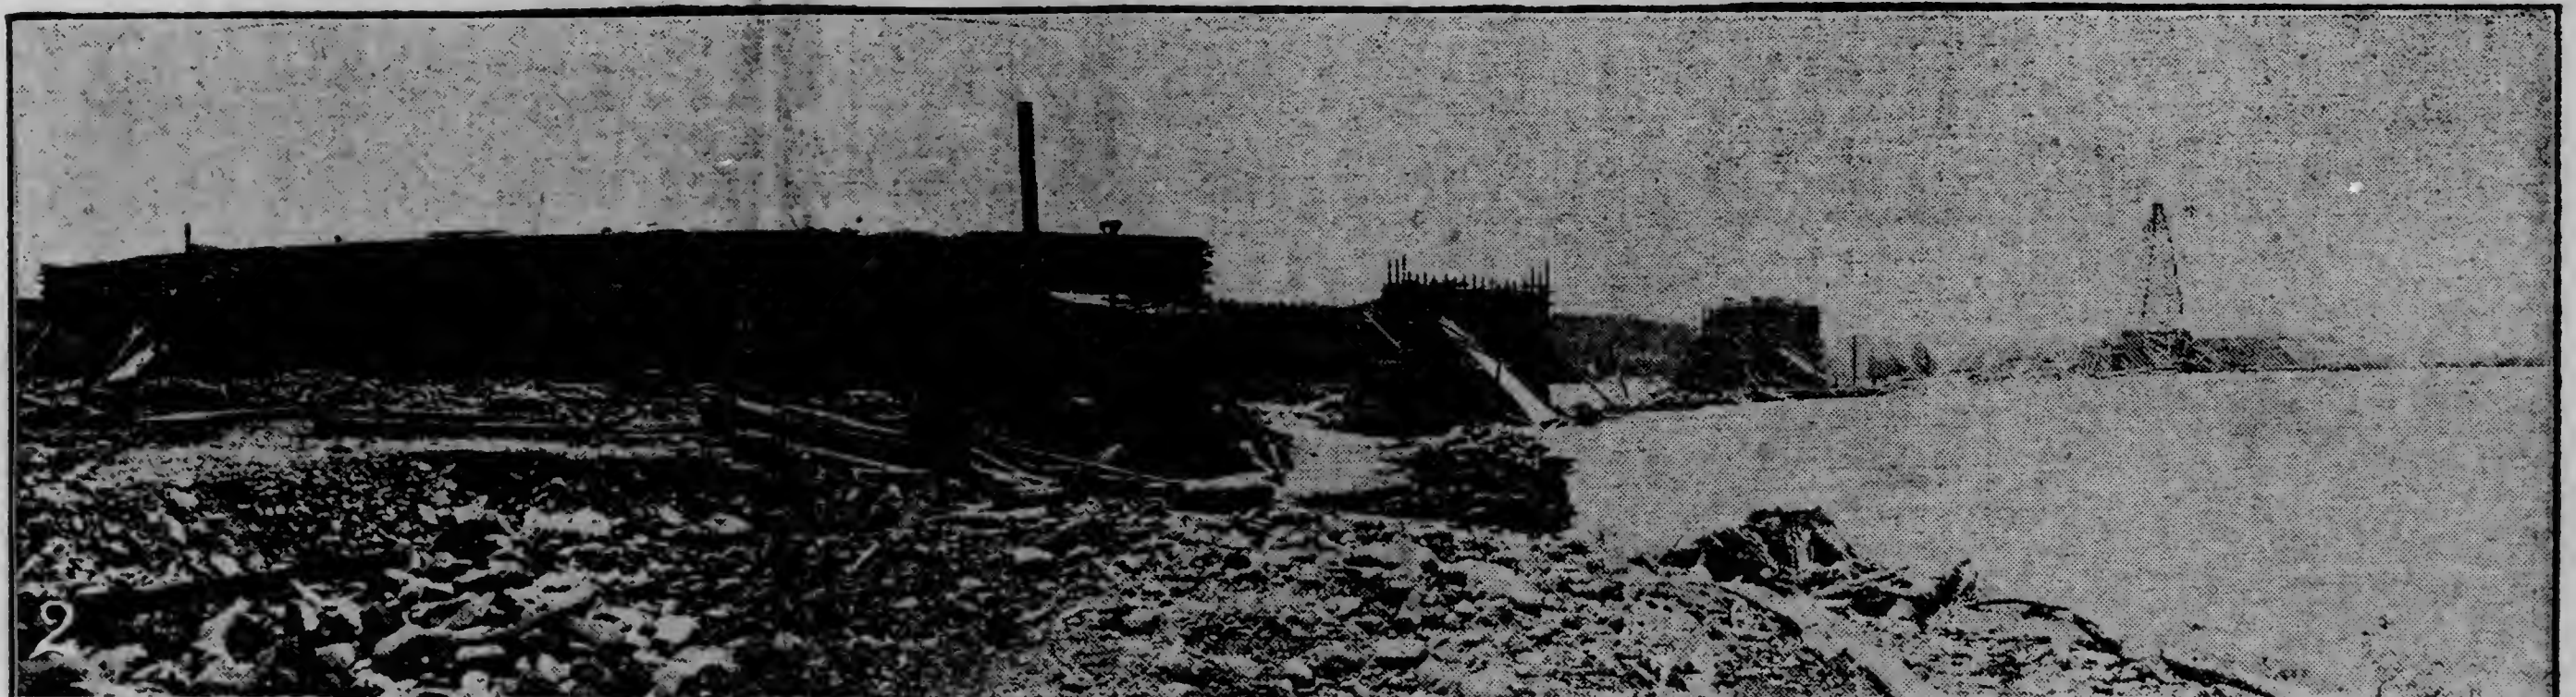

Another temporary cofferdam is now being constructed just above this opening to the remains of the old cofferdam, to shut off the water while the waste gates are being placed. The second from the left will be filled in with a section of the concrete dam, the foundations being already in. But the superstructure will not be completed there until the farther large opening on the west side is built across with a section of the concrete dam. The second large opening is to be left until the very last to provide ample outlet for water, in addition to the waste gate opening, in case of another flood. Overhead and running from a high derrick on the left side to the derrick on the west bank is a cable railway, over which passes the complete mixture and other materials necessary for the construction of the dam.

The retaining wall and portions of the dam here shown are forty feet high, and the dam, when completed, will be 600 feet long.

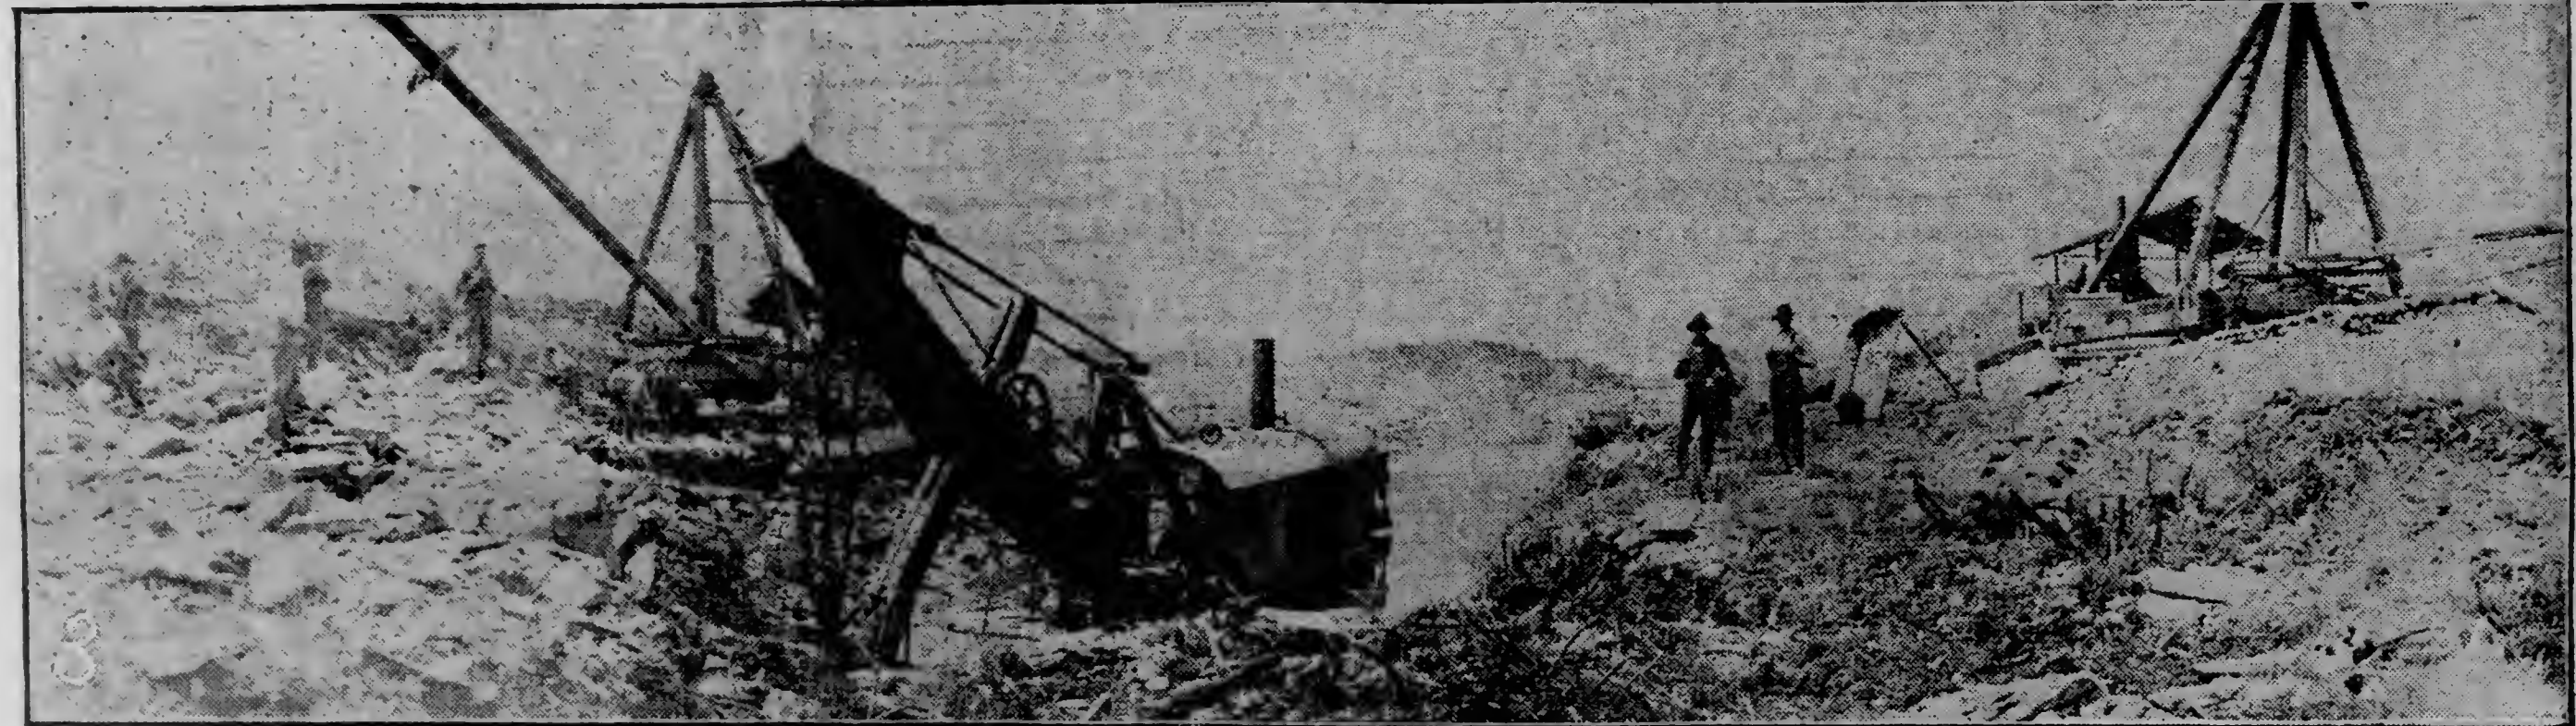

Another interesting view of the work is shown in picture No. 3, which represents the east end of the canal, at the Thomson reservoir, where the headgates will be located. Down in the excavation already made, and tearing its way into the bank ahead, is one of the powerful steam shovels operated by Porter Bros. At the left and right of the shovel are derricks with immense 80-foot boomsticks of Oregon fir, which pick up the material cut out by the shovel and swing it far out, to be dumped away from the canal. Back of the steam shovel the canal is filled with water. During the recent heavy rains, Millway creek, which empties into St. Louis river at Thomson, was flooded and the surplus water backed up in the canal.

RURAL HIGH SCHOOL A NEW FEATURE IN THE WORK OF MINNESOTA SCHOOLS

School To Be Erected At Crookston On State Experiment Farm.

Instructions To Be Given In Agriculture and Domestic Economy.

Crookston, Minn., July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new feature in the work of Minnesota schools and in Western education, which is to be launched by the state of Minnesota at Crookston this fall by the erection and equipment of a well arranged and ideally constructed set of college buildings at the state experiment farm north of this city, will be one of the most important departures in an educational line in years in the North Star state. The school is for the people and the wants of the people will mold the character of the institution. The institution must necessarily be a result of the co-operation of the parties having the school in charge and the people who live in the territory adjacent to the school. The school must and will adjust itself to the needs of the people in the particular district in which it is located. And in this fact lies the elementary principle of the recent Bennett bill authorizing the erection of the school here is an offspring. The conditions of the southern portion of the state in which the St. Anthony school is located, the school is located are totally foreign to the conditions existing in the northern and even in the central portion of Minnesota. Of necessity, therefore, the young men and women from the farms of other sections of the state who journey to the St. Anthony school find part of the learning acquired there of little or no value to them when returning to their own farm homes. Thus the system of having smaller colleges throughout the various sections of the state is introduced, and it is believed the system will prove very effective when once its work is appreciated and its objects understood.

The law provides for instruction in such studies as "are related to agriculture and domestic economy." This will include studies in agronomy, horticulture, live stock, farm mechanics, cooking, laundrying, etc. These are all studies with which every farmer or every farmer's wife should be familiar. While the law provides for instruction in agriculture and domestic economy, it does not mean to exclude the common branches now studied in our schools.

A normal child always is active. Why not make use of this activity and direct the youthful mind into channels of usefulness? asks a prominent educator of this section who has studied the question. This question is just exactly what the new rural college idea is answering. The youthful mind will be trained and at the same time made to perform active work in the branches pursued. Industrial work will be a prominent feature of the school life of the students in the new college. The cottage system of housing the pupils will be adopted. That is the students will be divided into groups each group being assigned to a "cottage" or small residence erected on the grounds for the exclusive use of the young men and women who will attend. Of course, the inhabitants of the cottages will be of one sex in each individual student home. The co-operative system of caring for the cottages and providing meals and such things will be carried out. Members of the state board of regents will visit this city Aug. 1 to lay out the grounds for the new college and work upon the buildings. It is expected, will be started early in that month. The students enrolled in the school will assist the state in that while they are receiving instruction in farm work they will be employed upon the farm at the various bits of farm work which will be required at various seasons of the year. This arrangement will provide an abundance of labor for the farm at practically no cost whatever.

The salaries of the professors and teachers at the college has been made a portion of the regular experiment farm budget.

TESTIMONY OF PUG DOG

New Orleans, July 22.—A pug dog was the witness who caused a suit to be settled in quick order in the civil district court. Judge Henry L. Lazarus and George J. Thomas both claimed to be the owners of the dog. The members and servants of both the families interested were present as witnesses. The dog was also in court.

Judge Lazarus considered that he had won his case when on the stand he told of a peculiar formation on one of the dog's toe nails, but Judge R. H. Downing decided to put the dog on the stand. He was put on a chair, and Judge Lazarus was told to call him. The pug never moved, and eyed the judge in a most supercilious manner. Then Miss Thomas, a sister of the defendant, was given her chance. When she called, the dog made one leap for her, and seemed overjoyed to see her. Then the old darky, cook of the Thomas family, was brought in and the pug gave further demonstrations of joy.

Judge Downing awarded the dog to the Thomas family on the dog's own evidence.

THE DEDICATION OF MASONIC TEMPLE

By the Blue Lodges Will Probably Take Place During Last Week In August—Will Be An Elaborate Affair.

The dedication of the Masonic Temple by the blue lodges will probably take place during the last week in August. A good many have thought that the ceremonies in connection with the new temple were over when the Scottish Rites consecrated their auditorium at Easter. That merely meant that the auditorium was fitted for Scottish Rite uses. The blue lodges have never dedicated more than the blue room, and it is necessary under the Masonic laws that before the Temple as a whole could be used for any blue lodge function, the whole temple must be dedicated. The Masonic code lays it down with no equivocation that where a building is used exclusively for Masonic purposes it must be dedicated.

The start on plans for the affair is just being made. It is likely that the first step toward arranging anything definite in the matter will be made by the lodge when it meets next Monday night. Pastime lodge will not hold a regular meeting until Aug. 7, but it is likely to take action then. It is quite probable that the two lodges will appoint committees with power to act about the matter.

The dedication will be a very elaborate affair. It must be conducted by the officers of the grand lodge of the state under direction of the grand master. This will be arranged for first in order that the grand officers may officiate here at the time.

It is proposed to make the occasion an extraordinary one. The annual reunion of the lodges in this district will take place at the same time in order that the visitors from the various lodges in this district may be present at the dedication of the temple and meet the officers of the grand lodge. There are ten lodges in the district—the three at Duluth and one each at Tower, Virginia, Eveleth, Hibbing, Cloquet, Grand Rapids and Two Harbors. Each autumn a gathering of Masons from all over the district takes place. This is not a custom of Masonry but is distinctly a feature of the Duluth district where it has proven very successful and helpful ever since Sheldon L. Frazer started the custom four years ago while he was district deputy grand master. The attendance from outside lodges has become larger every year and it is expected that this year the capacity of the new temple will receive a test.

It is expected that the third degree will be worked in the afternoon by Euclid lodge of West Duluth or shared with one of the other local lodges. Sup-

STORY OF A FAMOUS DIAMOND

How the Regent Came Into the Possession of the Duke of Orleans.

One of the most beautiful diamonds in the world is the Regent, says the "Jeweler's Circular Weekly." It belongs to France. Besides its dimensions, which are considerable, it united various qualities which further augment its value. When rough it weighed 40 carats. Its present weight is only 136 carats. Its cutting, which is of great excellence, required two years of work. It was valued in 1791 at 12,000,000 francs. This diamond was purchased in the rough state by the grandfather of William Pitt for 35,000 francs. The duke of Orleans, then regent of France, acquired it in 1771 for the sum of 3,250,000 francs.

According to St. Simon, who gives an interesting recital of the purchase of the stone, there is quite a different version from that ordinarily accepted: "Through an extremely rare opportunity an employe in the diamond mines of the grand mogul was able to extract one of very large size. He found means of embezzling and reaching Europe with his diamond. He took it to England, where the king admired it without, however, deciding to buy it. A model of glass was made in England and the man was sent with the diamond and model to Law, who proposed to sell it to the regent for the king. The price fixated the regent, who refused to buy it."

"The state of the finances was an obstacle on which the regent insisted. He feared incurring censure for so large a purchase, while there was trouble in providing for the most pressing necessities, and many people were left in suffering." "I applauded this sentiment, but I said to him that it was not suitable to exercise the same economy for the greatest king of Europe as for a private individual. That the honor of the crown should be considered and the opportunity of procuring a diamond which would eclipse all per will be served at 6 o'clock and after supper the ladies will be admitted to the ceremony of dedication which will be followed by a ball. These arrangements, however, will be attended to by the lodges soon.

The Duluth Masonic lodges have a high standing in the state and are repeatedly complimented for their energy and work by the grand officers. In the report of the grand secretary for last year it was stated that Ionic lodge No. 186 of Duluth had the largest net gain of any lodge in the state and that Minneapolis, No. 19, which was a few years ago the largest in the world, was second in net gain. Hugh R. Burgo was master of Ionic lodge last year and to him the credit is due. This year, up to date, under Worshipful Master W. D. Underhill, Ionic lodge is far ahead of all previous records. Palestine is also making a splendid showing and at West Duluth, Euclid lodge is doing remarkably well and it is likely before long will erect a temple of its own for blue lodge and chapter work.

Others in Europe should not be left. I did not leave the duke of Orleans until I had obtained the promise that the diamond should be purchased. Law, before speaking to me, had represented to the possessor of the diamond that it would be impossible to procure the stone that he had hoped for, and the loss that would be occasioned by breaking it up into pieces, so that the price had been reduced to 2,000,000 francs, including the scraps that would come from the cutting. The bargain was concluded in this way. The interest of 2,000,000 francs was paid until the whole amount could be raised, and in the meantime 2,000,000 francs in precious stones was hypothecated."

In the celebrated robbery at the Garde Meuble in 1792, this stone was stolen and concealed behind a roof timber of a barn. As a result of a proclamation it was recovered by a municipal officer named Sergeant.

The regent was the most beautiful jewel in the coronation crown of King Louis XV. Later, it was held by Napoleon, a banker, as a pledge for his advances. A historian of the times states that the wife of the banker took the opportunity of wearing it while it was in her husband's possession.

The diamond in his turn pledged the regent of the Batavian government to procure the funds which were lacking after the ill-fated Brumaire. Later he ornamented his Austerlitz sword with the celebrated diamond, which, in the words of Voltaire, might well have dispensed with the ornament.

A shotgun recently manufactured by a Connecticut firm was a special order for a man who uses his left eye to aim with, the right eye being sightless. The stock and lower frame of the gun were twisted so that he may shoot without discomfort. The gun is the third made for this man in the last twenty-five years.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE LYCEUM

The Pollard Lilliputian Opera Company to Play a Return Engagement, Beginning August 1.

The Pollard Lilliputian Opera company will return to the Lyceum theater Tuesday, Aug. 1, and will open in that delightful musical comedy, "The Belle of New York," which made such a big hit when last presented here by the company. "An American Millionaire" will also be given here for the first time. There is an impression in the minds of some people that a performance by children is one of the things that can be tolerated once in a while as a sort of ponce, but those who have witnessed the work done by these little artists agree that it is equal to that of any adult company.

The repertoire here will be as follows: Tuesday night, "The Belle of New York," Wednesday night, "An American Millionaire," Thursday night, "A Gypsy Girl," Friday night and Saturday matinee, "An American Millionaire." The same popular prices will prevail.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Richard Golden To Play Leading Role In Ade's New Comedy, "The Bad Samaritan"—Raymond Hitchcock In the Milk Business—Nella Bergen Goes Into Vaudeville.

New York, July 22.—Richard Golden has been engaged by Henry W. Savage to play the leading role in the new George Ade comedy, "The Bad Samaritan," which will be given at the Lyceum theater at the Garden theater. Mr. Golden will assume the part of Isaac Gridley, a retired dealer in hides and tallow, whose efforts to be philanthropic are always misunderstood by unappreciative friends, hence the title "The Bad Samaritan." The manuscript of this, the latest Ade comedy, has been finished and turned over to Mr. Savage. The first performance will be given in Washington, where "The College Widow" had its premiere, and later the "Bad Samaritan" will be brought to the Garden theater, New York city.

Raymond Hitchcock, who is shortly to appear in a new play called "Easy Money," has purchased a cottage at Great Neck, L. I., and, like a true ruralite, immediately proceeded to try to live everything that is good in the country. He wanted country life but did not want to be removed too much from the amenities of the city, so he had a telephone put in, electric lights installed, and, best of all, three cows for his barn. Mr. Hitchcock takes considerable delight in his barn, which is really an architectural wonder—white roof, rustic style of windows and stable for the cows.

When the bill for the cows was presented, the comedian was surprised to find that the price of the bovines was as much as it had cost him to erect the barn, and, despite the stock dealer's explanation that the animals were the finest Jerseys the company was "amused."

A few weeks ago he gave a house opening with a dance, in old-time style, out in the barn. At one end of the second floor of the barn was a long table filled to overflowing with bottles of "lateral fluid" teased from the resident cows, that had cost him so much money, as the comedian expressed it. Distributed down the table was an array of the finest champagne that could be bought. As the merry party were seated, the comedian said:

"Folks, we have here both milk and champagne. Help yourselves to either, for they cost me the same amount of money."

"The people of the South are strong in their allegiance to the memory of their great generals who fought and bled under the Stars and Bars," said Jess Dandy of the "Prison of Posen" company the other day. "I was chatting with an old Confederate during the recent reunion as to the greatest military leaders of the world. The gentleman of the South strongly maintained that the so-called rebel chiefs were the greatest in the world for bravery and knowledge of military tactics. Just for the sake of argument, I suppose, I said that Moses was the greatest leader of them all."

"Moses," cried the buffoon-scarred hero, "why he wasn't no soldier; he was a law 'yer."

"Yes," I replied, "but he was a great general too. Didn't he lead the armies of Israel through the wilderness for forty years?"

"Shucks, that ain't nothin'," retorted the man of the South. "Stonewall Jackson could beat him all hollow. Didn't he lead his army out of the wilderness in three days?"

Nella Bergen (Mrs. De Wolf Hopper) has finally succumbed to many tempting offers for vaudeville engagements, and made her debut at the new theater on the board walk at Asbury Park, N. J.

"The Mayor of Tokio," Richard Carle's

new farcical opera, in which the clever comedian is starring, began the sixth week of its Chicago run last Monday. The new piece will continue its Chicago engagement until Sept. 1, and then, after a short intermediate tour, will open in New York.

Janet Priest, the young St. Paul newspaper woman, who made her stage debut last year in "The Maid and the Mummy," has been re-engaged by the Richard Carle Amusement company, to play her former role next season.

Helen Hale, the sprightly soubrette who first came into prominence in "The College Widow" and later did such creditable work in "Woodland," will be seen in one of Henry W. Savage's new productions the coming season.

James K. Hackett, who is now in London, has been engaged by cable Harriet Otto Dellenbaugh for the role of Lady Marchmont, the lovely middle-aged peace-maker, for his production of "The Walls of Jericho," which will be given in New York next autumn. Mr. Hackett intends to return from Paris in about two weeks.

Edward J. Sullivan, now with Leblond and company, has been appointed manager of the Madame Bernhardt's American tour, which will also include a limited engagement in Mexico and Havana.

Ada Rehan, who was stricken with appendicitis while visiting Lord and Lady Harrington in England, is still ill. No serious result is expected, however, and the Shuberts are busy with arrangements to star her next season in George Bernard Shaw's exposition of his views on womanhood, "Captain Brassbound's Conversion." Mrs. Rehan's tour will begin in November.

De Wolf Hopper will open his season at the Lyceum theater, New York, Sept. 4, in Reginald De Koven and Frederic Knicker's new opera, "Elysia."

Maude Adams is alternating the weeks of her summer between her country place at Rockwood, Long Island, and her mountain home in the Catskills.

John Drew did not close his season until nearly the first of July, having continued his tour to California. He is now at his country place on Long Island.

E. H. Sothern is taking but a short vacation, as he begins preliminary rehearsals shortly of the Shakespearean repertoire in which he and Miss Marlowe will appear next season. Miss Marlowe is now abroad.

Prominent among the musical attractions this coming season will be Miss Alice Nelson, the American soprano, who for the past two years has been meeting with the greatest of success in London and on the continent. Her career with the "Boatmen" and also with her own company in Victor Herbert's light opera is well known to all theatergoers. Since that time long ago and practical experience abroad in a higher grade of work have so developed and broadened her voice and style that now she ranks among the greater stars of the musical world.

In London, especially, at Covent Garden (and now at the New Waldorf) her success has been almost phenomenal in grand opera, and many flattering offers have been made to her by American managers.

Miss Nelson, however, has decided to devote her time to the higher class of work and under the management of E. Zeigfeld,

METROPOLITAN AND THE BIJOU

Vaudeville Features By Artists In the Amusement World.

The Metropolitan vaudeville features to be seen the coming week will all be by well-known artists in the amusement world. The program is headed by Frank Emerson, the well-known minstrel man, who has been featured for a number of seasons with the leading musical organizations, and has appeared in Duluth several times. Emerson comes with all new jokes, songs and funny sayings.

James and Maud Ryan, comedy sketch artists, will present their original sketch, "Ireland and Germany," mingled with songs and dances. Irwin and Spielmann, light and heavy balancers, will perform some wonderful balancing stunts, using heavy plows, axes, etc.

Alice Van, known as the "poorless entertainer," will present her character changes, songs and dances.

Clem C. McGee, vocalist, dancer and lightning crayon artist, will introduce some clever sketch work.

Arthur Jackson will sing the beautiful illustrated song, "I'm Longing for My Old Kentucky Home." The moving picture for the week will be "The Life of a New York Policeman," and other subjects.

Lightness are given daily at 3 p. m. Nights at 8 and 9:30. All school children under the age of 14 years admitted free on Monday afternoon.

CLEVER VAUDEVILLE.

Bijou to Offer Pleasing New Program.

The Bijou will offer its patrons next week an unusually good program of vaudeville features, headed by the three Auburns who are clever character change artists, introducing songs, dances and comedy.

Charles Howison, whistler and imitator, will present a fine act, imitating birds, animals, etc.

Belle Verma, known as the only lady comic artist, will present all kinds of comic faces as well as correct portraits of celebrities.

Lingham, the ventriloquist, will introduce his walking talking mechanical figures.

L. O. Whittier, baritone soloist, will render the late and popular, illustrated song, "The Life of a New York Policeman." The moving picture for the week will be "The Life of a New York Policeman," and other subjects.

Lightness are given daily at 3 p. m. Nights at 8 and 9:30. All school children under the age of 14 years admitted free on Monday afternoon.

Just performance of the English Grand Opera, which is coming out in a series of operatic concerts assisted by a quartet of eminent vocalists and other artists.

The first half of the program will be of the standard concert style but part second will consist of grand or English opera excerpts or acts with or without costumes and scenery, as desired.

In addition to singing with her company, Miss Neilson, is to do regular concert work with the various clubs, orchestras and societies and in private residences.

"Babes in the Wood," the newest British pantomime, which will be produced by the Shuberts about Christmas time, is to have a cast composed both of English and Americans. Fred. Walton, a London comedian, has been engaged for the stellar role, while Lillian Graham may be "princely boy." The piece is said to be exceptionally funny, and will need very little tinkering with it before it opens in New York.

De Wolf Hopper made so much money last season with his revival of "Wang," that the Morse-Goodwin opera will be kept on the road this year, though without its star, as it is not expected that Mr. Hopper from the cast is not expected to affect business greatly, since "Wang" has before demonstrated its drawing power without benefit of his name.

Albert Hart once toured the country most successfully as the King of Siam.

"The College Widow" will be the first of the season's attractions to begin the season of 1905-6. The Ade comedy will open at the Studebaker theater, Chicago, July 31. Early Dawson, the new Edward E. Kildner comedy which will introduce Raymond Hitchcock in a straight part opens Aug. 16 at Atlantic City, later coming to Wallace's theater, New York city.

They are Guy commences its tour at Atlantic City on Aug. 21, as does "The County Chairman," the latter opening on Aug. 28. The premiere of "The Bad Samaritan" will be held at Washington, D. C., Sept. 4, and the new George Ade comedy, "The Maid and the Mummy," will later be brought to the Garden theater, New York city, following the tour of "The College Widow." "The Prince of Posen" begins its tour, which will extend from coast to coast, on Sept. 1, the opening place being Asbury Park. Brooklyn will witness the gowns in Paris and spent a fortnight in Switzerland. Miss May will rest on Lake Ontario until released to begin.

Sam Bernard with Hattie Williams, Joseph Coyne and some eighty others are spending their vacations at the Herald Square, New York, playing in "The Rolling Stone," and breaking all records for summer money receipts known to Broadway.

William Collier triumphed so signally in London that he will play "The Dictator" all summer at the Comedy theater.

Francis Wilson is summing on the sea and making trips to the Adirondacks, where he is completing a magnificent residence.

A magazine editor sent a letter to Sam Bernard asking him to write them 200 words on the topic, "The Worst Day I Remember."

Mr. Bernard laconically replied: "The worst day I remember is the one I am trying to forget."

"I've been married for more than twenty years," Jefferson De Angelis is reported to have said recently, "and to me wife, that's quite a record for this profession."

The comedian of "Fantana" then waxed reminiscent.

"I had a near-engagement once," he observed. "It was long before I met the present Mrs. De Angelis. The girl was charming, and I probably should have married her a year or two ago. I don't regret it through my own carelessness."

There was plenty of work to be done in those days and frequently I let things go by without so much as seeing my wife. Once, a whole month passed in this way. At the end of that time my conscience smote me, and I called at the house. The girl was goodness itself and my conscience smote again. Accordingly I got out and ordered her to her set of Dickens which I had wanted myself for a year and which I could very easily have paid for. I told her to go and agreed to pay 25 cents a week all the rest of my life.

Two days later I saw in a newspaper that my intended had married another man.

Years afterward, when she had little children at her knee, I was still paying for those books.

"Ah, the fickleness of woman!"

Charles Frohman, as yet undecided regarding William Collier's plans for next season, Mr. Collier has scored a knock-out and could easily win the season in New York but Mr. Frohman is under contract to produce the new Richard Harding Davis play, "The Dictator," at least four weeks, when they must return to New York.

C. M. S. McLeellan, who wrote "Leah Kleschna" for Mrs. Blake, is the author of a new drama, called "The Jury of Fate," which is to be presented by the Shuberts.

The piece is almost in the nature of a morality play, although its story and construction are absolutely modern. The hero of this work is a young man who, having mis-spent his life, is given the opportunity to pass through it again before dying.

"The Jury of Fate" probably will be produced in November.

A hero beside whom Alexander and Napoleon seem paltry is the latest discovery of George Caine, who has been in Boston with "The Earl and the Girl."

Miss Caine is telling the tale of his martyrdom with great gusto.

It was at a luncheon party, and the young man unaccustomed to such things, Miss Caine had invited him to be present out of a desire to put an end to the hero's knowledge about soup in turkeys and in cans, but soup entered was new to him. Accordingly, he quailed at its plate, and when the liquid was tea, and dropped two lumps of sugar into it.

Dear readers, commented Miss Caine, frowning that the blunder was the result of a mistake, "You've put sugar into your cosmopolitan."

The young man immediately perceived his mistake, but with too "good" to acknowledge that he knew no better.

"I always take it that way," he returned, blithely.

And he ate every drop.

After vaudeville which would have discouraged a less persistent man, Tim Murphy, who is usually regarded as the skunk of legal complications which threatened to stop the comedy, "A Corner in Coffee," will at once begin the preparation of an extensive production for the coming season.

Charles Wayne has deserted comic opera again for the vaudeville, and will be seen in a new piece called "The Cultivator Girls," in which he will be assisted by four show girls representing Paris, Naples, London and New York.

In the rearranged version of "A Pair of Plunks" there will be three stars next season. Billy West succeeds Happy Ward and Margaret Daly Vokes, the wife of the second member of the triumvirate, will be a star also. They are getting up new matter for the last season's "Vard and Vokes" piece.

Archie Boyd, who used to play in "The Old Homestead" and "Way Down East," is not to go any more to the Italian address Joseph Brooks and A. W. Digwall have secured him to play the part of Joe Hawkins in their new Dimey drama, "Homo Funks." Edwin Arden is to play the leading part.

It is said in London that Signora Duse fills to draw as good houses as Mme. Bernhardt because the Italian actress "will make no concessions to social curbing." As an example is related that a well-known society woman lately engaged Duse to play an act of "Adrienne Lecouvreur" in her drawing room after the performance at the theater. The price paid was close upon $200, but the amiable artist would not accept of getting her money's worth in the social act of exhibiting so distinguished an artist to her guests.

But in this she was balked. Duse arrived on schedule time in her motor, but insisted on entering the house by the servants' door. She appeared on the temporary stage and played her piece, but refused to smile at her employer, much less to be introduced to any of the guests, left the house as she had come and was driven directly to her hotel.

While London society resents this exhibition of independence or churlishness or dignity or crankiness or whatever it may be called, there are many others who will applaud it.

NEW YORK THEATERS

Jolly Fay Templeton, the Queen of the Tenderloin In a Theatrical Sense, Is Delighting Playgoers On Broadway—Rose Coghlan In "Forget-Me-Not."

New York, July 22.—Monday night was a warm one for the aerial theater where the summer stage has been elevated 100 feet above the winter level. Graphically and metaphorically, the entertainment of the Tenderloin, I have given accounts of the two extravaganzas that make up the bill. They are alike devoted to light night and day views of Broadway between midnight and dawn.

The first play begins with a song of the cherry in the cocktail, and is sung by a super party starting with the song of the cherry in the cocktail, and is sung by a super party starting with the song of the cherry in the cocktail, and is sung by a super party starting with the song of the cherry in the cocktail.

doublets are not a few artists of the stage who respect themselves and their profession.

Mabelle Gilman, who has been in retirement for a year, in fact ever since her husband's failure, is to be seen in the British capital the coming winter at the head of one of George Edwards' big companies in a new musical comedy soon to be produced at Daly's theater.

Blanche Walsh will begin her tour in Cincinnati on Labor day, Monday, Sept. 4, with Clyde Elton's play, "The Woman in the Case," which ran for four months at the Herald Square theater, New York, last season. Her tour will include runs in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. Nearly all of the original cast will be retained, including Miss Dorothy Dorr and Eleanor Carey.

In the midst of theatrical war's alarms, of talk about "syndicates" and "syndicate combinations," the Shuberts have been working steadily to such good purpose that they are first in the field with their announcements for the coming season. An additional reason for the promptness may be that most of the players mentioned in the Shubert roster have been under the impression of that turn for several years, while nearly all of the plays named were purchased last spring.

There is little doubt that the statement given out, but it would be difficult to find a single one of the attractions under one management.

Of the fourteen different organizations put out at once, the most striking feature only four will be seen in dramatic performances. The other ten will be musical companies. The reason for this, of course, is that the Shuberts have succeeded in securing a large portion of their capital having come from France and England; the remainder, American. The most important of these is Sarah Bernhardt, who will come here in November and will present "Angelo," Sardou's "La Tosca," and "The Sorcerer," Dumars' "Carmen" and her own version of "Arlene." The Henry Russell Grand Opera company, now at the Waldorf theater, is to be heard in grand opera at regular theater prices. "Babes in the Wood," a big London pantomime, is to be produced in lavishly and a good cast will be offered in the Fall. The new drama, by the author of "Leah Kleschna," "The Earl and the Girl," which divided the spring season between Chicago and Boston, will be seen at the Casino theater, New York, with Eddie Foy in the principal role.

Ada Rehan remains under the Shubert management. She is to appear in George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Captain Brassbound's Conversion." Followed by "The Dictator" in New York, the Lyric theater on Sept. 2. This year in her first season, she will be seen in every large city in the country. De Wolf Hopper will be seen in "The College Widow" and "The Prince of Posen," and Frederick Ranken's comic opera, "Elysia," and Lillian Russell will continue her tour in "Leah Kleschna." The Shuberts announce a new vehicle for Paula Edwards and also that "The Royal Chef" is to go on a tour.

"Sweet Girl" will be produced in October in a theatrical sense. No other dramatic and one musical, will be named within the next fortnight.

In addition to these attractions, the Shuberts will control three theaters in New York, two in London, and one each in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Troy, New Haven, Rochester, Syracuse, and Utica, in addition to this list are being made now and it is promised that they will be announced later.

The Neglect of Private Diseases Dangerous!

MANY MEN afflicted with ailments peculiar to their sex, too often go on unmindful of their condition, ignoring every calling symptom, until finally their disease becomes chronic and they collapse, physical, nervous and mental wrecks. Others, knowing, or having a vague idea of their immediate case, but ignorant of attendant and resultant complications, dabble and experiment with this and that "patent cure," until their condition becomes menacing to their future well-being. Some succeed in temporarily allaying and sometimes apparently curing their case only to have it break out again in later periods in chronic forms they do not understand, and many times to their embarrassment and remorse. Many Gonorrheal cases have resulted in malignant cases of rheumatism simply through neglect and ignorance of the cause, which otherwise would have promptly disappeared had the case been treated properly by one who understands such cases.

The Progressive Medical Association is the most reliable place in the Northwest to treat the Private Diseases of Men. Our practice is very extensive. We have the confidence of the community and abundant resources to back up our claims of curing. Our treatment is thorough. If you are troubled in any manner with private diseases, do not delay seeing us. You are welcome and invited to free consultation and examination, and if we take your case we will guarantee to cure you or we are cured for the one fee.

Established in Duluth since 1899.
The Northwest's Most Successful and Reliable SPECIALIST IN MEN'S DISEASES.

The work of boulevarding the streets and avenues still goes on and the street commissioner is kept pretty busy attending to the wants of the property owners.

This work was first started by Mr. McDonald at the corner of Maple street and the sidewalk four feet from the lot line and reducing the width of the street to six feet. Aside from this there is another open space between the outside of the sidewalk and the lot line. These two spaces are filled in and is grassed and the street is nearly finished in its thoroughfare in years to come.

Brookston

Brookston, July 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday school was conducted in the dining room of the Sherman house last Sunday afternoon and was attended by quite a number of the children of the folks.

Mrs. W. C. Eklund was chosen as teacher of the Bible class and Mrs. Rowe, McCann and Miss Eklund as teachers of the junior classes. In the evening a fair-sized crowd listened to an able discourse by W. Blair, Presbyterian missionary for this district.

W. Emerson was in Superior over Sunday.

J. F. Ryan went to Cloquet Monday to look after his business interests.

Miss Rachel Epperson returned Tuesday from a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. F. Ryan, in Hibbing.

At the school election held in District No. 22 on Friday July 21, C. O. Eklund was re-elected treasurer and Mr. Steffen was elected clerk to succeed E. S. Wintergerst.

Mrs. Jewell went to Cloquet Monday.

William Anderson has removed his family to the south side for temporary residence.

John Kouchi was a Cloquet visitor Monday.

A party consisting of Olof Karl, Nels Eklund, Theodore Kable and Hugh Eklund, and Misses Kable and Eklund, attended the dance at Culver last Saturday evening. An enjoyable time is reported.

Mrs. C. O. Eklund has returned from Superior, where she has spent the greater part of the summer. She is a resident of the village.

Henry Wheeler of Superior has taken the position of night watchman, vice Noble Anderson.

Miss Vipond, who has been the guest of her friend, Miss Anderson, for several days, returned to her home in Grand Rapids Tuesday.

"Oh-I-Forgot-It Sammy."

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

"Oh, I forgot it!" was an expression Sammy was forced to make use of so often that his parents became much worried over his absent-mindedness. In fact, his bad memory was getting to the point where severe measures would have to be resorted to if the little boy was to be broken of the growing bad habit.

Often Sammy was sent on an errand only to return with the exclamation: "Oh, I forgot what I was sent for!" Again his mamma would trust some important message with him to be delivered verbally to some friend. In a short time Sammy would come jolting home, and with the most indifferent air would say: "Oh, mamma, I forgot to go to Mrs. Brown's."

Both his mamma and papa did everything they could in the way of persuasion to break their son of his grievous fault, but their reasoning and counsel were of no avail. Then they tried punishment by sending Sammy to bed supperless, or imposing long tasks upon him. Still the child seemed indifferent to chastising his mind with anything not connected with himself—something pertaining to his own pleasures. He never forgot an engagement with his comrades to play. Neither did he ever forget when it was time to go to school.

One day, however, his mamma was so angry with him for forgetting to go to school that she decided to punish him. She told him that if he forgot to go to school again, she would send him to bed supperless and without any play.

All this rested heavily on the hearts of Sammy's mamma and papa. At last one day they decided on a new plan to break may do these tasks while I tidy the cellar."

In about ten minutes mamma came up from the cellar to find Sammy on the floor in sight in the back yard. He had begun to sweep the walk, but had thrown the broom down with the work only commenced. In the woodshed the kindlings were in the same disorder, showing Sammy had not been at work there. Mamma went to the dining-room and wrote something more on the paper on the mantel.

At a quarter of ten Sammy came running in to ask the time. When his mamma informed him that it was getting along toward the hour he was longing for the impatient fellow went on the front porch to look for his father. And from the porch to the dining-room he kept running till the clock struck ten. Sammy counted the strokes excitedly. Why did not his papa come? He was growing fidgety.

"What are you so uneasy about, son?" asked Sammy's mamma, sitting in her rocking chair by the window.

"I'm wondering why papa doesn't come," Sammy answered.

"Oh, I suppose he thinks there's no use coming," replied mamma.

Sammy said nothing for a few minutes; then his impatience and curiosity got the Little Chee-Chee.

"Chee-chee, whoppey-wheel!" said Little Young Bird, Just out of a tree.

"The world's a big place. If you're out of your nest; But I love the top of a big tree the best.

Guess I'll fly back To the top of the tree— A nest in a shady bough Gently suits me.

better of him and he asked: "Why should papa think there's no use coming?"

"Well, I suppose he thinks you've forgotten all about what he said at the breakfast table," answered his mamma.

"You know you never charge your memory with anything—unless it's something pertaining to your own pleasure." And mamma kept on rocking and sewing leisurely.

Sammy was thoroughly ashamed now and stood laughing his head while a lump grew in his throat. For the first time in his life he felt the importance of remembering things. As he was undergoing a sort of self-condemnation, the telephone bell rang. "Hello," called mamma, taking the receiver. "Oh, is it you papa? Well—wait a minute. Sammy is here and can come to the phone."

Sammy's glow vanished for the instant. Papa was going to explain his delay and say when he would be home. He took the receiver from his mamma's hands and stepping on the stool which was at ways there for his use, he called out cheerily: "Hello, papa! When you coming? I'm waiting."

Papa answered by asking a question. He said: "Hello, son! What you been doing this morning?"

"Why, you know you said for me to be ready to go fishing at ten. I got all ready before nine—got lots of bait."

"Oh, you didn't forget what I said at the breakfast table, then?"

"No, sir," answered Sammy, feeling a bit uncomfortable.

"Well," went on papa, "as I spoke only once about our going fishing—and then didn't try to impress it on your mind—I had no idea you would remember it, as you seem to have the bad habit of forgetting everything so quickly. But, since you have proven to me that you can remember I want to ask you if you have forgotten anything your mother has asked you to do for her this morning. I've formed my errands for her, eh?"

Sammy became much confused. "Well, papa," he began, "I—I—I—well—I—"

Then he stopped. Everything he should have done—but did not do—rushed through his mind pell-mell. A new determination seized him. He looked helplessly at his mother, who seemed to understand him perfectly. She took the sheet of paper from the mantel and put it in his right hand. Sammy's eyes took in what she had written there. "Well, son, you still at the phone?" asked his father's voice. "If so answer my last question."

"Yes, sir, I am here," answered Sammy in a hoarse voice.

"And, papa, I want to make a clean breast of it all. Mamma has written down the things she told me to do. I forgot everyone of them almost as soon as she told me. I shall read over what mamma has written and you will see that I have been very forgetful as usual."

Then Sammy held up the paper and read: "Forgetting to bring the spade to the house after using it to dig bait, almost completely forgot to bring it to the house. I forgot to go to the grocery to get the kindlings for the fire. I forgot to go to the grocery to get the kindlings for the fire. I forgot to go to the grocery to get the kindlings for the fire."

Sammy hung up the receiver. He had no desire to hear papa's remarks on his mamma's memorandum. He sprang down from the stool and ran to his father, throwing his arms around his neck.

"Mamma, if you and papa can forgive me for my past forgetfulness I promise to break myself of the very, very bad habit. You've both been so patient with me. I know I've been a bad fellow, and I'm ashamed of myself. I really am. Now, I'm going to do my errands. No, no, his mother began to speak. "You need not repeat to me for I remember them perfectly. I only wanted to forget them because I did not want to work. I thought to work meant doing something that wasn't any pleasure. The truth, mamma, is—I have been lazy."

"But you must not dislike work, dear," said mamma, kindly. "Only through work you can live. What if papa and I forgot to do any work—only played—how long would we or Sammy live?"

I understand it now," declared Sammy. "And to show you I mean to turn a new leaf, just say what I want to do."

After I'm done—well, you look at the way I've gone about it. I've been so forgetful that I've forgotten to do my errands. I've been so forgetful that I've forgotten to do my errands. I've been so forgetful that I've forgotten to do my errands."

with a face beaming with smiles, came running in. "The walk and the clatter platform are swept as clean as this floor," he cried.

The spade is shining and hanging in its place. The eggs and jar are on the kitchen table, and now I'm off to the grocery after the sugar and salad oil. Oh, yes, and the kindlings are stacked up as even in the corner of the shed as though I had used a line to stack 'em."

"And how do you feel since doing all this?" Mamma asked.

"Just as though I had been playing," declared Sammy. "After all, work is just like play—only it goes by a different name. But I'm going to like remembering things. It's not at all hard."

And so it came to pass that "Oh-I-forgot-it Sammy" disappeared from existence and a new and happier boy came to live in his stead by the name of "I-never-forget-it Sammy." And his parents never had cause to complain of the little fellow's absent-mindedness again.

The Kingfisher.

A MOST INTERESTING BIRD.

Here is the picture of a kingfisher. Is he not a beautiful fellow with his splendid plumage? And could you but see the marvelous colors that dye his shining feathers—blue, green and black predominating on the top of his "coat of many colors," while a bright chestnut, with a brilliant red, shining to the very tips, colors the under-surface.

The top feathers, like the gaudy pheasant, or still grander peacock, change according as the light falls upon them, reflecting all the hues of the rainbow.

But, alas, poor kingfisher must pay dearly for his beauty! Every year thousands of his kind are killed that the milliners may supply beautiful wings and soft, warm-lined breasts to adorn my lady's hat.

The kingfisher builds its nest in an old gravel pit or in the deep, steep bank of a stream. Sometimes it is hidden away under a log, or in a hole in the trunk of a tree. This nest—if it may be called a nest—is constructed from the hard bits of indigestible food which the bird daily ejects. This mass hardens into a nest or tunnel-shaped receptacle, in which the eggs lie.

A tunnel from one to three feet in length approaches the hole in which the "nest" is made. This tunnel slopes upward, which fact shows the intelligence of the kingfisher in protecting its house from the rainfall.

Some interesting fables and strange legends have come to us about the kingfisher. The French naturalist Bodard is authority for the legend which follows:

"The kingfisher was originally a plain

"Ah, that's bad," the doctor said; "Please give him catnip tea at eleven To keep those fits from coming on. For now his liver are only seven."

Charades for Children's Parties on the Lawn.

No doubt you have all played charades, and are perfectly familiar with this ever new form of amusement; but as the game is considered adaptable to the parlor on winter evenings only, it is rarely indulged in during the warm weather.

But charades in the open air may be made highly entertaining and most enjoyable to both participants and on-lookers. Let the little folks gather together on mid-summer nights, with their parents and a few other grown-ups for an audience, and let them divide their numbers into two "selected sides" and act charades for an hour or so. The side presenting the most original and amusing charades should be awarded a prize—the prize to be in the form of a basket of cut flowers that may be divided among all the participants of the winning side, or a fancy box of bonbons.

The "acting side" must retire to the house to make its arrangements in secret, coming forth only to present the charade before the audience which is comfortably seated in lawn chairs or on the grass. The "acting sides" take turn-about at playing.

A few names to be used for charades are given here with instructions for syllable finished.

presenting them: Hamilton, a proper name consisting of three syllables. (The Master of Charades calls: "First syllable of Hamilton, the gentleman just before the charade is given; also whether the word be simple, complex or compound.")

Let each syllable of the word be presented singly, thus:

A white apron comes hurrying on the lawn and places inside the semi-circle a small table at which he sits. He begins threatening the questioners with his fists and all run into the house. The Master of Charades calls: "Last syllable of Hamilton, the gentleman just before the charade is given; also whether the word be simple, complex or compound." The boy looks toward the lady and says: "I'll take cold ham." The boy nods his head and says: "I'll take cold ham also." Stress must be laid on the word "ham." In this way the first syllable of the word Hamilton is given. The water runs into the house, and after a minute of whispering the couple rises and follows him.

"Well," said Papa, "be ready by ten o'clock."

"All right, papa," answered Sammy, a happy smile revealing his mouth. "I'll be all ready before then. You won't have to wait on me."

Immediately after breakfast Sammy set to work to get his and Papa's fishing tackle ready. When this was done he took the spade from the woodshed and set off towards a vacant lot where in the soft earth he would find a good supply of fishing worms. Seeing him going off on this errand, Mamma called out to him: "Don't forget to bring the spade with you when you have finished with it, Sammy. And—fatten—be sure to clean all the soil from it and hang it up in its place again. Do you hear?"

"Yes, sir," answered Sammy. Then he hurried away, whistling merrily. After filling a tin can with fishing worms (to be used for bait) he took the spade on the ground where he had been digging and ran to the house. Entering the room where his mother sat he inquired anxiously: "What time is it, mamma?" After telling Sammy the time Mamma went to the mantel and wrote something on a sheet of paper lying there. She had observed that Sammy had not brought the spade in, but she did not say a word to him about it. "Now, son, I want you to

BODY OF PAUL JONES PLACED IN VAULT WITH FULL NAVAL HONORS

Admiral Sigsbee Turns Over Remains to Commandant at Annapolis.

Conveyed From Brooklyn to Land Amid Booming of Cannon.

Officers and Crew of French Cruiser Join In the Ceremonies.

Annapolis, Md., July 24.—In a simple vault in the grounds of the naval academy today the remains of Admiral John Paul Jones, with the simple ceremony attending the landing of the body from the cruiser Brooklyn, the naval expedition authorized to accompany his transfer from the Paris cemetery, which has been its place of repose for more than a century, is completed. The formal national reception of the body, with appropriate exercises, is reserved until it shall be placed in the splendid naval chapel now being erected near the site of the temporary vault.

The work today consisted of the removal of the body from the Brooklyn to the naval tug Standish, and from that to the land, where the body was placed in the vault. The ceremony was attended by a large number of officers and men from the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, which arrived here yesterday.

At 2 o'clock, a heavy thunder shower had spent its fury, the guns of the Brooklyn boomed a salute to Admiral Jones, and the body was conveyed to the shore. The shore batteries replied, and as they did so, the naval tug Standish, in command of Lieut. Wiley, cast off and proceeded to the Brooklyn, lying five miles off. The saluting batteries were kept busy, as the French cruiser, which had been in the harbor since yesterday, fired a salute with a similar one, the shore again making reply. The French cruiser then saluted Rear Admiral Sigsbee, and received a return. Then Rear Admiral Davis, commanding the four battleships which lay in line opposite the four cruisers of the expedition fleet, saluted Rear Admiral Sigsbee and received a reply.

The Standish came alongside and made fast to the Brooklyn shortly before 5 o'clock. The body of the dead admiral was hoisted from his position on the "half deck" by a crane, carried to the shore and placed in the vault. The body was lowered to the after deck of the tug. Sixteen jacks were used, and the body was lowered to the water. The jacks were then used to hoist the body to the shore. The body was then placed in the vault. The ceremony was attended by a large number of officers and men from the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, which arrived here yesterday.

As the body was being transferred the marines of the Brooklyn, and the crew of the Standish, were in the water. The body was then placed in the vault. The ceremony was attended by a large number of officers and men from the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, which arrived here yesterday.

APPEAL FOR AID FOR SUFFERERS BY FLOOD

One Hundred and Fifty Families in Aitkin County Need Aid.

The Herald to Receive Donations to Fund Started By Governor.

FUND FOR AITKIN FLOOD SUFFERERS

The Evening Herald, $25.00.

Governor Johnson has made an appeal to the citizens of Minnesota for aid for the sufferers by floods along the Mississippi river in Aitkin county. The governor has designated The Herald as one of a committee to solicit funds for the relief of the sufferers, and it will be pleased to receive contributions from its readers and daily acknowledge the same in these columns. To start the ball rolling, The Herald will contribute $25 to the fund.

State Labor Commissioner Williams, who has been investigating conditions in Aitkin county on behalf of the governor, arrived in Duluth Saturday night with Congressman Beasly, who accompanied him on the tour of inspection, and reports that 150 families are in need of assistance, their crops having been flooded and destroyed by the high water. Mr. Williams forwarded to the governor an appeal signed by the Aitkin citizens' committee, headed by J. E. Galbreath, mayor of Aitkin, who is designated as treasurer. The other members are D. W. Kemmerer, A. L. Hamilton, C. C. Dutton and A. S. Kathan. Their appeal states that farms along the river are overflooded for a distance of fifty miles and for five weeks have been covered with one to eight feet of water. It will be several weeks yet (Continued on page 2, second column.)

THE BALFOUR GOVERNMENT FORMALLY DECLINES TO RESIGN

London, July 24.—The government has no intention of resigning in consequence of Thursday's adverse vote. This was the gist of Premier Balfour's statement in the House of Commons this afternoon. Although it had been generally recognized that such would be the conclusion of the premier, there was feverish eagerness on all sides to hear the exact terms of his statement. The house was literally packed. Every gallery available to the peers and the public was crowded and there had not been such an attendance of members during the life of the present parliament. Mr. Balfour, who was heartily cheered by his supporters on rising, tried the patience of his hearers somewhat by a long discussion on how former administrations had ignored defeats similar to that of Thursday. He declared that such incidents had never been regarded as grounds for resignation or dissolution and announced that the government did not propose either to resign or dissolve parliament because of Thursday's occurrence.

ARGUMENT BETWEEN SWEDES TURNS INTO A FATAL FIGHT

New York, July 24.—Two men dying, and a third seriously wounded was the outcome of an argument in Brooklyn early today between four Swedes about the secession of Norway from Sweden. The men who are dying in a hospital are Carl Anderson and John Tromler. Ludwig Thorel was seriously hurt. Victor Linquist was captured after a chase by policemen, who pursued him in a trolley car. He is charged with having done the shooting.

As learned by the police, the men, all intimate friends, met for dinner in a hotel. After a quiet evening, an argument about the proper course to be taken by their country in the present crisis found Linquist taking one side and the three against him. The talk became bitter, and was continuing as they left the house to go to a ferry nearby. Suddenly, it is alleged, Linquist turned on his countrymen, and the shooting began. The prisoner strenuously denied the charge when he was locked up pending a hearing.

DETENTION CAMPS Will Be Established For Yellow Fever Suspects.

Washington, July 24.—Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service, who has been absent from the city on official business, is now on his way to Washington and on his arrival will give personal attention to the yellow fever situation in New Orleans. Meantime the service under the direction of Dr. Glennan is co-operating with the New Orleans authorities to prevent any fresh outbreak. There are half a dozen members of the force in that city and they are now giving their special attention to getting residents away. To accomplish this and without endangering other communities, a large number of detention camps will be established outside the New Orleans city limits. In some of these camps will be held for a sufficient time to protect those with whom they may later come in contact.

The report of the state census of 1905 shows a remarkable increase in Duluth, but more particularly in St. Louis county as a whole. Since the national census of 1900, the growth in the five years intervening amounts to 22.6 per cent in the city and 81 per cent in the county outside of Duluth. The total increase of the county as a whole, numerically speaking, is shown to be 35,459, of which 11,568 is in Duluth and 23,891 belongs in the county outside of Duluth.

The growth of more than 31,000 in Duluth is remarkable, and Duluthians need not feel disappointed for the increase compares favorably with that of any other place in the state, and leads almost all.

In the county outside of Duluth the growth has been astounding. Take the case of Chisholm, for instance. The table given shows that five years ago there was no Chisholm, while the census just ended shows a population at that place of almost 5,000 people.

EXECUTION STAYED

Lawyer Albert T. Patrick Gets Another Lease of Life.

Reargument of His Case Will Be Heard Next October.

New York, July 24.—Justice O'Brien of the court of appeals, has granted an order staying the execution of Lawyer Albert T. Patrick, convicted of the murder of aged William M. Rice, in this city, pending the hearing and determination of the argument on the motion for a rearargument of his case.

LAWYER ALBERT T. PATRICK.

The application for stay of execution was granted on the contention of David B. Hill, counsel for the condemned man, that important points have been overlooked by a majority of the court in affirming the judgment of conviction.

A copy of the papers in the motion for the stay, together with a copy of the order of Justice O'Brien, was served on District Attorney Jerome Day.

MORE RURAL CARRIERS. Washington, July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sherman D. Baker has been appointed regular and Christian Walter substitute rural free delivery carrier on Route No. 3 at Buffalo Lake, Minn.

GROCER IN TROUBLE. Houghton, Mich., July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank J. Siller, grocer, is endeavoring to compromise with his creditors on a basis of 50 cents on the dollar, the alternative being bankruptcy proceedings. The proposal is acceptable to local creditors, but outside wholesalers, his liabilities are about $14,000.

WINNIPEG WINS EIGHT-OARED RACE IN CLOSE AND EXCITING CONTEST

2,500,000 BARRELS OF OIL BURN FIERCELY

Great Tanks In Texas Fields Struck By Lightning and Ignite.

One Report Says That Fifty Lives Have Been Lost In Flames.

Humble, Tex., July 24.—Covering an area of three-quarters of a mile square with a great canopy of smoke, covering two square miles, the oil tanks of the Texas company continue to boil and bubble under the great heat of the burning oil, the fire having burned all night. When it can be extinguished is problematical. Certainly not until it has burned all of the oil in the big tanks which held 2,500,000 barrels when lightning struck them Sunday afternoon. It is now known that five negro workmen perished. Rumors, however, place the number dead as high as 50, though this cannot be confirmed. There are hundreds of homeless people. They were living in tents and shacks in the oil field and fled for their lives to the town. All their belongings have been burned. During the night there was a heavy downpour of rain and this covered the ground with a sheet of water, coated with a thick film of oil.

Shortly after the big tanks began to blaze 200 workmen with seventy-five mules were hurried to the place to throw up earthen embankments to confine the fire to the tank where it originated. Suddenly the oil gave an upheaval, bubbled and lifted a great mass of the burning fluid bodily from the tank and the fire was communicated to the other tanks. The burning oil caught the men and mules and hemmed them in. There was a wild scramble for safety, men dropping their scrapers and reins. Some of them were killed and others cut out, but at least forty of the mules balked and were cremated. Five negroes were seen to go down and it is not believed possible they could have escaped. While all of the men have not been accounted for, these five are all that are known to have perished.

Early today a fire broke out in the steel tanks of the Texas company at the pumping station, a mile from the original fire. What damage was done cannot be ascertained yet because it is impossible to reach that part of the field. The fire is still raging with no prospect of its immediate control. It is believed, however, that the flames will eventually be confined to the tankage district. There are 3,000,000 barrels of oil in these storage tanks, all of which will be destroyed. The work is already estimated at $50,000 or more, with practically no insurance. Reports of fatalities have not been verified, although a number of men are missing.

FIVE MILITARY CONVICTS ESCAPE

Spokane, Wash., July 24.—Five military convicts have escaped from the guardhouse at Fort Wright. All of them were men sent into the fort to serve sentences for desertion from their army posts. The names of the men are Frank Burton, Joseph Carroll, James Collingwood, Herman W. Lamp and Harry Linden.

The outbreak was one of the most daring ever attempted at Fort Wright. With the whole post out of doors enjoying the cooling breeze and from six to ten guards in the adjoining room, the five desperate men sawed their way through two iron bars three-quarters of an inch thick and escaped through the window.

EASTERN AND WESTERN MEAT DEALERS ARE TO AMALGAMATE

New York, July 24.—Amalgamation of the National Retail Butchers and Meat Dealers' Protective association of the East and the Master Retail

Butchers of the West, heretofore separate organizations, having common aims and purposes, is expected to result from a convention of the two at Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 1. The Eastern delegates will leave here by special train, July 30. In discussing the objects of the proposed amalgamation, George H. Shaffer, president of the Eastern association, said: "As a united organization, I am certain, we will strongly influence for the better, the now falling industry of stock raising in the Eastern states. There are certain game laws, the repeal of which it might be possible to bring about by sheer strength of numbers in our protest. As they stand they make certain game a never to be thought of luxury for people of moderate means."

"That the associations when united will prove one of the strongest organizations of business men in the United States goes, without saying, its strength, power and benefits will be felt and shared by the country at large."

TORTURED AND ROBBED

Chicago Real Estate Dealer Dies From His Injuries.

Chicago, July 24.—The police believe that the death of John Tesmer, at the county hospital yesterday, an hour after he had been found in a doorway at Ashland avenue and Emily street, was due to torture inflicted by men who had attacked and robbed him.

Tesmer, who was a prosperous real estate owner, had collected rent at several places, and was going to his home when he was attacked by highwaymen. He fought the robbers, but was worsted. A blow on the left eye, which left an ugly cut, is believed to have knocked him unconscious. He was dragged into a hallway, where he was found several hours later.

Several cuts were found on Tesmer's head. Two long gashes, which opened the arteries of the wrists, are believed to have been inflicted deliberately while the man was in the power of the bandits. After the robbers had taken the man's watch and $55 from him, they set him in an upright position in the doorway and left him to bleed to death from the severed arteries in his wrists. Search for Tesmer's assailants has so far been unavailing.

Second ward comes next in growth and the Seventh is third. In the matter of nationalities, as represented in the census of Duluth, those born in this state are first in number. (Continued on page 7, fourth column.)

Was Not Over Three Feet Ahead at the Finish.

Neither Crew Had Race Won Until the Last Stroke.

Four-Oared Race Won By Winnipeg By Half a Length.

It was decidedly a Winnipeg day at the regatta this afternoon, the men from across the border coming out victors in all three events on the regular regatta program. But the Canucks did not carry off their scalp without a struggle, except in the double scull race. In the four-oared St. Paul crew gave the "poggers" a scare that they will remember, and if it had not been for the regrettable collapse of certain launch owners, the Duluth crew would also have been a factor in the race. In the eight-oared race, it would be hard to conceive a more exciting finish than took place. It can be compared only with the famous Yale-Harvard race rowed a few months ago, where the two crews fought over the entire course and finished within a few feet of each other.

The weather conditions were favorable for the four-oared race, and while the water was choppy for the doubles, the eight-oared race was transferred across the harbor and the crews had good water. The attendance at the regatta was nearly as large as on Saturday and there was no lack of enthusiasm. The best of good feeling prevailed throughout the races, and the winners were given a hearty cheer when they reached the clubhouse after their three victories.

Not a little credit for the showing made by the Duluth four and eight-oared crews is due to the coaches, H. M. Peyton, B. M. Peyton, Guy Calouhou, Dr. Frank Lyman and J. D. Mahoney. The Duluth crews have neither time nor effort to make the Duluth crews a success, and have gone personally among the members to arouse enthusiasm in them. The work is done for the mere love of the sport, and the members of the Duluth club and the carmen in particular are not a little grateful to them.

The regatta was in the hands of a committee composed of J. D. Mahoney, J. H. Upham, Jr., and Norman L. Leach, and the manner in which it was pulled off in the face of many difficulties reflects credit on them. Two other men whom the club has to thank are Richard Scheel and W. D. Jones, who loaned to the coaches their motor boats for the pacing of the crews.

The regatta has done much to stimulate enthusiasm in the sport in Duluth, and the members of the Duluth club, far from being disappointed at the showing, look upon it as the beginning of a revival of the olden times when Duluth crews had a reputation throughout the country.

"We'll show them next year" is the slogan of the Duluth carmen, and if the eight can be kept together, there is no reason why the showing should not be done.

EIGHT-OARED RACE. By the time the eight-oared race began the wind had risen so that the course had to be transferred to the opposite side of the bay under the shelter of the elevators.

The race was certainly worth waiting for the numerous delays and postponements. It was a spurt from start to finish and at no time was one boat more than six or eight feet in the lead. Duluth got a magnificent start and jumped the Canadiana a trifle, both crews rowing 28 strokes to the minute.

For half a mile Duluth led by a few feet, the two crews rowing about the same stroke. At the mile Winnipeg began her spurt and slowly, but surely the scant lead was cut down.

Then began a heart-breaking seesaw which lasted the entire last half mile. The two crews were stroking together at different times and with each stroke the lead would vary, first one boat poking her nose ahead and then the other. The men were pulling their hearts out at their oars and keeping beautiful form with it all. About four boat lengths from the finish Winnipeg had a lead of four or five feet. The crowd of spectators in the club house, and the people in the numerous crowded launches were on their feet, mad with the excitement. (Continued on page 3, third column.)

BARON KOMURA MAKES A SHORT STAY IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 24.—Baron Komura, Japanese minister of foreign affairs and plenipotentiary in the pending peace negotiations, with Russia, arrived in Chicago today from St. Paul on the Burlington limited. Delegations were on hand to greet the visitors. One of the delegations was composed of Japanese merchants and students and professional men here, headed by the Japanese consul. A committee consisting of representative Chicago business men, municipal city officials and others appointed by Acting Mayor Lewis was also on hand to greet the oriental party. The baron and suite were driven to the Auditorium. Arrangements were made to leave on the Pennsylvania eighteen hour train for New York. The stay of Baron Komura in Chicago scarcely exceeded one hour.

REFUSE TO ANSWER

Witnesses for General Paper Company Are Stubbornly Silent.

Same Tactics Pursued As At Hearing at Milwaukee.

St. Paul, July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Investigation of the business methods of the General Paper Company was begun here today before Robert S. Taylor, special examiner appointed by the United States district court. Frank B. Kellogg handled the case on behalf of the government, assisted by Robert Olds. The General Paper Company was represented by J. G. Planders of Milwaukee, William Brice of Chicago and James Armstrong of St. Paul.

The tactics of the corporation were the same here as those adopted in the hearing at Milwaukee. Mr. Planders instructed witnesses to refuse to answer all questions bearing on the existence or non-existence of a combination to equalize prices or fix prices.

Mr. Nelson was the first witness called. After admitting that he was actively engaged in the manufacture of paper and describing his connection with the Heinecke and General Paper companies, Mr. Nelson encountered his first snag in the questioning as to what functions were exercised by E. A. Edmunds, general manager of the Heinecke mill. Mr. Nelson knew that Mr. Edmunds was a director of the General Paper Company and had charge at Heinecke, but to Mr. Kellogg's more particular questioning as to the Edmunds activities, he refused to answer, on his lawyer's advice. This was the beginning of two hours' testimony. To every question asked that could by any possibility have borne on the issue under investigation, Mr. Nelson refused to reply.

At the conclusion of Mr. Nelson's examination, Mr. Kellogg announced that the government would object to the court for an order compelling the witness and subsequent witnesses to answer questions. It is probable that such an order will be returned tomorrow.

CAN NO LONGER UTILIZE ROOF

St. James Hotel Proprietor Must Get Another Promenade.

No longer may the proprietor or the guests of the St. James hotel promenade the roof of that institution, smoke cigars or pipes in the shade of the eaves, or spend the evening in elevated solitude gazing at the stars and catching the balmy zephyrs from Old Lake Superior. P. Bonetane, who owns the building adjoining the St. James hotel on the west, has put a stop to all these practices.

By an injunction order filed by Judge Dillibell this afternoon Mr. Hackett and his agents or employees are prohibited and forevermore restrained from placing cigar staves, papers or "other explosives" on the roof of the hotel building or from hereafter using it for a lounging place or a promenade.

Mr. Bonetane's petition was presented to the court through his attorney, S. L. Smith. The claim being made that the practice which has been enjoyed by the proprietors or others over whom he has control has caused the adjoining building to be endangered by fire.

FIREMAN HAD YELLOW FEVER.
New York, July 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fireman who had been suffering from yellow fever, died yesterday at the age of 45, after a long illness.

FERN HAS SAILED

Naval Militia Training Ship Now on Atlantic Ocean.

Reserves Plan a Great Time During Lake Superior Cruise.

The Fern has sailed, or, to be more explicit, the government boat which is to be used as a training ship by the Minnesota Naval Reserve stationed at Duluth, has steamed away from the Norfolk navy yards and is now on the Atlantic ocean on her way to Duluth, via the New England coast, the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes.

A dispatch from Norfolk today announced the departure of the ship for which the naval militia, rank and file, have been impatiently awaiting for several months past. Unless some unforeseen accident happens the reserves are to be congratulating themselves that they will soon be in possession of a vessel which has been refitted to a large extent, and which is claimed to be splendidly adapted to their needs.

No word has been received by the local officers of the reserve to indicate whether Commander Guy A. Eaton accompanies the Fern, or whether he is returning by rail, to join the boat later on at Ogdensburg, or some other lake point. Commander Eaton has been sampling in the navy yards, or on the Fern, and making frequent trips between the yards and the navy department at Washington, for the past three or four weeks, in the endeavor to unravel the red tape necessary for the boat, and he is said to have been quite successful in his efforts, the boat being in fine condition, there remaining practically nothing to be done but the painting.

It is expected that the Fern will reach Ogdensburg somewhere from the 7th to the 10th of next month. Arrangements are being made to meet her with a small picked crew at Montreal, in order that the naval militia may become familiar with their duties of navigation before the hired crew is discharged at Ogdensburg. Chief Navigator Benjamin Howard and other officers and machinists are expected to leave inside the next few days for Ogdensburg or Montreal to join the Fern on her arrival at either of those ports.

The main body of the naval militia accompanied by the Minnesota Naval Militia band of several pieces, is scheduled to meet the Fern at Saint Marie, Mich., from which, as a starting point, a two weeks' cruise will be made on Lake Superior and where the reserves will be given an idea of their nautical duties.

Arrangements have been going forward for a great time by the reserves during this cruise and it is expected that they will be given a complete education at all the points where they may touch, especially in the copper country. At Marquette the citizens are arranging for a big reception at the hotel house where the Naval Militia band will give a concert, followed by a grand ball. The reserves will probably join the boat about the middle of next month.

WINNIPEG WINS EIGHT-OARED RACE

of the battle royal, and yelling and pleading with the Duluth men for one last spurt. They responded, but Winnipeg had another spurt left also, and with the stroke raised to 40 to the minute, the two crews dashed toward the finish line in one of the most hair-raising races imaginable.

When but two lengths from the finish line the Duluth men, who had been gradually veering from their course to the left, suddenly turned back and recovered and dashed across the line but a few feet away, with the Duluth men at their stern.

What startling was done was the fault of the Duluth crew, and the judges did not feel called upon to interfere, especially since the foul made no difference in the result, as the Duluth men could scarcely have pulled up the four-foot lead in the scant two lengths which remained.

The Winnipeg men won a magnificent race, and are entitled to all the credit that was coming to them, but the Duluth men are scarcely less to be congratulated. They took upon the defeat in the light of a victory, and rightly so. They organized the race for a moment, but the Winnipeg men's enthusiasm where none existed, and whipping a crew into shape out of the raw material at their hand.

The time was 5 minutes and 56 seconds, but the course was a little longer than one and a-half miles.

THE FOUR-OARED RACE.
The members of the Duluth four-oared crew have their own unsportsmanlike supporters to thank for the poor showing made. In spite of the warning given by the judges, before the race, three or four gasoline launches and some small boats persisted in getting in the way of the Duluth crew and giving them a false start. While the St. Paul and Winnipeg crews were swinging along in calm water on the inside courses, the Duluth men slashed through the last mile of the course in the choppy swell of the small boats and wore themselves out trying to keep their form in the face of such difficulties.

The crews made two false starts. On the second start the Duluth men took Winnipeg's lead and all three were again called back.

The third start was a beautiful one. The crews got away at 12:00 and when they settled into their swing Winnipeg was towing forty strokes to the minute, Duluth thirty-eight and St. Paul a long sweeping thirty-two. All three crews were showing excellent form with Duluth and St. Paul in the lead and Winnipeg about a length behind.

At the half mile Duluth began to get the swell from the launches, and commenced splashing badly, losing their form as a result. Gradually they dropped back from the lead and in less than half a mile lost three or four lengths. When half the course was covered all three crews were rowing thirty-two strokes, with St. Paul leading Winnipeg by a full length and Duluth about two lengths behind, making poor headway in the trail of the spectators' launches.

Just before the mile flag was reached Winnipeg commenced her spurt. It was a beautiful effort and the Canadians crept up foot by foot on the St. Paul crew which had responded back from the lead and was fighting valiantly to hold her own against most unfavorable conditions and was gaining a trifle. As the Yacht Club was passed Winnipeg crept up even with the Minnesota and gradually drew in to the lead. The finish was a heart-breaking one. St. Paul made a desperate effort, and regained part of the lost ground, crossing the line a scant fifteen feet in the rear, while Duluth splashed over about three lengths behind.

The port men on the Duluth crew had received the worst of the swell and C. Puck in the bow was so exhausted he could scarcely hold his form at the finish. The starboard crew pulled the port around and the boat finished some distance outside of her course. Had it not been for the unsportsmanlike conduct of the owners of two or three of the launches, Duluth would undoubtedly have been in at the finish making it one of the most exciting races that could be imagined.

Summary: Minnesota—A. S. French, stroke; C. Wright, third; R. M. Newport, first; second, W. Cochran, bow.

Winnipeg—H. P. Carper, stroke; B. L. Dutton, third; W. G. Mothersill, second; J. S. Laycock, bow.

Duluth—G. H. Jones, stroke; A. W. Puck, third; E. Peterson, second; C. Puck, bow.

Time, 5 minutes 5 seconds.

THE DOUBLES.
The double was a cakewalk for the Winnipeg men. Puck was exhausted from his hard pull-in the four and the Canadians were never headed.

The Duluth men had but a short time to train and against the experienced oarsmen from the other side of the border they had but little show.

The Duluth crew had been making poor headway on the rough outside course and had been shipping water inside the line. The St. Paul crew was passed the boat swamped and Winnipeg crossed the line alone. The entries were:

Duluth—J. R. Blair, stroke; F. G. Miller, bow.

Duluth—John Peyton, stroke; A. W. Puck, bow.

Arrangements are being made to pull off a senior four-oared race between the St. Paul four and a four chosen from the Winnipeg crew. It was to be rowed about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

BLACK RUST NOT FOUND

H. F. Chaffee of America Writes of Crop Appearances.

H. F. Chaffee of America, N. D., who is a member of the John Miller Co., in the grain business here, wrote Governor Miller under date of Saturday with reference to the black rust reports and experience is the same as reported in a great many letters received today by grain men in Duluth, though he goes into the matter at more length.

He takes up the case of a German farmer residing near Assiniboia, who claimed that his crop was ruined. He went into the field with the farmer and asked to see the rust. The farmer could show him none, although he had positively asserted its existence and finally said he looked when he was driving past.

"It is, by the way, just the sort of crop that last year was most affected by rust, being very heavy and potato land. Have been really over to Ripon, up to the extreme northwest corner of the town, and I feel about 30 per cent better about the crop than I have done at any time during the entire season. We have examined the standing grain everywhere, and I have not been able to see the slightest indication anywhere of black rust."

"We looked very carefully in the particular field he claimed to know was infected. As he said, the crop was very light and small there. It is land that is apparently badly in need of summer-fallowing—not at all the sort of crop that last year was affected by rust, and we went, with the exception of an occasional rather thin place, the crop is simply immense. I am almost inclined to think that there is no foundation whatever for a report of black rust. I am pretty nearly ready to say that if any shows in the future, it is a little red rust everywhere, but not enough so that it would be worth the grain for a long distance there is any collected on one's shoes or clothing."

DR. H. B. ALLEN DEAD.
Well Known Cloquet Physician Is No More.

Word has been received from Cloquet that Dr. H. B. Allen, a well-known physician of that city, died this morning of tuberculosis. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made. Dr. Allen was well known throughout the northern part of the state. He was deputy internal revenue collector for this district up to a few months ago, when he resigned on account of his illness.

SALOON MEN ARRESTED

Charged With Selling Liquor to West Duluth Minors.

John M. Foster of 332 Central avenue, and Charles Norling of 414 Central avenue, were arrested on a warrant this morning, and arraigned in municipal court on the charge of selling liquor to minors.

The arrest was brought about by an item in The Herald which stated that a number of minors were seen drunk in West Duluth on July 4. The police department investigated the cases, and the arrest of Foster and Norling followed.

They pleaded not guilty to the charge and the hearing was set for July 26.

GREENE AND GAYNOR WITHDRAW APPEAL.

Washington, July 24.—Mr. McMaster, Canadian consul for the United States government in its case against Greene and Gaynor, has called the department of justice from London that the two men have withdrawn their petition for leave of appeal to the privy council at London and that on Wednesday the court will formally dismiss the appeal.

Two Wounded in Shooting Tragedy at Chicago.

Chicago, July 24.—Mrs. James Griffin, 24 years old, was shot and killed, and two other persons were wounded by Timothy Dooley, at Fifty-second and West Twelfth street, today. Dooley then killed himself. The wounded are Annie Griffin, 17 years, shot in the back of the head, and Pat Dooley, father of the suicide, who was shot in the left cheek. For some time, it is declared.

CASE IS ON TRIAL.

Knudsen-Ferguson Company Against Michigan Central.

The suit of the Knudsen-Ferguson company against the Michigan Central Railway company is on before Judge Morris and a jury in United States court today. It began this morning with the drawing of the jury and will likely last a couple of days. It is one of the cases in which E. M. Ferguson of this city is fighting the private car lines and the drawback rate system and the decision in the matter will be looked for with interest by the business interests of the entire country.

R. S. Powell of Duluth is attorney for the Knudsen-Ferguson Fruit company, and Kellogg & Severance are attorneys for the defendant road. The specific basis of the suit is at attempt to recover an unjust charge on a car of grapes.

CREW WAS SAVED.

Philadelphia, July 24.—The four men who were thought to have been drowned late Saturday by the sinking of the yacht Narketa, in Delaware bay, near Lewes, Del., have arrived at Bowers beach, a few miles from Lewes. When the Narketa struck on Brandywine shoal Saturday, Dr. Hart and a friend who were the only persons on the vessel besides the crew, were rescued.

NEW CENSUS GIVES DULUTH A POPULATION OF 64,937

and those born in other parts of the United States come from Of foreign born the Swedes come first, but the Canadians are only 189 behind in numbers, and the Norwegians are third of the foreign element, being 2,309 behind the Canadians. The Finns come fourth, while those classed under the head of "foreign"—that is the miscellaneous foreign population collectively, have the largest showing outside of those born in Minnesota and the United States in general.

The work of R. D. Haven, who has charge of the gathering of census figures in Duluth and St. Louis county, has demonstrated that he knew his business. He was greatly aided by the Duluth Commercial club, and carefully studied the best methods of taking the census before the work began. The start made, he found himself well equipped with good ideas, and also with good assistants. The corps which worked on the census gathering proved exceptionally competent, and its work and Mr. Haven's direction has called forth compliments from George E. Wright, superintendent of the state census, and Peter E. Hanson, secretary of state, both of whom said that nothing could be more thorough than the work done by Mr. Haven and his assistants.

Mr. Haven says that he believes when all of the returns are in, St. Louis county will show the greatest increase in the state. It is yet to be heard from, but he does not expect that the returns in that county will in any way overshadow St. Louis county as the banner county for growth in the state. Mr. Haven considers it wonderful, the number of settlers who have come into the county in the last five years, and predicts that they are permanent residents. He says that with a few more good roads and some drainage of lands, St. Louis county in the next five years, will fill up so fast that the census will show a growth in the county that will be nothing short of phenomenal.

The returns for the city of Duluth are as follows:

HAVEN OF REST

Tramps Establish Up-to-Date Camp in Western Iowa.

Members Contribute For Food For Benefit of Order.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, July 24.—About a half-mile north of the Northwestern round house in this city, "hobos" have established a camp, and each man as he passes through is supposed to contribute something to the future benefit of the members of his order.

All kinds of cooking utensils, along with boxes of old papers, tobacco, pictures, pipes and tobacco have been gradually gathered in this nest of weary travelers, until it is known all over the West among tramps as the "Haven of Rest."

Some inventive "boy" has constructed a fireplace, where the cooking of the camp is done. This is arranged that any tramp, from the rolling tomato can to a roast pig, can be taken care of by the cook of the party. When a pig or a chicken is to be roasted, two forked sticks, on which rests a long iron rod, is moved over the fire.

When a can is to be boiled, a sheet iron pot rests so that the fire plays through a round hole on the can.

Seats constructed from railroad ties have been placed around the fire at convenient distances. One large can, which sits near the fireplace, is the tobacco can, and is never empty.

As a rule this camp is under the charge of a head tramp, who styles himself "king." He rules with a high hand, and what he says goes. The man who has been king of the Council Bluffs camp for some time is nowhere to be found at present.

Not more than four weeks ago two street cars were held up, and the contents forced to give up their cash. Since that time the "king" of the "bos" has not been seen. Since the disappearance of this man, a professional cook has been acting as the head of the camp. He is a cook who has commanded a big salary at one time in some of the smaller restaurants of the East, but his fondness for liquor was the cause of his downfall.

He sends the tramps and cripples who stay at the camp out for the vegetables and other things they need, and he cooks in a way that makes his followers want to stay in the camp right along.

However, this cook has made the order that no man shall stay in the camp longer than a week, for he says, tramps must keep on the move or they will be hanged. He brought that inside of a few days now, he proposes to move on to some other camp.

The camp has lately been near the river, and since it is so near, many a hobo has been seen to take a bath in the lake. All the hobo heads of the present camp are in the grass, and at night there are hundreds of empty box cars in which they sleep.

Flow of the men at the camp are real, professional hobos. Most of them are on their way to some place where they can get work. Just at present the majority of the hobo heads of the camp are in the head of the grain rust. Men of this sort stop only one day or so when they come to the camp, and then they move on.

The professional tramp wants to stay sometimes when he is at the camp, but he is not at all a hobo. He is a man who is at the camp for a week or so, and then he moves on. He is a man who is at the camp for a week or so, and then he moves on.

SAILORS ARE BURIED.

Dead From Bennington Interred in Military Ground.

San Diego, Cal., July 24.—They buried the Bennington's dead yesterday—forty-seven of them—in a common grave. On the crest of the promontory of Loma, high above the shimmering water of San Diego bay, on the one side, and within sound of the cannon's roar of the Pacific on the other, they were laid to rest in the peaceful little military burying ground. Without the crash of drum or the sound of brass, without pomp or parade, yet with simple impressiveness, all honor was paid the nation's dead.

The death trench, in which the bodies were placed in two rows, feet to feet, is sixty feet long and fourteen feet wide.

TURBINE MOTOR YACHT

Being Built For Kasier In American Shipyard.

Berlin, July 24.—According to a German sporting paper the Kaiser is now having built in a shipyard in America a turbine motor yacht, which, if everything planned for it be true, will revolutionize the building of such craft.

The yacht is to be about seventy-eight feet long and her engines will be of 2,000 horse power, which will give the vessel a speed of nearly sixty miles an hour.

Her turbine motors and gasoline apparatus are stated to be of an entirely new construction invented by a German-American named Robert-Sellin, who has also constructed turbines capable of making over 2,000 revolutions per minute.

The boat will probably be used as a dispatch boat on the Kaiser's cruise.

before the water leaves, and it is impossible to plant and raise another crop. In all 150 families are victims of the floods, and the committee estimates that $25,000 will be needed to relieve their distress. The appeal signed by the committee is as follows:

"Whereas, the Mississippi valley in Aitkin county is suffering from the most disastrous flood in its history, being inundated for a distance of fifty miles at a season of the year when replanting of crops after the recession of water will be impossible; and

"Whereas, the devastation of the flood has claimed everything in its track, submerging many farms with their crops to a depth of from one to eight feet, destroying all hope of gathering any harvest with which to carry the cattle over another winter; and

"Whereas, many farmers have been compelled to load their stock onto flatboats and transport them from the premises, and sell them for about half price, or whatever they could get; and

"Whereas, the flooded district will be left a barren waste, incapable of giving the farmer anything until the land has been reseeded, which will require another year; and

"Whereas, the amount of money necessary to meet these conditions will approximate $25,000, only a small part of which can be raised locally; be it

"Resolved, that in behalf of the 150 families who have been the victims of the flood, many of whom have lost everything in the way of crops or a living, and must have immediate assistance, we hereby make our condition known to the citizens of Minnesota and ask for aid."

Congressman Hale states that at a meeting held in Aitkin on Saturday, it was resolved to ask congress to dig a ditch from Wadena, above Aitkin, to Pine Knoll, below Aitkin, a distance of nine miles, to relieve the river of much of its surplus water in time of freshets.

This ditch would relieve the river of a part of its overflow for a distance of fifty-five miles. While the proposed canal route is only nine miles long, it is fifty-five miles by the river between the points where it would begin at Wadena and end at Pine Knoll. If it were of adequate dimensions it would prevent the flooding of at least 100,000 acres of land in times of high water, such as has just been experienced.

Understand, said Mr. Hale, "that the proposition for a ditch to help care for the surplus water has been considered in past years and that a survey has been made, but the plans were dropped at that time to call for about $1,000,000, but the Aitkin people consider that the work can be done for far less."

A Washington dispatch says that Gen. MacKenzie has appointed a board of engineers, consisting of Majors Chittenden at Sioux City, Potter at Duluth, and J. L. at Milwaukee, "to consider and report upon matters connected with the operation of reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi river."

The board is to be composed of three members, one of whom is to be a representative of the farmers below the dams, and when Maj. Derby and the war department are getting all sorts of free advice as to how the river can be kept from overflowing.

SALES ARE SMALL

One Transaction Reported Involving 2,000,000 Feet of Box Lumber.

The Manufacturers Claim Higher Prices Do Not Affect Retail Trade.

A sale of 2,000,000 feet of box lumber by D. C. Thompson & Co. is the only transaction of any importance reported for the past several days in local lumber circles. The lumber included in this sale is to be shipped to Cleveland by the lake route.

Lumber prices in the Head of the Lakes market continue very firm, and there is a rumor current that the price of lath is to advance shortly, due to the scarcity of the stock and inadequacy of the supply to the demand.

The publications devoted to the interests of the lumber manufacturers claim that people who are familiar with trade conditions, and who have been buying white pine lumber at the manufacturing points to meet the present large demand, are not surprised that the manufacturers have been unable to supply more for their product. In the past year or two the price list has been revised several times, though no general advances are claimed to have been made.

Items here and there are said to have been advanced, mostly on lumber shipped to the East, or that is manufactured in the West. The manufacturers claim that the price of lath is to advance shortly, due to the scarcity of the stock and inadequacy of the supply to the demand.

The amount of this class of lumber obtainable from the logs cut in the West is said to be steadily increasing, and as it has become harder to get, it has become more valuable. The lumbermen, it is said, feel that they are entitled to the advance by the improved conditions in both the yellow pine and the West coast lumber markets.

The yellow pine manufacturers have been cutting out in the past twelve months to the extent that a big surplus stock is reported to have been removed. The Western manufacturers also have made some advances in their price lists since the first of the year. The advances, the manufacturers claim, have not been radical, but most of it is factory stock or sold for other special purposes.

It is reported from Astoria that the Red Cliff Lumber company intends to rebuild the sawmill that burned at Red Cliff, Wis., some weeks ago, despite the fact that the mill is of a very old type. It is said, will not be as large as the one that was destroyed, and it is to be ready for sawing next spring.

The logs that were last winter being towed to the Thompson mill at Washburn for sawing, but there is still enough pine on the reservation to keep the mill in operation until the next six or seven years.

The latter part of this week, A. J. Lammers of Stillwater, who, with William O'Brien and John H. Derby, is interested in some 2,000,000 acres of timber lands on the Bahama Islands, where a sawmill is in operation. The syndicate is sending with Mr. Lammers machinery for a planing mill, and also a sawmill, and the lumbermen interested in the big deal are building a town on Abasco Island, which is to be the seat of operations for the island of Abasco.

Wilson, after the governor of all the islands. It is understood that a number of Minnesota men will go along as mechanics, but that natives and colored men will do most of the labor at the plant and in the woods.

The attempt of the lumber manufacturers to keep the mill in operation by utilizing every possible by-product of their business has led to some very interesting as well as successful experiments in the use of the mill. The mill is said to have been started at Chobogyan, where the largest sawmill pile in the world is being converted into charcoal, ethyl, alcohol or oxalic acid. The pile accumulated from 1877 until the lumbering operations that made it were suspended about two years ago. The pile is 1,000 feet long, 375 feet wide, covering twelve acres and averaging 20 to 30 feet deep. The sawdust, after the water covering it is removed, is said to be found as bright as when first placed there.

DANIEL LAMONT PASSES AWAY

Was Secretary of War Under President Cleveland.

New York, July 24.—Col. Daniel Lamont, secretary of war under Mr. Cleveland, died at 9:15, last evening, at his country residence at Millbrook, Dutchess county, N. Y., after a brief illness.

Nothing but the bare announcement of Col. Lamont's death was made public.

The simple Christian virtues common to all churches, brotherhood, charity, helpfulness, never had a greater opportunity of expressing themselves than in this time of distress. Furthermore, it was in times of trouble like this that churches took springs of activity and life.

There was a curious analogy in this matter between church life in England and in Scotland.

The eighteenth century in both the English and Scottish churches was a time of profound prosperity, profound gloom and profound spiritual indifference. And it was not too much to say that it was a time of the eighteenth century had continued uncontrolled, unguided and unchecked, they might have found themselves in the nineteenth century plunged into spiritual indifference, nay, spiritual skepticism.

There was a great development of spiritual life felt in Scotland and in England in the fourth decade of the nineteenth century. In May, 1843, Scotland, with mingled emotions of pride and sorrow and exultation, saw Dr. Chalmers and Dr. Welsh, at the head of 400 ministers, walk out from the general assembly into the wilderness to worship God in their own fashion, with spiritual independence as the base of their contention.

He thought every one would admit, without controversy, that Dr. Chalmers was a better man in establishment as he conceived that an establishment should be.

In 1846, near Oxford, a similar infusion of the spirit of a heart that was separated from all that it held dear, was witnessed when Dr. Newman was received into the church of Rome.

Dr. Newman remained to them as a pride and privilege in their literature, but he was taken from them as absolutely as a Christian could be who went to another branch of the Catholic Christian church. It was with sorrow, almost in agony, that the great spiritual uprisings of their time had taken place. Might they not even take hope, even from the suffering that at present prevailed in the United Free church that in the mysterious designs of the Almighty a higher object might be answered and that the United Free church might take from its adversity a new spring and start on its path of spiritual ascension.

Among the honorary pall bearers were Lieut. Governor "Curly" Guild, Jr., former Secretary of the Navy, Long, former Governor Bates, former Governor John Q. A. Brackett, and E. B. Chaffin, Mayor Patrick A. Collins, Col. William H. Olin, and Gen. E. P. Clark.

DANIEL L. LAMONT.

He was by the family and this was contained in a brief message to the Associated Press.

It was understood, however, that the death was unexpected, although Col. Lamont had been in poor health, and the members of the immediate family were gathered at "Attant," the Lamont country home at Millbrook. Intelligence of the approaching death of Col. Lamont was sent earlier in the evening to Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York, a lifelong friend of the colonel, who was in the city at the time, and he could not be reached by Mrs. Bryant, who later received a second message announcing Col. Lamont's death.

Daniel Scott Lamont was born at Cortlandt, N. Y., on Feb. 13, 1831. He began life in journalism and from 1855 to 1859 was private secretary to President Cleveland, by whom he was appointed secretary of war on March 5, 1893. Mr. Lamont was vice president of the Northern Pacific railway and a director and trustee in many railroad and financial corporations. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

During the morning the body lay in state in Memorial hall, at the state house, surrounded by the battle flags borne by the troops of the commonwealth. The funeral was the first of the kind since the death of the late Gen. Blackmar.

CASSINI SAYS ENGLAND AND THE UNITED STATES WILL REGRET THE WAR

Japanese Supremacy In Far East Will Dominate Trade.

Russia's Difficulties Have Not Reached a Critical Point.

Peace Can Be Had If the Japanese Prove to Be Reasonable.

New York, July 25.—Count Cassini, formerly Russian ambassador at Washington, expresses the opinion, according to the Herald's Paris correspondent, that all now depends on the Japanese, and that if their demands at the coming peace conference are reasonable, peace is assured. Speaking of the Russian representative, M. Witte, Count Cassini said: "I think this infinitely important task could not have been entrusted to a better representative. He is a man of extraordinary capacity and of the finest character. He knows the Far Eastern question as few men know it, and is a patriot."

"Regarding internal difficulties, Russia has now reached a critical moment in her history, but America has had such a moment, so has France. These difficulties will disappear, and Russia will be stronger than ever. These are merely passing difficulties, and it would be unwise to attach too much importance to them."

"Referring to China, he said: 'I like the Chinese. It takes years and years of worry and trouble to bring them around to your way of thinking, or to induce them to enter into any understanding, but once convinced, they are loyal. A Chinaman's word is as good as his oath.'

"I speak with all caution and cir-

KOMURA NOT SANGUINE That Peace Will Follow Negotiations With Russians.

Chicago, July 25.—Baron Komura authorized the following statement before leaving Chicago:

"At New York we shall meet Minister Takahira, whom we expect to have word from President Roosevelt, inviting us to call either at Oyster Bay or Washington. We desire peace, yet are not over-anxious, nor are we over-sanguine that the negotiations will be productive. Japanese protectors over Korea will open the way for Japanese immigration there, and divert it from this country."

"We are anxious for peace, of course, but not over-anxious," said Y. Sato, chief of the foreign office staff, accompanying Baron Komura. "There is no peace-at-any-price sentiment in Japan. If we settle it must be at a fair price."

BRAVE RESCUE BY FATHER FRUITLESS Finds His Twin Sons Lifeless on Getting Them Out of House.

Pittsburg, July 25.—Two dead, two fatally burned and three others seriously injured, is the result of an explosion of a gasoline stove, today, at the home of Levi Titus, a Koshier butcher, No. 725 Wood Alley, Bradock, Pa.

The dead are:

HARRY TITUS, aged 7 years.

MEYER TITUS, aged 7 years.

Fatally burned: Mrs. Sarah Titus, the mother, Elsie Titus, aged 3 years.

Seriously burned: Levi Titus, the father, Goldie Titus, aged 18 years; Ray Titus, aged 16 years.

The dead children were twins. The explosion was caused by the overturning of a gasoline stove on which Mrs. Titus was preparing breakfast. In a few minutes, the house was in flames.

AMERICANS ARE GIVEN WARM WELCOME ON ARRIVAL AT JAPAN

Yokohama, July 25.—Secretary of War Taft and party received a demonstrative welcome to Japan, the principal buildings, streets and wharves of this city, and the shipping in the harbor being gaily decorated. A noisy display of daylight fireworks along the streets fronting the harbor announced the arrival of the steamship Manchuria at the quarantine grounds at 7 o'clock this morning, and continued until the vessel was docked. Lloyd C. Griscom, the American minister, the attaches of the legation and Consul General H. B. SOCIETY WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE

New York, July 25.—Within five minutes of the time Charles Marshall, a Wall street broker, left his wife, apparently sleeping soundly in bed, to tell the woman wrote her husband a note telling him not to let the world blame him for what was going to happen, and shot herself. She was unconscious before Mr. Marshall could reach her bedside from another room, and died in a short time.

Mrs. Marshall was formerly Miss Grace Stark, and was highly connected in New York social circles. No cause for her suicide has been discovered. The tragedy occurred in the Raleigh, a fashionable family apartment hotel, overlooking Central park, at Ninety-second street.

WILSON HAS INDIGESTION.

Washington, July 25.—Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture is confined to his apartment as the result of an attack of acute indigestion. He was taken ill yesterday, but continued at the department throughout the day. He is improving rapidly and is expected to return to duty tomorrow.

BISHOP OF SUPERIOR DULY CONSECRATED

Rev. A. F. Schinner Receives Emblems of His New Dignity.

Mgr. Diomedee Falconio, Apostolic Delegate, Confers the Episcopate.

Bishop McGolrick of Duluth One of Assistant Consecrators.

THE MOST REV. DIOMEDEE FALCONIO.

Apostolic Delegate to the United States, Who Consecrated the Very Rev. A. F. Schinner as Bishop of the Diocese of Superior.

Milwaukee July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Very Rev. Augustin F. Schinner was today elevated to the high office of bishop of the newly created diocese of Superior, Wis. The ceremonies were conducted in St. John's cathedral and were most elaborate. When the new bishop gave his vows the highest dignities of the church this side of Rome were represented, among the witnesses and his excellency, the Most Rev. Diomedee Falconio of Washington, D. C., apostolic delegate to America, received his vows, conducted his examination, and blessed to their use and conferred upon him the emblems of his new dignity.

Besides the apostolic delegate, three archbishops, eight bishops, five vicars general, several secretaries and chancellors, and between 300 and 400 Catholic priests from this and other states were among the witnesses. In the pews not occupied by the visiting clergy relatives of the bishop-elect, sisters of the various orders connected with the Catholic church, and representatives from the various Catholic parishes of the city were interested spectators of the impressive ceremony.

The bishop-elect, who was wearing one of his kind ever seen in Milwaukee for every grade of promotion in the gift of the pope, was seated in the front of the altar boys, in whom the future priest-hood of the church is seen. The priest, the clergyman of higher office, and, finally, the pope's delegate in this country, each in the rich robes belonging to his office, formed a procession of more than ordinary significance and interest.

Maintenance By Force Would Be Injurious to Both Countries.

Norway, However, Must Ask For Separation In a Legal Manner.

Cabinet Resigns After the Report Is Made to the Riksdag.

Stockholm, July 25.—The cabinet has resigned.

Stockholm, Sweden, July 25.—The special committee appointed by the riksdag to deal with the crisis which created the revolution in Norway today delivered its report. The committee declares unanimously that the government bill cannot be adopted in the form in which it was presented to the riksdag, and proposes that the riksdag shall signify its willingness to negotiate with Norway for a dissolution of the union, if the newly-elected union, or such request, is received from Norway, after the Norwegian people, by a plebiscite declared in favor of a dissolution of the union.

The committee recommends that in the event of a dissolution of the union, Sweden should insist on the following terms:

First.—The establishment of a zone on each side of the frontier separating the kingdoms within which the existing fortifications shall be raised, and new fortifications may not be erected.

Second.—The right of pasturing reindeer belonging to Swedish Laplanders in North Norway.

Third.—That the transit trade through both countries shall be secured against unjustifiable obstruction.

Fourth.—That the status of Sweden in respect to foreign powers, as established by treaty, shall be clearly defined, so that Sweden shall be completely freed from responsibility for Norway to other states.

The committee also regards an arbitration convention between Sweden and Norway as desirable, although it does not consider an essential condition for the dissolution of the union.

The committee further proposes to authorize the government to raise a loan of $25,000,000, which can, by a decision of the riksdag, be made available for such readjustments and arrangements as may be necessitated by the new conditions.

Regarding the eventual negotiations with Norway, the committee declares that: "Whatever may be demanded for the dissolution of Sweden, should be a condition of the repeal of the act of union on the part of Sweden, and of the recognition of Norway, must be

Peace Can Be Had If the Japanese Prove to Be Reasonable.

New York, July 25.—Count Cassini, former Russian ambassador at Washington, expresses the opinion, according to the Herald's Paris correspondent, that all now depends on the Japanese, and that if their demands at the pending peace conference are reasonable, peace is assured. Speaking of the Russian representative, M. Witte, Count Cassini said: "I think this important task could not have been entrusted to a better representative. He is a man of extraordinary capacity and of the finest character. He knows the Far Eastern question as few men know it, and is a patriot."

Regarding internal difficulties, Cassini has reached a critical moment in his history, but America has had such a moment, so has France. These difficulties will disappear, and Russia will be stronger than ever. These are merely passing difficulties, and it would be unwise to attach too much importance to them.

Referring to China, he said: "I like the Chinese. It takes years and years of worry and trouble to bring them around to your way of thinking, or to induce them to enter into any understanding, but once convinced, they are loyal. A Chinaman's word is as good as his oath."

"I speak with all reason and cir-

KOMURA NOT SANGUINE
That Peace Will Follow
Negotiations With Russians.

Chicago, July 25.—Baron Komura authorized the following statement before leaving Chicago:

"At New York we shall meet Minister Takahira, whom we expect to have word from President Roosevelt, inviting us to call either at Oyster Bay or Washington. We desire peace, yet are not over-anxious, nor are we over-sanguine that the negotiations will be productive. Japanese protectors over Korea will open the way for Japanese immigration there, and divert it from this country."

"We are anxious for peace, of course, but not over-anxious," said Y. Sato, chief of the foreign office staff, accompanying Baron Komura. "There is no peace-at-any-price sentiment in Japan. We settle it must be at a fair price."

BISHOP OF SUPERIOR
DULY CONSECRATED

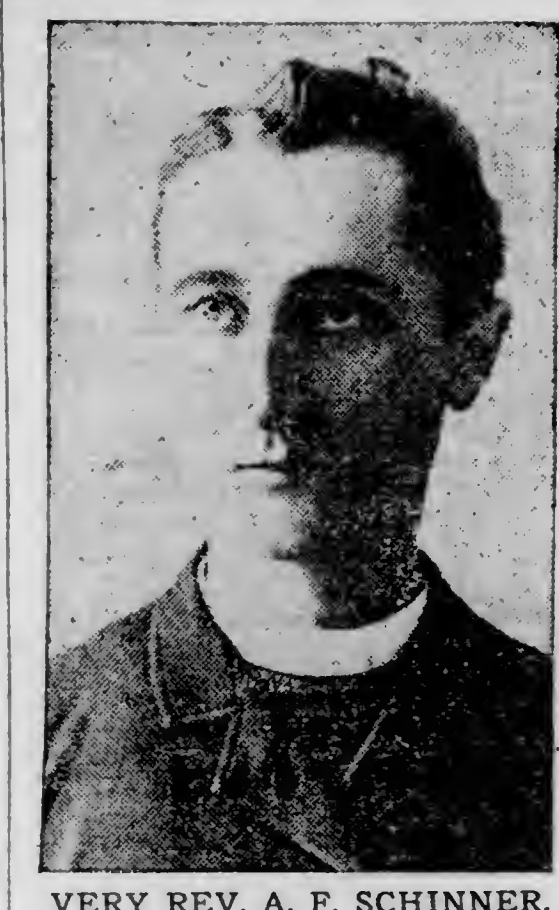

Rev. A. F. Schinner Receives Emblems of His New Dignity.

Mgr. Diomed Falconio, Apostolic Delegate, Confers the Episcopate.

Bishop McGrick of Duluth One of Assistant Consecrators.

Milwaukee July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Very Rev. Augustin F. Schinner was today elevated to the high office of bishop of the newly created diocese of Superior, Wis. The ceremonies were conducted in St. John's cathedral and were most elaborate. When the new bishop gave his vows the highest dignitaries of the church took part. Among the witnesses were the Most Rev. Diomed Falconio of Washington, D. C., apostolic delegate to America, received his vows, conducted his examination, and blessed to their use and conferred upon him the emblems of his new dignity.

SUICIDE IS TRAGIC

Foreigner Who Objected to Deportation Jumps From Liner.

Big Ship Stopped But Victim Could Not Be Found.

New York, July 25.—A desire to escape deportation led to a tragic suicide today, on board the steamer Grosser Kurfurst, bound for Bremen. While the steamer was passing through the narrows, one of a group of immigrants declared intent to enter the United States suddenly leaped overboard. The liner was stopped and for nearly fifteen minutes a life boat rowed back and forth over the eddy marked path where the unfortunate foreigner went down. Nothing could be accomplished until the arrival of the firemen who found the victim on the ladder, who found that they were both dead, having been suffocated.

The father then went back and secured the other three children and as he assisted the last one to the window he fell to the floor overcome by smoke. He has taken out unconscious by the firemen.

And Fine of $1,000 Is Sentence Given Senator Mitchell.

Execution Is Deferred Until Supreme Court Reviews Case.

Portland, Or., July 25.—United States Senator Mitchell, convicted of using his office of United States senator to further the law practice of the firm of Mitchell & Tanner of this city, was today sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and six months' penal servitude. Pending a review of the case by the supreme court of the United States, execution of the sentence will be deferred. In the meantime, Mitchell will be placed under bail to the amount of $2,000.

BRAVE RESCUE BY FATHER FRUITLESS
Finds His Twin Sons Lifeless on Getting Them Out of House.

Pittsburg, July 25.—Two dead, two fatally burned and three others seriously injured is the result of an explosion of a gasoline stove, today, at the home of Levi Titus, a Koshier butcher, No. 725 Wood Alley, Bradock, Pa.

The dead are:

HARRY TITUS, aged 7 years.

MILVER TITUS, aged 5 years.

Fatally burned: Mrs. Sarah Titus, the mother; Elsie Titus, aged 3 years.

Seriously injured: Levi Titus, the father; Goble Titus, aged 15 years; Ray Titus, aged 10 years.

The dead children were twins. The explosion was caused by the overturning of a gasoline stove on which Mrs. Titus was preparing breakfast. In a few minutes, the house was in flames.

Neighbors made strenuous efforts to reach the five children who were asleep on the upper floor, but as the flames had already spread to the stairway, nothing could be accomplished until the arrival of the firemen with ladders. The father was the first to scale the ladder and enter the children's room where smoke was heaving from the windows. Feeling his way to the bed he grasped the twins and carried them to the window. He handed the children to the firemen on the ladder, who found that they were both dead, having been suffocated.

The father then went back and secured the other three children and as he assisted the last one to the window he fell to the floor overcome by smoke. He has taken out unconscious by the firemen.

STREET CAR CONDUCTOR
Gets the Floyd Estate, Worth
Over $1,000,000.

Chicago, July 25.—A dispatch to the Tribune from San Francisco says: Judge Sayre, at Lakeport, has handed down a decision giving the entire Floyd estate, worth $1,000,000, to Miles Gorence, husband of the late Miss Floyd. Gorence was a conductor on a street car, and his handsome face and polished manner won the rich but eccentric Mrs. Floyd. She was 15 years older than he, but despite family opposition, she married him and a year later she died, leaving him all her estate, except the house where she lived.

AMERICANS ARE GIVEN WARM
WELCOME ON ARRIVAL AT JAPAN

Yokohama, July 25.—Secretary of War Taft and party received a demonstrative welcome to Japan, the principal buildings, streets and wharves of this city, and the shipping in the harbor being daily decorated. A noisy display of daylight fireworks along the streets fronting the harbor announced the arrival of the steamship Manchuria at the quarantine grounds at 7 o'clock this morning, and continued until the vessel was docked. REMAINS OF
LIEUT. CURRIE

At Presidio—No Government Fund to Bring Them East.

Washington, July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, today decided that he had no fund at his command to pay the express charges on the remains of John V. Currie of Duluth, late treasurer of San Juan Del Norte, who died at his post some three months ago and whose remains are now at the Presidio, San Francisco, awaiting instructions for final burial. John V. Currie served as lieutenant in the "Thirty-fourth Volunteers" infantry, and when that regiment was mustered out after service in the Philippines, Lieut. Currie received a civilian appointment as treasurer as above mentioned.

The father of Lieut. Currie resides in Ottawa, Canada, and desires to bury his son's remains there. However, all that the government can do under the circumstances is to give the remains burial in the cemetery at the Presidio, as Lieut. Currie was a civilian at the time of his death. There is no fund which may be drawn upon to ship the remains to his father's home. This expense will have to be borne by the deceased's family. If they should decide to bring the body home, the father would have to pay the cost of shipping the body to the Philippines to marry the late Lieut. Currie, is still upon the island of Luzon, straitening up her husband's affairs.

SMALL FIRE IN CHICAGO
ALARMS HOTEL GUESTS.

Chicago, July 25.—Fire in the building at 63-65 Canal street caused a scare among guests of the Central hotel, Madison and Clinton streets. The alarm rang screaming through the corridors of the hotel. They were quelled by men in the hotel before any was hurt.

SOCIETY WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE

New York, July 25.—Within five minutes of the time Charles Marshall, a Wall street broker, left his wife, apparently sleeping soundly in bed, today the woman wrote her husband a note telling him not to let the world blame him for what was going to happen, and shot herself. She was unconscious before Mr. Marshall could reach her bedside from another room, and died in a short time.

AN INVESTIGATION Of Every Life Insurance Company Demanded.

Chicago, July 25.—The Inter-Ocean today says: A big-convention of policyholders for the purpose of demanding an investigation of the affairs of every life insurance company in the country is the aim of the Iroquois club of Chicago, which has taken the initial step toward starting a national movement.

WAS A TURKISH PLOT.

Constantinople, July 25.—The commission which has been inquiring into the attempt on the life of the sultan Friday last, is believed to have obtained information indicating that the plot was a Turkish one, but as this was never to have been admitted, even if proved, the authorities are earnestly creating the impression that the bomb outrage was the work of European anarchists.

BARON KOMURA REACHES NEW YORK WHERE HE WILL REST

New York, July 25.—Baron Komura, Japanese peace envoy arrived on the fast train from Chicago over the Pennsylvania road at 9:25, today. At the Jersey City station to greet him were about forty Japanese merchants. When the ferry boat reached the foot of Twenty-third street, this city, a hundred or more Japanese greeted the baron and his suite with cheers while a band played the Japanese national air. The baron with Consul General Uchida and two of his suite entered a carriage and were driven to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. H. W. Dennison, an American, who is attached to the Japanese foreign office and has been in Japan for thirty-five years is with the party. Mr. Dennison says he has no official capacity with the peace delegation. The party was met at Philadelphia by Consul General Uchida.

Cabinet Resigns After the Report
Is Made to the Riksdag.

Stockholm, July 25.—The cabinet has resigned.

Stockholm, Sweden, July 25.—The special committee appointed by the riksdag to deal with the crisis which created the revolution in Norway today delivered its report. The committee declares unanimously that the government bill cannot be adopted in the form in which it was presented to the riksdag, and proposes that the riksdag shall signify its willingness to negotiate with Norway for a dissolution of the union, if the newly-elected storthing requests a report of the union, or such request, is received from Norway, after the Norwegian people, by a plebiscite declared in favor of a dissolution of the union.

The committee recommends that in the event of a dissolution of the union, Sweden should insist on the following terms:

First—The establishment of a zone on each side of the frontier separating the kingdoms within which the existing fortifications shall be raised, and new fortifications may not be erected.

Second—The right of pasturing reindeer belonging to Swedish Laplanders in North Norway.

Third—That the transit trade through both countries shall be secured against unjustifiable obstruction.

Fourth—That the status of Sweden in respect to foreign powers, as established by treaty, shall be legally defined, so that Sweden shall be completely freed from responsibility for Norway to other states.

The committee also regards an arbitration convention between Sweden and Norway as desirable, although it does not consider an essential condition for the dissolution of the union.

The committee further proposes to authorize the government to raise a loan of $2,000,000, which can, by a renunciation of the riksdag, be made available for such readjustments and arrangements as may be necessitated by the new conditions.

Regarding the eventual negotiations with Norway, the committee declares that: "Whatever may be demanded for the withdrawal of Sweden from a condition of the repeal of the act of union on the part of Sweden, and of the recognition of Norway, must be

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR SUFFERERS BY FLOOD
Duluth Is Responding to Governor
Johnson's Appeal For Funds.

The appeal for aid by the sufferers by the floods in Aitkin county should meet with a liberal response from the citizens of Duluth, especially in view of the intimate business relations of that section of the state with Duluth. Having been designated by Governor Johnson as one of a committee to solicit subscriptions in aid of the sufferers, the Herald will gladly receive small or large sums and forward them to the treasurer of the relief committee.

This morning a check for $25 was received from the Gowan-Peyton-Twohy company, and no doubt the other wholesale houses will follow this excellent example.

DULUTH WEATHER REPORT—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, with possible light local showers. Light and fresh northerly to easterly winds.

Have You Ever Been Inside Our Store?

If you haven't, then how do you know that you're not overlooking a golden opportunity to buy a mighty good suit of clothes at very little cost during our Red Figure Sale?

We've been telling you day after day that we are not asking as much money for refined summer clothing as other stores, and we have told you the reason why.

If you have forgotten the reason, here it is again: We have a whole lot too many things on hand to dispose of at regular prices, not only the regular stock of this store but the splendid goods from our West Superior place. And if they won't go fast enough at regular prices they will and are at special prices.

Scores of business men and youths of Duluth have answered our plain, frank statements by visiting us in person and in not a single case have we failed to live up to our published statements.

Some came out of curiosity—they told us so—but they went out with a purchase, whether it was a suit of clothes or some furnishings or shoes or hats.

Now, if you haven't attended this sale, wouldn't it be wise to do so now—at once? Wouldn't it be a good scheme just to look into these claims of ours and take advantage of them if you find they are true?

Wouldn't it be a good thing to drop in here tomorrow and see just exactly how you can lay in a whole stock of summer goods at a saving of several dollars?

Sincerely yours,

Oak Hall Clothing Co.

COAL MINERS PLAN STRIKE

May Close Anthracite and Bituminous Mines Before Winter.

Pittsburg, July 25.—According to plans which are now being matured, a general strike of all the coal miners in Pennsylvania, both in the anthracite and the bituminous fields, will be declared before the winter sets in. This action has been decided upon during the past week by officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

President Patrick Dolan of the Pittsburgh district has admitted that a great strike is being planned. The action is being taken to forestall any action of the operators in the anthracite region to force a general lockout. A strike of this character, according to President Dolan, will bring out every union miner in the state, together with miners in other states, who may declare sympathy strikes and will practically cut off the coal supply of the country.

National Vice President T. L. Lewis of the Mine Workers has been in Pittsburgh during the past week, having been deputized to come here and act by President John Mitchell. The decision to bring out the bituminous miners was reached after a consultation with the local leaders.

The strike is really a revival of the old conflict of several years ago, when the miners were compelled by the Reading railroad to accede to the demands of the operators. President Dolan and Vice President Urian Belingham of the Pittsburgh district, with whom Lewis conducted the negotiations, assured the latter that every miner in the bituminous district would respond to the call. Heretofore it has been impossible for the anthracite and bituminous miners to act in unison, and this has been responsible for their constant failures. Vice President Lewis stated that if the men stick together, as he expects them to do, it will mean the greatest conflict between organized capital and labor that the world has ever known.

All the Eastern railroads are erecting great bins, which will be filled with coal in anticipation of the strike.

NORWAY'S LEAD

Might Be Followed By Ireland, Say London Newspapers.

Used as Another Argument Against Granting Home Rule.

London, July 25.—Certain London newspapers have recently expressed the opinion that the declaration of independence just made by Norway was a strong argument against granting home rule to Ireland.

They point to the fact that, although Norway had a national legislature, and had, therefore, charge of her domestic affairs, she was dissatisfied and demanded complete political autonomy. They further say that under similar conditions Ireland would act like Norway, and home rule should be refused.

In considering home rule for Ireland two questions may be asked: 1. Does Ireland really want home rule, and (2) why do the Irish want a separate form of government from Great Britain?

At every parliamentary election held in Ireland during the last quarter of a century the Irish people have elected, by overwhelming majorities, representatives pledged to secure legislative independence for the country.

Today the various political parties of England are speculating as to the result of the coming general election, but there is no speculation as to its outcome in Ireland. The result is a foregone conclusion that the Irish National party will return at least eighty-five out of 103 members which Ireland sends to the house of commons.

Opponents of home rule sometimes assert that Ulster—which is the most prosperous part of Ireland—is not in favor of the proposal. Nothing could be more inaccurate than this. There are nine counties in Ulster, and of these Donegal, Monaghan, Tyrone, Fermanagh and Cavan invariably elect Nationalist representatives. For many years Thomas Sexton, one of the greatest orators and parliamentarians of the age, and at present managing director of the Dublin Freeman's Journal, represented West Belfast in parliament, and Belfast is supposed to be the center of Orangism in Ulster.

With the exception of Armagh, Down and a part of Londonderry, all Ireland is in favor of legislative independence.

Opponents of home rule say that Ireland should be content like Scotland. But the circumstances in their case are entirely different.

Scotland voluntarily surrendered her parliamentary rights and privileges to England. On the other hand, it is a notorious fact that Ireland was robbed of her parliament by the most unscrupulous bribery and by the most infamous methods of which there is record in the history of civilized countries.

The argument may be advanced that the Irish parliament voted its own existence away, but the fact is that it was not by parliament but by the British parliament that Ireland was robbed of her own existence.

The Irish parliament of 1890, which was by no means representative of the Irish people. It was exclusively Protestant, while the overwhelming majority of the country was Catholic. Ever since the act of union was accomplished 160 years ago, Ireland has never enjoyed a free and unimpaired constitutional means, by insurrection and agitation, by sword and pen, against its existence. And the more the stronger today than it has been at any time during that period.

Gladstone—one of the greatest statesmen in English history or elsewhere—had the force of law, but no moral basis.

"Were I an Irishman," said Gladstone, "I should deny the right of England to govern my country, and take my stand upon the fact that the Irish parliament had no constitutional right to vote its own existence away."

William O'Brien, founder of the United Irish league, proprietor of the Irish People newspaper, and a member of the Irish parliament, is now a disunionist and a factionist. During the last twelve months or thereabouts, he has been politically resolute, and has at last come out into the open in support of his pernicious theories of party government.

O'Brien is opposed to a party pledge, declaring that there is, and never was, such a thing as a member of the Irish parliamentary party is responsible to his constituency only. This is an insidious attempt to destroy the unity and efficiency of the Irish party, and only result in O'Brien's own ambition from the councils of the Irish people.

John Dillon has taken sharp issue with O'Brien in this matter, and at a recent meeting in Tipperary, expressed himself as follows:

"But when I am told now that there was anything in the pledge binding a man in relation to his colleagues in the party, and that the only binding part of the pledge was in relation to his constituents in Ireland, I say that a more amazing statement never was made by a public man. Why, sir, the pledge is a pledge to the people, and the object of the pledge? What was the necessity of the pledge? To prevent men who were not faithful to their party from pleading the wishes of their constituents on some great occasion which justified them in voting against their party. The pledge, I say, is a safeguard against disunion—directed partly against the constituents, if you will have it to set up this principle, that the first necessity was a united party, and that that should be the platform for all Irish National representatives."

Without a party pledge, the cohesiveness and strength of the parliamentary body representing Ireland in the house of commons would be completely dissolved. The party would resolve itself into a group of factionists, without power or character, and would be despised by its friends as well as by its enemies.

The pledge was introduced by the late Charles Stewart Parnell in 1886, and time has fully vindicated the wisdom of his action in that respect. To abandon it at this juncture would be suicidal, and the man or men who advocate it, no matter what their previous services to Ireland may have been, cannot be actuated by any healthy or patriotic motive.

Already public bodies in Ireland have expressed strong disapproval of O'Brien's course, and it is evident that the vast majority of the people of Ireland are opposed to any policy that will weaken the unity or impair the strength of the Irish parliamentary party.

As a sign of the growth of liberalism among the followers of Orangism in Ireland, it may be noted that at a recent meeting, near Belfast, Lindsay Crawford, a prominent leader of the Independent Orange order, made a stirring speech, denouncing the act of union and English misgovernment of the country.

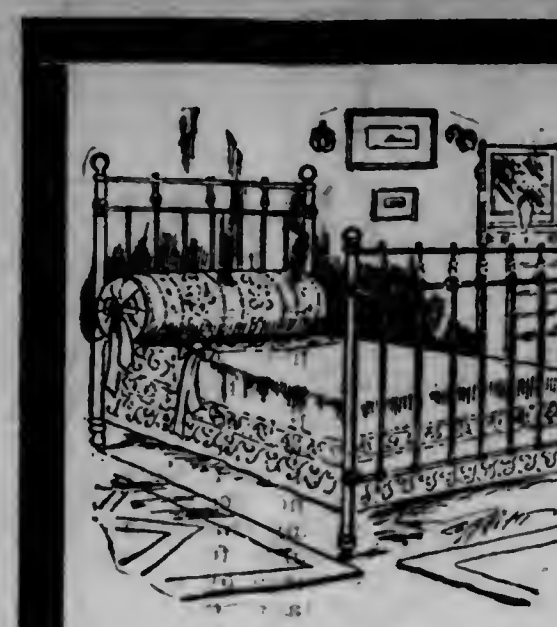

Mr. Crawford wound up an elegant speech by saying that "government by coercion acts, in the Twentieth Century, was the most damning evidence of the failure of the act of union as administered by successive English parliaments."

J. F. X. O'Brien—one of the members of the Irish parliament, and a prominent member of the Irish parliamentary party, died a few weeks ago. Mr. O'Brien was the secretary and treasurer of the United Irish league of Great Britain.

O'Brien was much more than a constitutional agitator, for in the troublous period of 1867 he was an active participant in the Fenian movement, was arrested, charged with high treason, was found guilty and sentenced to only ten years, but to be "hanged, drawn and quartered."

This sentence was not carried out, however. It was commuted to penal servitude for life, but after having served several years, in Dartmoor prison he was released.

Ceremonies are almost as rampant in Ireland today as it was in the days of "Buckshot" Poster, nearly twenty-five years ago.

NEW HIGH RECORDS

By Both Imports and Exports During Past Fiscal Year.

Foreign Commerce of United States Exceeds Previous Records.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, July 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The foreign commerce of the United States in the fiscal year just ended exceeds that of any preceding year, having been $2,653,370,333, in comparison with $2,451,514,642 in 1904, the previous record year.

An analysis of the statistics of foreign commerce during the year ending June 30, 1905, just prepared by the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics, shows that both imports and exports made new records, the former having exceeded by $2,000,000 the total recorded in 1904, and exports having for the first time surpassed the billion dollar mark.

In 1905 imports first passed the billion dollar mark, and for the first time in the history of the United States, the total value of imports for the year just ended was $2,117,071,777, in 1904 they again fell below one billion dollars in value, being $2,087,371,777, and for the year just ended are $2,117,071,777.

Exports first rose above one billion dollars in 1904, and for the first time in the history of the United States, the total value of exports for the year just ended was $1,535,300,000, in 1904 they again fell below one billion dollars in value, being $1,499,999,999, and for the year just ended are $1,535,300,000.

The following table shows the commerce of the United States at decennial periods from 1890 to 1900, and annually from 1900 down to date:

Fiscal Year.	Total Imports.	Total Exports.
1890	$1,232,753	$70,971,750
1891	$1,249,000	$72,000,000
1892	$1,245,000	$69,000,000
1893	$1,270,961	$71,570,786
1894	$1,285,206	$72,000,000
1895	$1,285,000	$72,000,000
1896	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1897	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1898	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1899	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1900	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1901	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1902	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1903	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1904	$1,313,618	$73,000,000
1905	$1,313,618	$73,000,000

but this is more than offset by a large increase in exports of manufactures. The least important classes, products of the forests and fisheries, show a slight but decrease as compared with 1904.

The figures showing the largest increases in exports during the eleven months of 1905 for which details are available, are: Iron and steel manufactures, an increase of $23,000,000; iron and steel manufactures, an increase of $23,000,000; iron and steel manufactures, an increase of $23,000,000.

Imports in exports of wheat and wheat flour was due in part to the inadequate domestic crop to furnish any considerable surplus over the home requirements, and in part to unusually large crops in foreign wheat-producing countries.

Exports from the United States of wheat, as in 1900, and exports from the United States about twenty-one and a half times as much as in that year, and a half increase in imports since 1900 has been $1,535,300,000, and in exports $1,499,999,999.

Imports have doubled during the last five years, having been $1,535,300,000, as against $1,117,071,777 in 1900. Exports, as against $1,499,999,999 in 1900, the figures of 1905 having been $1,535,300,000, and those of the year just ended $1,535,300,000, according to the preliminary report just issued by the bureau of commerce.

An unusual feature of the statistics of foreign commerce during the year ending June 30, 1905, is the very great increase in dutiable imports. The year's imports were valued at $1,117,071,777, as against $901,671,777 in the preceding year, an increase of $215,405,000.

Imports of dutiable merchandise during 1905 were valued at $901,671,777, as against $686,266,777 in 1904, an increase of $215,405,000. Despite this fact, however, the customs revenue derived from dutiable imports in 1905 was $1,535,300,000, in excess of that derived from the imports of 1904, being $1,499,999,999, as against $1,499,999,999 for 1904, as against $1,499,999,999 for 1904.

This decrease in customs revenue is in part due to the admission of Cuban products, especially sugar and tobacco, at a reduced rate from 20 per cent to 10 per cent, under the reciprocity treaty of Dec. 21, 1903, and in part to the unusually large amount of dutiable merchandise remaining in warehouse at the end of the year, which was not fully stated until the details of the year's imports are available.

On the import side the largest increases occur in the classes "manufactures of materials, wholly or partially manufactured," in which the figures were $1,117,071,777 in advance of those for the preceding year, and in "luxuries and other articles of voluntary importation," which were $1,117,071,777 in advance of those for the preceding year.

Details of commerce for twelve months are not in all cases available, but a careful examination of the complete figures for the eleven months of the year ending June 30, 1905, shows that the principal increases or decreases occur in the following classes:

FOR MURDER OF WIFE

Bigler Johnson is Hanged at Towanda, Pa.

Towanda, July 25.—The crime for which Bigler Johnson, a hanger-on here today was the murder of his wife, Margaret Johnson, from whom he had separated, and her niece, Annie Benjamin, aged 10 years, on Sept. 15, 1904, it was alleged by the prosecution that the Johnson family, consisting of five persons, went to the home of Mrs. Bigler Johnson, and with an ax killed the woman and the girl. The Johnsons, it was charged, set fire to the house in an effort to conceal the crime. The entire family was arrested. Bigler pleaded guilty and the trial judge fixed a grade for the murder in the first degree. Charles Johnson, a brother of Bigler, stood trial and was convicted of murder in the first degree. He is awaiting the determination of his case by the courts on an appeal. Bigler Johnson also appealed to the supreme court but that verdict refused to interfere. The other members of the family were acquitted. Bigler Johnson made several confessions. In one he implicated his brother, Charles, but in a confession given out last night he exonerated him from all blame.

Cutaway Frock Coats and Vests $12.50 to $18.00

A "window sale" which shows you with what utter disregard of original cost prices The Columbia proceeds to get the store in shape for the enormous new stocks purchased for Fall.

These frocks are not the "latest productions," still they come from the foremost makers and are worth full price to men who prefer this style of a garment.

Among the 64,937 inhabitants of Duluth we are trying to locate the 100 who will exchange a five dollar bill for one of the frocks. If you are one of them, come in this week.

All cloths of which these frocks are usually made are represented in this lot. The bulk of them are black clay worsteds.

All sizes from 35 to 42 inch chest measures can be found and some are special sizes for very tall or stout people.

The lowest regular price of any of the garments was $12.50. Most of them were marked $15 and $18.

INTEREST GROWS

Sale of the Cooper Preparations Is Now Enormous.

What the Remedies Are Doing In This City.

The beginning of Mr. Cooper's second week in Duluth gives every indication that he is to enjoy the same astonishing success here as elsewhere. From the first day of his visit the crowds that call at Boyce's drug store to see this young man have been steadily increasing and it has now reached a point where at almost a hour of the day the store is blocked with people waiting their turn.

The amount of medicine being dispensed has grown to a proportion which is a good reason for this demand, for by now people who obtained some of the Cooper preparations early last week are coming into report on their condition and to thank Mr. Cooper for what has been accomplished.

The stories these people tell seem to bear Mr. Cooper out in his assertion that he has a most remarkable preparation and it now seems certain that the medicines are relieving a world of suffering in this city.

Among the cases heard from Monday the following is selected. The majority of people who did call have been sufferers from rheumatism or stomach trouble, but this case is more out of the ordinary.

A few days ago Mrs. W. Metcalf, living at Fifty-second avenue west, West Duluth, had been almost at death's door from a violent attack of quinsy. Her husband obtained some of the Cooper preparations for her and she used them for a day. This is her story of the matter:

"I had been sick for over two weeks with a terrible attack of quinsy. I had a high fever, ached all over and suffered agony. My throat was lanced five times, but I did not seem to get any better. Finally my husband brought me some of the Cooper remedies with directions how to use them. I gargled my throat with the medicine and barked it from the outside. The pain left me at once and the swelling soon followed. I never saw anything like it in my life and I think that medicine is the best in the world."

Judging from reports like these Mr. Cooper is to be congratulated in his work and richly deserves his success.

AWAKES FROM A STRANGE TRANCE

Detroit Man Completely Lost His Memory For Three Months.

Recovers Consciousness
While Riding In Duluth Street Car.

Waking from a trance which has clouded his memory for three or four months, W. H. Butcher of 127 Michigan avenue, Detroit, started the passengers on an eastbound interstate car Sunday with the question, "Where am I?"

Mr. Butcher's story reads almost like a modern version of Washington Irving's great romance, "Rip Van Winkle." Three months ago he left his residence in Detroit for his place of business. Sunday he awoke in a street car in Duluth. How he has lived during the three months, what cities he has visited, what he has been doing during that time, are questions which he cannot answer. His mind has been a blank for four months, and by some queer psychological phenomenon his sense of identity was lost for that period. His consciousness of himself as a person was lost, and there is a gap of four months' duration in his memory. It was as though when he dropped off into a deep sleep during that time, and while retaining his physical powers, and at least enough of his mental faculties to go through the daily routine without attracting attention to himself as a crazy man, Mr. Butcher has no recollection of what happened during that period. Mr. Butcher accounts for his sudden return to consciousness by saying: "I had evidently taken out my watch to wind it. On opening the case I suddenly beheld my wife's picture, and with a start I seemed to awake as from a sound slumber."

Noting the strange surroundings, Mr. Butcher uttered the exclamation which startled the passengers in the car. The conductor told him the number of the street, and Mr. Butcher then asked him the name of the city and the date of the year.

The passengers smiled, and the conductor looked upon amazement as he answered the questions by saying: "For some moments he was unable to adjust his faculties to the new and strange surroundings, and when he finally realized that he had been in some strange trance for nearly four months, his first idea was to get into communication with his wife and family. A telegram was dispatched, informing her of his whereabouts, and in a short time an answer was received. What the answer contained is not known, but he left on a night train for Chicago."

A protracted spree would be the explanation of the ordinary person would have been the case, but Mr. Butcher is a man of temperate habits, and this explanation is out of the question. Any theory of foul play is also improbable, as he had a valuable diamond ring and a moderate sum of money in his possession when he awoke.

TEN BODIES TAKEN FROM OIL FIRE.

Houston Tex., July 25.—Ten bodies were today recovered from the oil well which has done so much damage in the Humble field. All of the victims were negroes. Search is being continued for other bodies.

The loss is now estimated at $875,000. The fire is still burning, but is confined to an area 100 acres in extent. It will probably burn itself out during the next twenty-four hours.

FUNERAL OF PERRY.

San Diego, July 25.—The funeral of Ensign Perry will be held at St. Paul's church in this city Friday. The body will then be forwarded to Stockbridge, Mass.

West Duluth

The West Duluth Rod and Gun club met last evening and decided upon the shoot for next Sunday, which will be for a medal, to be donated by W. F. Hurst, the Jeweler of West Duluth. Mr. Hurst will give two medals, but this first one will be presented for a handicap shoot, the beginning of which will be held next Sunday. The shoot will be held at the home of the appointed Capt. Holmberg, like Deatherage, C. F. Fancett and Herbert Moore a committee to arrange the handicaps.

The shooting made by those entering this shoot will determine the standing of those who go in for the cup shoot later on. The contest both for medal and cup promises to be exceedingly warm.

The rules for the cup shoot will be made later on after the handicaps have been established.

MORE CROSSINGS.
Alderman Chesney, at the council meeting, introduced a resolution passed a resolution instructing the board of public works to put in stone crossings at the corner of Bristol street and Central avenue, the same as is being done at Ramsey and Central. This will obviate in rainy and muddy weather the necessity of the launching of boats and rafts to cross the streets and avenue.

WORK SUSPENDED.
Work seems to be suspended on the drainage of the old foundation excavation at Fifty-third and Ramsey.

The city had men at work on it Saturday but as it rained that day there was but slight difference in the level of water which the excavation contains. The work should be pushed and the menace wiped out.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schultz left last evening for Green Bay, Wis., after a three weeks' visit with Mr. Schultz's sisters, Mrs. F. H. Armstrong of Proctor and Mrs. A. R. Armstrong of West Duluth.

Mrs. H. Hayden and son Harold left Sunday evening for St. Anne de Beauport and before returning will make an extended trip through Canada.

W. S. Kuberry has moved into the house at 208 North Fifty-fourth avenue west and Claude Ackermann has moved into 519 Gosnold street.

Joseph Mogilner of St. Paul, formerly of the M. S. Shoemaker company of West Duluth is in the city visiting friends.

H. C. Weir of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, who has been visiting with his brother, J. P. Weir of West Duluth, has returned home.

The ladies of the Oneta M. E. church will give an ice cream social in the church parlors Wednesday evening, July 26.

CAUGHT A TARTAR

Marshal at International Falls Is Having His Troubles.

Has No Jail For Prisoner Wanted In Duluth.

After capturing Mike Riley, a fugitive from justice wanted in Duluth, the town marshal of the little city of International Falls is presented with the problem of disposing of the prisoner, as the border town is either so good that a jail is not needed, or else the citizens have been so busy developing the water power they have not had time to build a jail.

At any rate the marshal is losing sleep trying to watch his prisoner twenty-four hours in the day while making arrangements to bring him to Duluth. The following telegram received by the police department this morning tells the story: "Get your man! What shall I do with him? No jail here."

Chief Trojer immediately wired back bringing him to Duluth as quickly as possible. The telegram was sent from Fort Francis, Ont., by way of Winnipeg, and the marshal doubtless requested some of his friends to make arrangements to bring him to Duluth. The trip will have to be made entirely on the American side of the border and a full route to Winnipeg cannot be followed, as the prisoner might refuse to return after getting on Canadian territory.

Riley is wanted in Duluth for passing a forged check for $100.00 and for being committed about two or three months ago in International Falls. The police have been searching for him diligently since that time, and finally succeeded in locating him at International Falls. The authorities there were notified to arrest him, and the telegram received this morning was the result.

MISSING WILL IS NOW FILED

Amos Shepherd Left All Belongings to His Wife.

After a search of several weeks for the missing will of the late Amos Shepherd, who died recently from the effects of injuries received in a fall at the Klitch Gannal club, the document finally turned up among some of the deceased's papers in the possession of the deceased's brother, William N. Shepherd, in Wisconsin, and was filed this morning in the probate court of this city.

Following the death of Mr. Shepherd search was made for the will, which the family were certain existed. When it could not be found the probate court was petitioned to appoint an administrator. Now that the will is filed the application for an administrator will be continued until Aug. 21, at which time the court will take proof of the will. The will does not state the amount of property that Mr. Shepherd had at the time of his death. It is Masonic in form and leaves everything to his wife.

Major Beach Goes to Fort Leavenworth.

The many friends, in Duluth and vicinity, of Major Lansing H. Beach, government engineer in charge of the Eleventh light-house district, with headquarters at Detroit, Mich., will be interested to learn that he has just been transferred to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., as instructor in the infantry and cavalry schools and the staff college. Besides being light-house engineer for the Great Lakes region, Major Beach was engineer in charge of the light-houses on Lake Huron and was a member of the same commission with Major D. Galliard, to study wave action on the lakes. Major Beach has in his past been a frequent visitor at Duluth,

MAN HUNT ENDS

Andrew Johnson Alleged Insane Is Taken By Officers.

Eluded Relatives Who Were To Have Him Examined.

Crazed with the idea that somebody was following his every movement with the view of killing him, Andrew Johnson, 28 years old, gave the sheriff's force and the police department a warm chase this morning until he was finally located in a Lake avenue lodging house and was taken to the county jail for safe keeping.

Johnson, who has been residing with a brother at Third street and Eighth avenue east, has shown evident signs of mental aberration for some time past and his relatives deemed it best to have him examined by a physician today. In some way the young man surmised their purpose, and, before any of the family were astray this morning, he secured his clothing and fled.

From the fact that his condition has recently taken an almost violent turn his relatives were greatly alarmed for fear that he would kill himself or himself or do damage to others. The sheriff sent his deputies at work to locate Johnson before he could injure himself or do damage to others. The officers were assisted by the police and Johnson was found shortly before noon. Since then he has been quiet, but it is claimed that he is liable to have another bad turn at any time unless placed where he can be restrained.

The examination was set for this afternoon. Johnson has no family.

Attention, Sir Knights

All members of Duluth Commandery No. 18 are requested to attend the annual meeting of the Sir Knights of the Order of the Eastern Star, at the Claret, on Wednesday, July 26th. Commandery will leave for the meeting at 8:30 a. m., returning at 6:30 p. m. Get your equipment packed before 9 a. m., and it will be sent to the depot. Notify the Commander by phone. Sir Knights are going.

WILL BE NO WHITEWASH IN BENNINGTON REPORT.

Washington, July 25.—Secretary Denham, when asked today for a statement on the disaster to the Bennington, promised the public that there would be no whitewash, and so far as the service was concerned, he would not make a scapegoat of anybody. He said the government is not prepared yet to make a statement as to the cause of responsibility for the disaster. When the facts are known, the department will hold back no information in its information to which any fair-minded man could think the public entitled.

THROWN INTO PRISON.

Visiting Home.

Cleveland, July 25.—After living for thirty-one years in the United States, August Pfaff, a well-known resident of this city, has been arrested by the German authorities while on a visit to his native town, Hacking, Germany. This information comes in a letter to a son. When Pfaff was 16 he came to this country, going to Cincinnati. Three years later he returned to Germany and was pressed into the army. After three months' service he escaped, and returned to Cincinnati, coming afterward to Cleveland, where he has resided since. He has made two previous trips to his native town without detection. The letter stated that he has been in jail for two weeks, and would probably remain imprisoned for some time, although he hoped eventually to be released on payment of a fine.

RUMORS OF PEACE

Talk of Settlement Between City and Street Railway.

City Officials Are Mum
Regarding the Negotiations Pending.

Rumors concerning a compromise between the city administration and the Duluth Street Railway company, settling all the disputed questions between the two parties, have been heard during the last day or two, but nothing definite concerning the matter can be ascertained.

It is understood that negotiations are now pending whereby the railway company will grant most of the improvements in the service asked for by the city, and in return the city will drop pending litigation.

Mayor Cullum was asked concerning the matter this morning, but refused to give out any information, or even admit that such negotiations were being conducted. He stated that any proposition regarding a settlement would have to be submitted to the council and acted on by that body, as it had instructed the city attorney to commence legal proceedings.

It is not unlikely that some proposition will be submitted to the council at the meeting next Monday night. The terms of the settlement, if one is arrived at, will involve the restoration of the through service to Woodland Park, and probably some definite understanding regarding the desired extensions in West Duluth.

No definite information concerning the matter will be given out until it has been laid before the council for action.

LITTLE BUSINESS TALKS.

A baseball enthusiast turns to the sporting page with less eagerness than the man who wants to buy a house turns to the real estate ads.—and there could hardly be a stronger comparison than this.

Opportunity may be making a still hunt for you today. Satisfy yourself about the matter by reading the want ads, with both eyes open.

Want advertising is highly utilitarian. It makes this newspaper more to you than a mere newspaper—it turns it into a means and medium by which you may accomplish things—get things, dispose of things, find people or find publicity.

Telephone your wants to The Herald. Call up 24, and line and a Herald want ad. clerk will do the rest.

CHANGE IN MAIL

New Order In Railway Mail Service Will Be Detrimental. Effort Will Be Made To Have Order Rescinded.

On Thursday a new order concerning the mail service between Duluth and Staples goes into effect which is of vital importance to business men of Duluth doing business along that route, inasmuch as it takes away from them facilities which they are used to and to which they need. The order has just been issued by Norman Perkins, superintendent of the railway mail service in St. Paul and was received here this morning. It orders that the railway postoffice service be discontinued on morning trains 11 and 12, between here and Staples and will be discontinued on night trains 13 and 14 on the same route. The new service will be daily commencing Thursday.

This means that instead of being able to mail letters on the morning train to 7:30, the merchants, board of trade men or jobbers must mail their letters at the postoffice in time to have them put in the pouch for the town he wants to go to, or, if he is too much rushed to do that he must let it go over and catch the morning train. It means a delay of from twelve to twenty-four hours on all trains on that route.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the board of trade and to the Duluth Commercial club by The Herald and it is quite likely that these bodies will take action to ask the postoffice department to rescind the present system. The Herald has written James C. White, general superintendent of the railway mail service at Washington asking that the present system be continued and an extra clerk be put on the evening train. It is pointed out that if the proposed service is put on, mail will be twelve hours late from Duluth west and twenty-four hours late to the Red River valley if the mail cannot get to the postoffice before 7 p. m. The importance of Duluth as a jobbing and wholesale center is also referred to and it is stated that mail delay will be detrimental to Duluth and to the section of the state it is wanted to reach.

WANTS HIS MONEY.

Iowa Man Sues to Recover From a Bank.

Chicago, July 25.—Declaring that thousands of dollars' worth of certificates of stock in an Iowa bank and a certificate of deposit for $24,000 are being fraudulently withheld from him, C. C. Wolf, cashier, general manager and principal owner of the State Exchange bank of Parkersburg, Iowa, filed a bill in the United States circuit court here, asking for an accounting and for the return of his property. The charges are made against the American Trust and Savings bank and E. H. Frisco, former board of trade operator, who is now involved in bankruptcy proceedings. Wolf declares that he became a customer of Frisco in 1898, and deposited with him various certificates and stock in the State Exchange bank. He claims that Frisco has since been unable to recover his property or secure an accounting.

GROCERS ARE NOT TO BE EXCUSED GOLF PLAY BEGINS

M. M. Gasser Is Denied the Injunction He Asks For. Seventh Annual Tournament Is on at the Glenview Links.

Judge Dibell, However, Holds Association to Be Illegal Combine. L. J. Hopkins of Duluth Enters in First Qualifying Round.

The first round between M. M. Gasser & Co. and the Retail Grocers' association of this city has ended decidedly in favor of the association. Judge Dibell, this afternoon, filed with the clerk of district court, an order discharging the order to show cause, and dissolving the restraining order issued against the Retail Grocers' association and the wholesale grocers and jobbers of Duluth, on the petition of M. M. Gasser & Co.

The court, however, makes the order without prejudice to the making in this action of another application for a temporary injunction, or in a subsequent action, the complaint being that the matter of an alleged conspiracy is one for the public authorities to take action on.

The court's memorandum, which covers the reasons for the order, is as follows: "The allegations of the pleadings and affidavits fail to show that the defendants fail to show that the defendants are engaged in the wholesale grocery business, or those defendants who are designated more accurately as commission merchants, have formed a combination or agreement with the Duluth Retail Grocers' association, or its members, which is in violation of any constitutional or legislative enactment of the state.

"All the defendants, except the Duluth Retail Grocers' association and its members, may be dismissed from present consideration.

"The constitution contains a provision directed against combinations to monopolize food products, and the statutes make criminal combinations to regulate or fix their price; but in this case we are more particularly concerned with the laws of 1899, chapter 239, and laws of 1901, chapter 124. The act of 1899 is directed against agreements and combinations in restraint of trade, and to regulate and fix prices, which are declared unlawful and criminal.

"Both the act of 1899 and 1901 are modeled after the congressional act of July 2, 1890, and usually referred to as the Sherman anti-trust law.

"The Duluth Retail Grocers' association is an organization of retail grocers and includes practically all the retail grocers in the city. It has a constitution and by-laws. In most respects the purposes of the association as stated in its constitution are not subject to exception. Fairly contract, however, the by-laws contemplate a fixing of prices to be observed by the members of the association, and this, to some extent, is actually done.

"The court then goes on to recite the penalty of expulsion for unmerciful conduct, the fine of $100 for reinstatement and the price list sent out by the association. The court says the association claims to fix prices on six staple articles only, but it does fix prices.

"It necessarily follows that the Grocers' association, since it controls and fixes prices, is an illegal combination, violating the provisions of act of 1899 and the act of 1901.

"The next question is whether it violates the provision of the act of 1901, by boycotting, or whether its acts amount to an actual or threatened boycott within the usual definition of the term. Loosely defined, and as applied to this case, a boycott is a combination to refuse to have business intercourse with a third party, or to cause loss or injury to the third party.

"The retail grocers unanimously agreed to refuse to have business intercourse with the association, and this refusal was carried out. There is no question as to the fact that the association is engaged in a boycott, and that the boycott is in violation of the act of 1901.

"The court closes by saying that the nature of the combination is peculiarly a governmental function and the private citizen, not injured by the combination, is not entitled to sue for damages. The court leaves its suppression to the public authorities charged therewith.

Chicago, July 25.—Play in the seventh annual Western gold championship at the Glenview links were begun today, with the qualifying round of forty-six holes. Golfing conditions were ideal and the championship course was trimmed for fast medal scoring. Titleholder H. Chandler Egan and about a score of young and dangerous rivals were in the field that was dispatched for the morning round of eighteen holes. About sixty golfers from twenty-five clubs assisted in giving the field a high class stamp. Pittsburg with the Fowkes and Denver with Pancoast Champion Walter Fairbanks were prominent in the field. Norris E. Gamm of the home club and his young partner, G. F. Cingman has the honor of driving the first ball before the dew was off the greens. Experts figured that the low score for qualifying would be two eightsies. Thirty-two golfers qualified for the first round of the match play.

It was 11 o'clock before the last pairs were dispatched. More than half the starters began poorly, pulling into the rough from the first tee. Rain began to fall before the morning round of the match play.

Holes for 18 holes, or half the qualifying round, follows: W. E. C. Low, Onwentsia, 81; Richard Bokum, Glenview, 81; Walter Fairbanks, Denver, 82; John Towne, Glenview, 84; W. T. Cole, Detroit, 85; Norris Bokum, Glenview, 85; Charles Baker, Auburn Park, 87; H. G. Legg, Minneapolis, 88; N. L. Buck, Auburn Park, 86; W. Gilliam, St. Louis, 92; H. C. Fowkes, Pittsburg, 94; J. N. Greer, Minneapolis, 95; G. F. Cingman, Minneapolis, 95; C. Turner, Lake Geneva, 97; E. Lee Jones, Chicago, 98; C. Bolton, Cleveland, 99; T. S. Noyes, Glenview, 100; J. E. Sawyer, Wheaton, 102; W. H. Yule, Kenosha, 97; F. C. Letts, Glenview, 92; E. P. Gates, Minneapolis, 97; Ned Cummings, Exmoor, 100; W. B. Langford, Westward Ho, 97; Ralph Hoagland, Hinsdale, 91; Warren K. Wood, Homewood, 83; H. R. Scholtenberger, Wheaton, 91; C. W. Fetter, Minneapolis, 95; G. E. Scurlow, Minneapolis, 94; Phelps B. Hoyt, Glenview, 90; G. J. Jaffray, Minneapolis, 85; C. Fowkes, Minneapolis, 85; J. E. Mason, Onwentsia, 97; J. De Moss, Tascumbia, 90; T. R. Talbot, Wichita, Kas., 87; R. L. Ames, Glenview, 95; H. H. Lutz, Nashville, Tenn., 84; R. H. McElwee, Onwentsia, 93; J. L. Hopkins, Duluth, 96.

After the afternoon round was begun there were twenty-six under 90. Scores in the last 18 promise to be better, however, as most of the players started better than they did in the morning.

With all the morning rounds concluded, Guy Miller of Detroit, with a total of 50, had second honors.

SWIFT CASE DISMISSED FROM THE U. S. COURT.

Chicago, July 25.—Before United States Judge Gilbert today, Attorney Hiram T. Gilbert, counsel for Mrs. Swift, dismissed a bill containing charges of fraud and bribery against the International Harvester company. The dismissal followed an announcement by Judge Bethel that he would overrule a motion to remand the case to the state courts. Attorney Gilbert said, "This does not mean that the case is at an end. I will file another bill in the state courts, and it will be so constructed that I don't believe it can be removed to the federal courts."

Return of Pollards.

The forthcoming return engagement of the Pollard Lulliputian Opera company, which opens at the Lyceum theater on Tuesday, Aug. 1, and continues for three succeeding nights, promises a season of innocent pleasure for the young people of all ages in this city. There is no doubt that the company will duplicate their former success. All of the favorites will return, including Daphne, Ivy and Merle Pollard, Olive and Ted, and the company will be headed by Jack Pollard and Jack Pollard.

"The Belle of New York," "A Runaway Girl," "A Gaiety Girl" and "The Millionaire" are among the operas to be presented. The same popular prices will prevail.

NEW POSTMASTERS.

Washington, July 25.—The following presidential postmasters were appointed today: William Blair, Postmaster, Boston; Lydia Chapman.

WILL STOP THE BETTING.

St. Louis, July 25.—A police force of 14 men was sent to the World's fair grounds today to stop betting. A fair substation in the vicinity of Delmar was closed shortly after 1 o'clock today, ready to move to the track for the purpose of carrying out Governor Fox's order to suppress betting on the grounds of the anti-pool selling law took place.

Race For Supremacy.

It is interesting to watch the race for supremacy among Minneapolis and St. Paul-Chicago trains. First place is accurately held by the Pioneer Limited, and the second place by the Fast Mail. Both trains are daily services at 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. The St. Paul train is faster, but the Chicago train is more comfortable. The race is a close one, and it is not necessary that they should be filed with the commission.

A FAMOUS SONG.

The song called "Oh, Promise Me," with which the fame of the late Jesse Bartlett Davis was associated chiefly, was written first for a high soprano, and in that form made very little impression, says the New York Sun. It was next tried as a tenor number in the opera, but still failed to arouse any enthusiasm at the early performances of "Robin Hood," in which it was not at first. The song might have been dropped from the opera altogether had not Mrs. Davis been allowed to try it, as her own voice indicated and nurtured. The song was accordingly transposed and became a most successful part of the opera.

SIMPLY WEDDINGS.

Rev. Charles J. Dana, pastor of Park Place Methodist Episcopal church, Baltimore, announces that in future he will refuse to make religious services for hearing parties. Moreover, he discourages the idea of fashionable weddings, holding that such affairs make too much of the dramatic and theatrical side of the religious life, and that the obligation that is being assumed, Mr. Dana says, is a remarkable one, contributing cause to the divorce evil in the fading out of the religious idea regarding marriage.

Will Go Down the Lakes.

Among the passengers to go down the lakes on the steamer "North West" tonight will be Mr. and Mrs. O. P. H. THEY MEET IN DULUTH Steel Corporation Engineers Holding Business Sessions Here.

The United States Steel corporation board of engineers is this afternoon meeting in Duluth for the first time. Members of the board to the number of nine arrived this morning over the Omaha from Chicago.

The party lunched at the Spalding and then proceeded to the Wolvin building, where the meeting was held. The board gets together in this manner every month, but heretofore the meetings have been held in the East, usually at Pittsburg, and this is the first time the engineers have gathered in Duluth. Nothing of particular interest to the public comes up at the monthly gatherings.

If there is time at the close of the meeting the visitors will be given a ride around the boulevard. This evening they will be at the dock to watch the North West come in, and to later look over the boat, and at 10 o'clock tonight a special train will convey them over the Duluth & Iron Range road to Ely, where they will inspect the iron mines. Before returning to this city they will visit other points of interest on the range, and will get back to the Head of the Lakes on Friday, and will then look over the development of the St. Louis water power. They will return East on the steamer Davidson.

The board is composed of chief engineers of the constituent companies of the steel corporation.

Following are the names of the members who are present at the meeting this afternoon: John Reis, New York, assistant to the president of the steel corporation and chairman of the board of engineers; M. A. Neeland, New York, assistant to Mr. Reis; F. B. Daniels, Worcester, Mass., chief engineer of the American Steel Wire company; S. B. Ely, chief engineer of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company; L. Holmboe, Chicago, chief engineer of the Illinois Steel company; P. C. Patterson, McKeesport, chief engineer of the National Tube company; James L. Barnard, Philadelphia, chief engineer of the American Bridge company; E. E. THE DULUTH ZAR

IN HIS HOME

How Nicholas Works, Fears and Goes to Pic-nics with His Family --- A Simple Minded Man who Hates His Honors and Responsibilities.

An ordinary day in the life of Nicholas, Czar of Russia, presents perhaps more hard work, more danger, more responsibility and less pleasure than a similar period in the life of almost any American citizen. But the old ordinary days in the life of Nicholas have, of late, been few and far between. What the haunted and hunted Emperor of all the Russias must have been enduring day by day during the recent labor and Socialist revolts in his empire can only be imagined. It is a matter, however, of cold fact that probably no American working man capable of earning a decent living would be willing to hold the Czar's job after a week's experience of the actual hard labor and terror which form the daily features of the life of the autocrat of Russia.

The Czar of all the Russias is a little blonde man, who is generally dressed in a sober uniform embellished with a few orders, with baggy trousers and high pointed leather boots. He inclines his head slightly, and his delicate face is very pale and melancholy, and without the semblance of even an artificial smile. His steps seem to hesitate, his eyes glance furtively about him, he raises his hand and pulls nervously at his moustache.

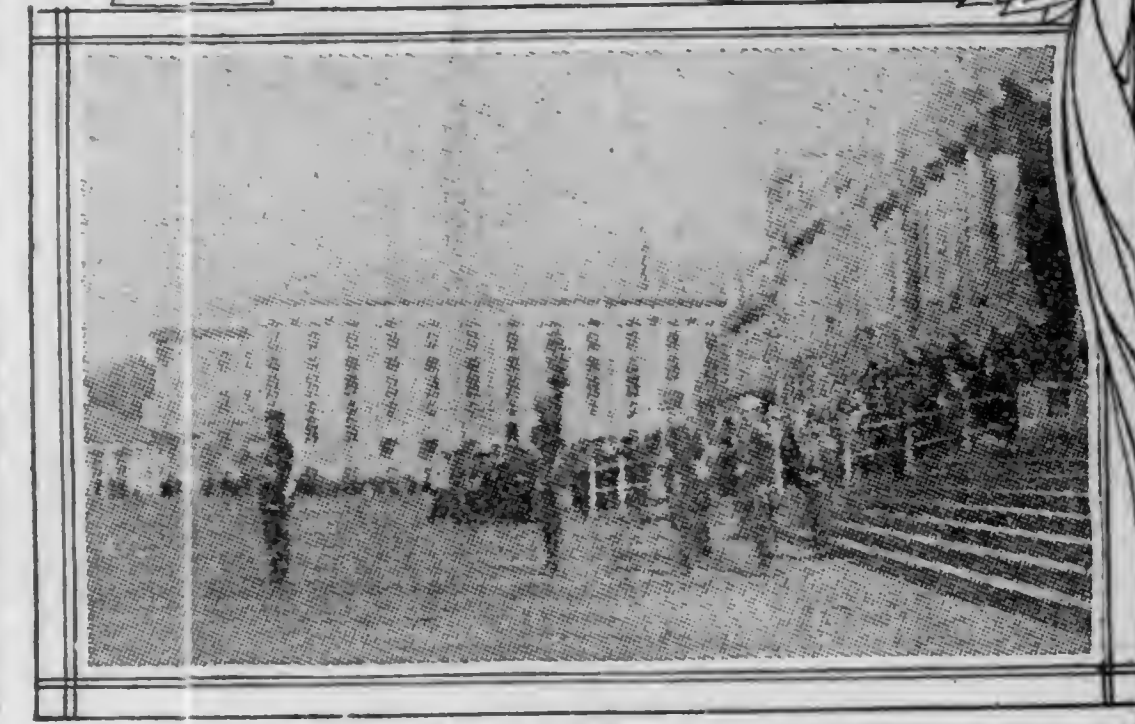

The beautiful Zarina is tall and white like a statue. She usually smiles sadly and bows to left and right when in public. She is perfectly self-possessed, however, and a contrast to her husband, whom she overtops by several inches. His every movement betokens nervousness and discomfort. Indeed, it is hard to believe that he was born in the Imperial purple and is the direct descendant of a line of emperors whose pride and power have never been matched since the days of the Caesars. You might imagine that he had been suddenly thrust into a position he had neither the will, the capacity nor the training to sustain. He looks supremely miserable, and, in truth, his looks do not belie him. For the Czar Nicholas is a man who was never meant to occupy a throne, least of all the terrible white throne of Russia.

Born in another sphere, he would, in all probability, have become a valued member of society given over to the cultivation of mildly intellectual pursuits—literature, art, music—and I think all who have known him must admit his character will agree that his chief hobby would have been a harmless kind of Christian socialism. And this man is the autocrat of all the Russias—a position whose countless dangers and appalling responsibilities broke the heart of his iron father and drove several of his ancestors out of their minds. The Czar is not only the most powerful, he is also the richest man in the world. In addition to his almost incalculable private fortune, he receives from the Russian government a grant of $5,000,000 per annum. This sum is paid him in monthly installments, a check on the National Bank of Russia being dispatched by a special messenger from the treasury.

It is an open secret that the King of England's income is only just sufficient to enable him to meet the large expenses which are the necessary outcome of his position. His fortune and "salary" is not a quarter of the Czar's; and yet the Czar is forced to spend nearly all the money he receives from private and public sources. He is the possessor of over a hundred palaces and castles, which have to be kept up in lavish style by an army of close on to 30,000 servants, whose wages altogether amount to $5,000,000 a year.

His stables alone cost him a huge fortune every year. His private stud consists of over 5,000 horses. It has been calculated that all in all he spends close on $20,000,000 per year. And little enough pleasure he gets out of all his wealth. His life is about the least delightful possible to imagine. It is composed mainly of what seems to be a perpetual routine of heavy drudgery, which must grow intensely wearisome year in, year out.

Like his energetic brother monarch, the Emperor of Germany, the Czar gets up every morning, all the year around, at 6 o'clock. You must not imagine that he performs this heroic deed because he enjoys the distinction of turning out at his warm bed, when most of his subjects are enjoying the sleep of the just. He is precisely the sort of man who would dearly enjoy such a little relaxation as a comfortable snooze on a frosty morning. But above all, he is rigidly conscientious. His work is there, his work has to be done, and to do his work he must have more brains at his disposal than the average man. So he is out of bed at six and into a cold bath, and into his clothes and at the breakfast table punctually at half-past six.

In the bosom of his family English and no other language is spoken; he has decided to educate his children according to English ideas. Before they know a word of Russian or French they can prattle fluently in English. When out of uniform he dresses in tweeds of English make and English cut; and even the food he eats is English food prepared in English fashion. Breakfast, then, is quite like that in any well-to-do American family—at the breakfast table, at Livadia or wherever the Czar may be living. The average middle-class American enjoys a similar breakfast most days of his life—eggs and bacon, bread and butter, with preserves and tea or coffee.

Immediately after breakfast the Czar makes a bee-line for his cigar box. King Edward of England is known to be a heavy smoker, but the Czar beats him hands down in this particular indulgence. His special joy is an overpowering brand of black Havana cigars. These he consumes continually from morning to bedtime. If his physician has protested once against this custom he has done so a dozen times, and very properly, for Nicholas is certainly not a strong man; but, at last, he was compelled to hold his peace when the Czar turned on him with the pettish exclamation: "Do you want to deprive me of the one solitary pleasure of my life?" A curious expression from the lord of all Russia.

And here even the Zarina's influence is of no avail. She who had her face against the custom hitherto prevalent among the ladies of the court of smoking here, there and everywhere and had succeeded at the cost of much popularity, failed lamentably when she attempted a similar corrective on her husband. He stuck to his cigars, and she gave him up as a bad job.

He Goes to Work at 7 A. M.

At 7 o'clock punctually you will find him at his desk. It is said that his minutes, knowing his conscientious habits of studying every document sent for his signature, ply him with many more than are strictly necessary in order to leave him a little time for possible brooding over peace conferences and similar ideas, which they regard with anything but favorable eyes. Be that as it may, he digests and signs close on 1,000 documents a week. This means a colossal amount of work. The average managing director of a bank, railway company or publishing office has to deal solely with documents connected with his special line of business. The business of managing director of the Russian Empire deals with every imaginable subject under the sun. Does some question on church ritual arise, the Czar must solve it; is such-and-such a governor to be appointed, the Czar must decide; a knotty point of law has arisen. It is put up before the Czar. Some prince has a grievance; is it valid? get the Czar's opinion. If a criminal pleads for clemency, the Czar must hear the law and out of his case. A new submarine has been proposed for the navy, but the Czar's sanction must be obtained. All questions of foreign diplomacy must be laid before the Czar, and all financial problems must receive the Czar's "yes" or "no." The list of subjects contained in the document brought before this overworked ruler is simply incalculable. And he is not the man to shirk one jot of his work. He cannot understand all the questions put to his decision—and some involve the nicest special knowledge—hardly a paper goes away just the same. Hardly a paper leaves his desk without some comment written in his own handwriting on the margin.

State Reception at 11 A. M.

At 11 o'clock the first part of the Czar's daily work is over and the second part begins. A private secretary removes the signed documents from his desk. It is the hour of audience, important matters of state must be discussed; generals, ministers and gentlemen of the household are ushered in and stand reverently before their young master until a curt nod of dismissal sends them out of his presence. On a certain day every week, between the hours of 11 and 1, the burly, iron-hearted Da Plebe used to expound his ideas before his monarch and receive his orders. He was on his way to the palace when the Socialist bomb blew him to pieces. He would be followed by Pobedonostzeff, the head of the Greek Church and the terrible uncrowned master of Russia; by Lansdorff, the foreign minister, or by any of those great, sinister personalities whose unwieldy names have figured so largely in the newspapers of late.

Two Hours Only for Pleasure.

From 2 to 4 is the Imperial play time, which the Czar, according to the season of the year or the palace in which he may be staying, devotes to walking, cycling, shooting, skating, riding or lawn tennis. Sometimes the Zarina accompanies him, but he is always shadowed by sentries, detectives or police agents, who are entrusted with the care of his person. These men are not visible to him—indeed, they endeavor to make themselves as scarce as possible, for there is nothing the Czar detests more than to be reminded that he is, after all, little better than a man under sentence of some awful death indefinitely reprieved. But, nevertheless, they are there, these stealthy guardians, and their eyes never leave him for a moment.

The Czar is a very poor hand at most sports and games; he is a bad fisherman and an uncertain shot. He plays tennis with great zest and enthusiasm, but has never even mastered the art of overhand serving, so his play is not exactly a series of successes. On a bicycle he is, perhaps, seen at his best. The recreation the Czar enjoys best of all is picnicking. It is his favorite sport for a "happy day" in the beautiful highland forests which surround Livadia. The Zarina and her children drive; the Czar and his friends usually ride behind the carriage.

After a ride up the hills and through the valleys the spot chosen for the picnic is reached. Then provisions are unloaded and the Zarina takes charge. If her husband enjoys himself, she, poor woman, revels in a little perambulation of this sort, when for a few hours the hateful rigidity and cares of court life are forgotten. All her girlhood was spent in the happiest and simplest of homes, where money was comparatively scarce and pleasures were treated in a very different sense to what they are to her today.

The Czar Loves Picnics Dearly.

The provisions then are laid out on the grass and the Zarina herself dons a white apron and busily sets to work preparing lunch. She lights the samovars, places the cold drinks out of the sun and starts with a will on the manufacture of sandwiches. If any of the guests expect caviare and anchovy dainties on one of these picnics they will be grievously disappointed. Good, honest bread-and-butter and ham-and-tongue sandwiches are all they get. Meanwhile, the Czar has been enjoying himself in his own peculiar fashion—lying flat on his back on the grass and looking up at the sky.

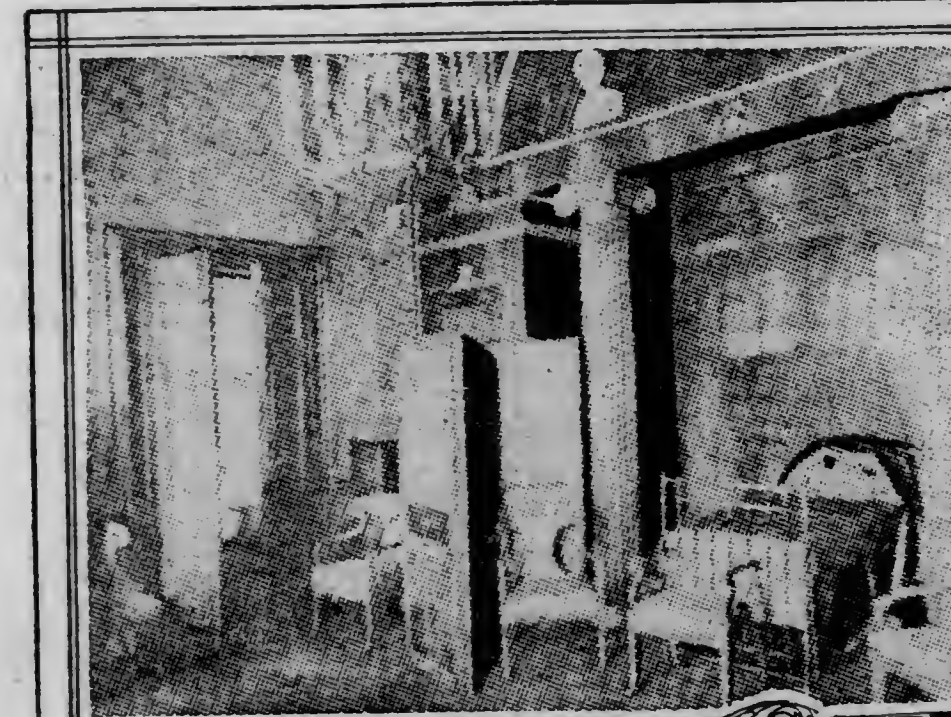

On ordinary days the Czar at 4 o'clock takes afternoon tea with the Zarina and any members of the Imperial household whom she may have invited to join them. The Czar, generally abstemious to a fault—would far better phrase his subjects were he a bluff, burly, hard-drinking monarch—has an infinite yearning for very strong tea. His physicians have warned him against this indulgence, which is particularly injurious to a man liable as he is to nervous disorders, but their warnings have been received with precisely the same obstinacy as he showed when tackled on the subject of cigars.

After Tea He Goes to Work Again.

Punctually at 5 o'clock the perusal of documents commences and goes on till 7. After which any minister, with some particularly urgent business to be discussed, is granted a brief audience, and at 7:30 the Czar goes to dinner. Dinner is more or less a formal affair. It was the custom of the Czar's father to have about a dozen guests for this meal, and Nicholas, although he would greatly prefer dining alone with his family, follows his example. Some members of the Imperial family are always present, and a sprinkling of generals, ministers and other high officials complete the party. At dinner the Czar prefers to sit quietly and listen to the conversation rather than take any leading part in it himself. A lively talker he delights in, a man who has seen the world and life, and can describe his experiences with vivacity.

The Czar is a Born Gambler.

Nicholas has a peculiar, eminently Russian weakness for gambling. After dinner he sits down to a rubber of bridge, or preferably a game called "wint," in which fortunes can be lost or won at a single sitting. They say that the Czar's excitement on such occasions is a revela-

GERMAN EMPRESS ON WASHINGTON.

There is a pleasant little anecdote of the Empress Frederick, told in Mr. Andrew White's reminiscences of his diplomatic life in the current Century. The American Ambassador had mentioned a certain pathetic picture of George III. to the King's great-granddaughter, and in talking of the long-ended, bitter feelings between the United States and Great Britain, he said: "It is a remembrance of mine, now hard to realize, that I was brought up to abhor the memory of George III." At this the brilliant Empress smiled, and answered: "That was very unjust, for I was brought up to adore the memory of Washington."

Latest Marvels with Liquid Air.

Liquid air is nothing more or less than the air we breathe purified, and subjected to a pressure of 2,500 pounds to the square inch. No one needs reminding that air is roughly speaking, merely a mixture of oxygen and nitrogen. Liquid air is the reduction of both these gases to the more solid state. In appearance liquid air is very much like water and its weight is about nine-tenths of the same bulk of that liquid. The boiling point of liquid air is 312 degrees Fahrenheit below zero and it freezes about 340 degrees Fahrenheit. If some of the liquid air is poured out of a vessel onto the floor or carpet there is not a trace of any mark or stain whatever. It instantly evaporates, and all that can be seen are dense clouds of vapor like steam. If the fingers are quickly plunged in and out again, there is a smart tickling sensation something like a burn. This is due to the intense cold of 320 degrees Fahrenheit. In its liquid state this air contains a larger proportion of oxygen than in its gaseous state. It, therefore, violently supports combustion so that even a slight spark is quickly made into a flame.

About a pint of liquid air was poured into a vessel, into which some grapes were placed. Immediately the fruit came in contact with the liquid air it was thrown into violent activity, having all the appearance of boiling water. In about 20 seconds the grapes were found to have become frozen as hard as marble by 340 degrees Fahrenheit of cold. One could not hold them between one's fingers because of this intense cold. Next a banana was put into the vessel, and after about 40 seconds this fruit was also frozen as hard as a rock. An ordinary egg was treated in the same way, and it required considerable hacking before a piece could be chipped off. It is interesting to note that Dr. Maxim Boyd has buried at least 100 eggs in liquid air and has afterwards tried to hatch them but with no success.

Liquid air apparently destroys all embryonic life. On the other hand, barley and other seeds, which he placed for days in liquid air grew after being planted. It was almost conclusively proved that all obnoxious germs are killed by liquid air. Every one knows that mercury is the most difficult of all metals to freeze and that when we read of mercury being frozen it signifies periods of intense and persistent cold. A tube of liquid mercury was placed in liquid air and after the same violent bubbling and disturbance as before the mercury after about a minute's immersion was removed frozen as hard as steel. Some whisky—which does not freeze under 120 degrees C. was also frozen in the same way; and a candle was made from paraffine oil by freezing it. An indiarubber ball was "balled" for a few seconds and on removal splattered into frozen chips when thrown on a table.

A small model of a working locomotive was partially filled with liquid air, with the result that the tremendous pressure set the pistons in motion in exactly the same way that steam does. The little engine ran up and down the specially made line at express speed. The boiler became quite frosted; one could wipe off the frost with the finger. A very striking experiment is to reverse the order of things by placing a kettle filled with liquid air on the fire. The immediate result is that "steam" will spout out the spout in dense volumes. In a short time when water is poured into the kettle, it will be taken out as ice.

In the bottom of the kettle will be found solid carbonic acid, frozen by the fire. Then drop into the kettle a lump of ice, and the liquid "bolls" more furiously than ever—just the same as when the red-hot fire is dropped into cold water. Now transfer the kettle to a block of ice, and, lo! it "bolls" just as fiercely. The liquid "bolls" will spout out to a test tube fitted with a cork, carrying a glass tube open top and bottom and the lower end of the tube is dripping beneath the surface of the liquid air, the result is that a fountain of the liquid air is forced up several feet into the atmosphere, owing to the tremendous pressure. But if the experimenter holds the tube too long he will have his hand badly frozen.

If you wish to make a dangerous explosive saturate a piece of cotton wood with liquid air and sprinkle some fine coal dust on it and you will have a violent explosive. This, however, is safer than dynamite, because in case of non-ignition or other mishap, the liquid air evaporates. Liquid air has already been used for blasting purposes in several coal mines in Germany. Indeed, there seems scarcely any limit to which it can be put. If you wish to make ice at home all you have to do is to have the necessary ingredients by you—cream, sugar and vanilla, say. Pour a little liquid air into the mixture, stir it up and you have ice. If you wish for ice champagne you can have it in a moment by putting a drop or two of the liquid air in the wine. Or if a room is too hot and you wish to reduce the temperature a little liquid air distributed will soon cool the atmosphere. Some years ago Dr. Martin Boyd, of London, was giving a lecture at a certain hall and illustrating the same by various experiments, when a complaint was raised that he room had become very chilly. On consulting the thermometer it was found that the room had been cooled 14 degrees as a direct result of the evaporation of the liquid air.

Cleaning Waxed Floors.

Water should never be used on a wax floor. Wet a woolen cloth with turpentine and rub the soiled places with it. When the floor is all cleaned go over it with a wooden cloth slightly moistened with soft wax. Let it rest a few hours, then polish with a weighty brush. The prepared wax may be prepared at a paint shop, or it may be prepared at home by melting one pound of yellow beeswax and then beating one pint of turpentine into the melted wax.

Railroads. CONTROL IS GAINED

Canadian Pacific Said to Have Control of Pere Marquette.

Western Roads Make Reduction In Rate on Refined Sugar.

St. Thomas, Ont., July 25.—It is stated here on the authority of railroad men that the Canadian Pacific has secured control of the Pere Marquette and may secure an entrance into Chicago over the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton system. It is known that the Canadian Pacific has been trying to secure a better entrance to Buffalo and a line to Chicago.

REPORT IS DENIED.
Detroit, July 25.—At the general offices of the Pere Marquette here officials deny that there is any truth in the report that the Canadian Pacific had secured control of the Pere Marquette system and said that the report that the Canadian Pacific was to secure an entrance to Chicago through the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton system was not true.

REDUCE THE RATE.

Two Roads Change Their Refined Sugar Rates.

San Francisco, July 25.—The Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe companies have formally announced a reduction in the rate of refined sugar between this city and the Missouri river and points in Kansas and Nebraska from 60 cents to 25 cents a hundred pounds in our lots.

The cut has been made to meet a cut by the lines operating between New Orleans and the same points mentioned above, and for the purpose of placing California refiners on an equal footing with southern competitors.

The lines operating out of New Orleans, among them the Illinois Central, the Frisco and subsidiary lines of the Southern Pacific dissolved their agreement relative to sugar rates and entered on a war that ended a few days ago in the rate being cut from 32 cents to 10 cents a hundred pounds.

As a result the California refiners found themselves seriously handicapped in their business and finally appealed for relief to the lines running out of this city, with the result that the cut was made. The reduction, the railroad officials claim, brings the east bound rate down to the lowest point in the history of western refining.

BUSINESS WOMEN

A Lunch Fit For a King.

An active and successful young lady tells her food experience. "I suffered from nervous prostration induced by continuous brain strain and improper food, added to a great grief, as there was great danger of my mind falling me altogether. My stomach was in bad condition. Nervous dyspepsia, I think now, and when Grape-Nuts food was recommended to me, I had no faith in it. However, I tried it, and soon found a marked improvement in my condition as the result. I had been troubled with deathly faint spells, and had been compelled to use a stimulant to revive me. I found, however, that by eating Grape-Nuts at such times I was relieved as satisfactorily as by the use of stimulants, and suffered no bad effects, which was a great gain. As to my other troubles—nervous prostration, dyspepsia, etc.—the Grape-Nuts diet soon cured them.

"I wish especially to call the attention of office girls to the great benefit I derived from the use of Grape-Nuts food as a noon luncheon. I was thoroughly tired of cheap restaurants and ordinary lunches, and so made the experiment of using a package of Grape-Nuts for my meal, and then slipping out at noon and getting a nickel's worth of sweet cream to add to it. I found that this simple diet, dished off with an apple, peach, orange, or a bunch of grapes made a lunch fit for a king, and one that agreed with me perfectly.

"I threw so on my Grape-Nuts diet that I did not have to give up my work at all, and in two years have had only four lost days charged up against me.

"Let me add that your suggestions in the little book, 'Road to Wellville,' are, in my opinion, invaluable, especially to women." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

Profitable Stitchery.

A woman lately thrown on her own resources has turned to account with excellent results her skill in fancy stitchery, that is, combinations of cross and other stitches done with linen dows or silk for shirtwaist suits, caps, the Brooklyn Eagle. She has had no course of instruction, but simply taken up the work, first among her friends and afterward outsiders. For the plain stitches in white, she obtains 40 cents a yard. Colored and more elaborate designs call for higher rates. She also does some fine hemstitching, and finds a ready market for all she can do for dresses and lingerie. Patrons bring their own material to the work, and the designer, Maxine, generally confined to stitchery, and the combinations are charming as regards both color and line.

MONEY AND PRAISE

sented Negro's Impudence.

St. Louis, Mo., July 25.—Miss Mattie O'Brien, a pretty Arkansas girl, waitress at Union Station, who recently threw a hot cup of coffee in the face of an impudent negro who demanded that he be served before white people with whom she was busy, is receiving hundreds of congratulatory letters from all over the country, mostly from the South, many of them containing money. Yesterday she received a letter from a number of Arkansas traveling men enclosing $25 cash.

Duff Green, a well-known Arkansas salesman, acting as spokesman for the donors, wrote:

"A few of us fellows made up the collection and wanted to send to you. We glory in your spirit and commend you for what you did."

A Confederate veteran sent Miss O'Brien a bill, saying he did not have much longer to live, "but God bless you, my little girl, and I am your friend as long as my old carcass lasts."

Millon's Spicery SOCIAL MUSICAL CLUB AND CIRCLES

A pretty wedding took place last evening at the St. Louis hotel when Miss Gertrude Butchart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Butchart, became the bride of Franklin Stewart Dalrymple.

Two chains of daisies led up to the altar in the parlor, which was banked with daisies and ferns, and the archways leading into the room were decorated with the same flowers. The ring service was read by Rev. A. W. Ryan of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of net peacock, trimmed with white satin ribbon, lace and insertion. She wore a long veil, caught with a brooch of diamonds and pearls, a gift of the groom, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. Only the immediate family and a few friends were present at the wedding service.

Following the ceremony a large reception was held, and the many friends of the bride and groom called during the evening to express their congratulations.

The reception room was artistically decorated in pink and green. La France roses and maiden hair being used. Behind a screen of roses and ferns La Brosse's orchestra played during the ceremony, and later at the reception.

In the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served, red was the prevailing color. Large clusters of berries were banked around the room, and the centerpiece of red sweet peas. Ten of the bride's girl friends assisted about the rooms.

Mrs. Dalrymple was one of the most festive and popular brides of the summer, the last two weeks being crowded with charming affairs given in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple left on the North West last night for a five day trip, and after their return will be at home in Superior.

The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Dalrymple and Clyde Dalrymple of New Prague, Minn.; Miss Gertrude Dalrymple and Mrs. Button of Castleton, N. D.; Capt. and Mrs. Fay and George Fay of Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Russell, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stone and Mrs. Walkup of Grand Rapids, Mich., left today on the steamer America for a week's sojourn at Washington club, Isle Royale.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ferguson of Chicago are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hartman for a couple of weeks.

Miss Grace Maxwell was the guest of honor at a delightful banquet and reception last evening at the Y. W. C. A. The people of the First Christian church were hosts. Miss Maxwell leaves the first of next month for Chicago, where she will take up a course of study in the training school before beginning her association work in the West.

The hosts and hostesses at the eight tables were: Messrs. and Mesdames J. K. Shellenberger, Holden, N. C. Hendricks, Ridson, J. B. Wanless, Thomas Tidwell and Julius Wieland and William Sangster.

The tables were tastefully decorated with pink and white sweet peas and maiden hair fern. About the reception room and hall were clusters of pink Canterbury bells and white candytuft, the color scheme being carried out in the decorations.

During the evening a musical program was given. Mrs. C. A. Brewer and Mrs. H. V. Greasley of West Duluth played several piano duets. Miss Jean Wanless sang several vocal numbers. Miss Leona Greiner played one of Chopin's studies, Opus 10, No. 3, and Rev. W. J. Lowrie of the Westminster Presbyterian church performed the ceremony at 6 o'clock, in the presence of about thirty relatives and friends.

The rooms were prettily decorated with ferns and flowers, and the ceremony was read under an archway of ferns and tiny incandescent lamps. The bride's gown was of cream chiffon over cream tulle, and she carried white roses. Miss Bertha Haley was the bridesmaid, and Robert Dunn of Smithville attended the groom.

After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Dunn left on the steamer North West for Cleveland, where they will be at home.

William F. Howland of Toronto, Canada, and guest of his sister, Mrs. Julia M. Barnes of 405 East Third.

Miss Hattie Reed and Mrs. Earnest Reed, and daughter, Eleanor, of Milwaukee, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hirsch, 625 East First street.

The Clan Stewart gave its annual moonlight excursion last evening on the steamer America. La Brosse's band played during the evening, and several bagpipe selections were given by John McLennan and John Smith. Mr. Smith also gave a splendid exhibition of the Highland fling and sword dancing.

Mrs. H. M. Stanford of 1415 East Superior street, gave a charming reception yesterday for her guest, Mrs. George Prudden of St. Paul.

Otto Schupp, the Saginaw banker, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. F. W. Kugler, for a few days.

Mrs. C. E. Adams of 1029 East Second street is visiting friends in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wright have returned from a two-weeks' outing at Fond du Lac.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reynolds of 229 Second avenue east left this evening for a two-weeks' outing at Solon Springs.

Mrs. Florence Newcomb received this afternoon for her guest, Mrs. Isabelle Balfour of Detroit.

Mrs. John Millon of 923 East Superior street, entertained this afternoon at a reception, from 4 until 6, for Mrs. F. B. Clark and Mrs. J. W. Bayly of Grand Rapids, Mich.

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD.

A BOON TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

The most improved method to free a house of large or small roaches is to use the contents of a box of Peterman's Roach Food at one time. Shake it on joints so some of it will penetrate and remain to keep the premises continuously free. Roaches eat it as a food; it is the most destructive remedy on this earth to them, and it will not scatter them to other places to live on and multiply.

BIDDINGS.—Peterman's "Discovery" (thick), a quick-killing cream, is invaluable to kill bedbugs. Apply lightly with brush on beds when apart, on backs of picture frames, mouldings, etc. It will remain permanent, and is the only remedy that kills and kills those that get over where it has been lightly brushed on. It will not rust iron, burn furniture or bedding.

"Peterman's Discovery" (liquid), in flexible cans, handy to force in joints and quick application, will kill bedbugs and their eggs instantly.

"Peterman's Ant Food"—A strong powder to kill and drive away ants.

"Peterman's Rat-mouse Food" makes rats or mice wild; they will leave and not return.

Successful Buying Trip.

William Lynch, manager of the McDonald Shoe company, has just returned from a two weeks' buying trip in the Eastern markets. Mr. Lynch secured for his exclusive fall trade some of the handsomest lines of footwear for men, women and children ever shown in Duluth. The new goods will arrive soon and will be displayed in the firm's windows.

BENT "HER DOUBT."

"I knew no one, for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver or kidney disorders; at all druggists; price 50c.

A. Brostedt Is President.

A. Brostedt of Duluth, Northern passenger agent for the Great Northern railway, has been elected president of the Duluth-Superior Passenger Agents' Association. H. R. Grochou, general agent of the Omaha at Superior, was elected secretary of the organization. These officers will serve for a term of one year.

T. P. A. Convention.

An attractively arranged illustrated pamphlet, giving the itinerary of the thirty-third annual convention of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents, to be held at Portland, Sept. 14 and 15, was received by the Northern Pacific today. The railroad men will travel over the Wisconsin Central, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Soo line, the North-Western and some of the Pacific coast lines of steamships, in traveling to and from the place of meeting. The trip will occupy about sixteen days.

Railroad Personals.

George J. Lovel of St. Paul, representing the Wabash road, is in the city today.

F. W. Lally, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, is in Duluth from St. Paul today.

W. Humphrey of St. Paul, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, in company with F. H. Thorn, ticket agent for the Milwaukee road at St. Paul, are in the city today on their way to Isle Royale.

J. H. Whittesley of Minneapolis, traveling freight agent of the Pere Marquette, is in town today.

H. E. Still of St. Paul, assistant general freight agent of the Northern Pacific, is in the city today.

REGISTERED MAIL DELAYED

By the New Order For Duluth-Staples

Run.

In connection with the change of mail service on the Duluth-Staples run, which is to go into effect tomorrow and which is being protested against, the matter of registered mail is an interesting item and it is learned that hereafter with the new service in view, no registered mail can go out on the night train no matter what time it is mailed.

Under the postal rules in a case where there is no clerk on the train no registered letters can go, as they must be put in personal charge of a clerk. Therefore, with the new mail service on the Duluth-Staples run registered mail service will be available only in the morning from Duluth to Wrentham, Athol, Attikon, Brainerd, Tamarack, Motley and all connections out of Staples.

The registered mail delay cannot be overcome by sending it via St. Paul for all morning trains are out of there before the registered mail would be opened for distribution from Duluth. This is an important factor for local business men to consider.

GASSER IS HOPEFUL

Looks on Court's Order Dissolving Injunction as a Victory.

Claims Original Action Is Not Prejudiced In Any Way.

"If the association can derive an solace from that decision they are welcome to it," said M. M. Gasser, president M. M. Gasser & Company, this morning, when asked what he would do next, now that the court has dissolved the temporary writ of injunction against the Retail Grocers' association and the wholesalers. "The fact of the matter is, we regard the order of the court more a victory for our side of the case than a defeat. We were not permitted to introduce oral testimony, supply the affidavits. Of course, the defendants being so numerous, there was easily a preponderance of affidavits. It should be noted, however, that the court did not assess the costs against us and that he discharged the order without prejudice to the existence of an illegal combination. This means that if at any time M. M. Gasser & Company have cause, they may start other injunctive proceedings without prejudice from the order which the court has just issued. This right will, if the necessity arises, certainly be exercised. "As the matter now stands it would seem to be up to the state authorities to make the next move. We shall simply rest on our guns awaiting the trial of the original action, which is set for the final trial of the case on the September term of district court. A great many people have formed the erroneous impression that there has been a sweeping victory for the association when, in fact, the court has merely disposed of the preliminary action, and the main issues will be tried when court again convenes."

KOCH TRIAL NEARLY OVER

Mankato, July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is quite likely that the trial of Dr. G. R. Koch, of New Ulm, charged with the murder of Dr. L. A. Gehlert, on the night of Nov. 1, will close tomorrow. Today Mrs. Emma Koch, sister of the accused, gave her testimony, which was identical with the testimony she has given at the other trials. She identified the "pepper and salt" suit of clothes as being the suit George wore the day after the murder. She said she was in the dining room the day George burned his hands. She told him to put a stick of wood in the kitchen stove, and he did so, at the same time he cried "Alack." Then he ran to her and she saw that he had burned his hands. She applied vaseline.

IN POLICE COURT

Prisoner Appears In Auburn Wig and Carpet Slippers.

Old Timer Breaks Loose After Eighteen Months Sobriety.

Wearing a happy smile, an Auburn colored wig, a pair of gaily decorated carpet slippers and about a $10 jacket, Erick Nierl floated in on the astonished gaze of the officers at headquarters last night, piloted by one of Duluth's finest.

"What's the answer?" asked the desk sergeant, as he gazed at the new aspirant for rock pile honors.

"Search me," said the officer who was responsible for the arrest.

"Well, where did you get it?"

"Found him," said the officer, as he proudly surveyed his capture. "Ain't he a peach?"

"Give him the best room we've got," said the desk sergeant. "Give him cell No. 1 on the ground floor, and leave a call for 7:30 with a pitcher of ice water. He'll need it by that time."

"Help! Help!" said the joker as he shielded his eyes from the wonderful slippers with which the prisoner was clad.

The court officer sprang to the rescue with a glass of water.

"What's the charge?" asked the court, when he had recovered.

"Drunkness."

"What do you plead? War du vill?" said the court.

"Ja," said the prisoner.

"We can't make him work on the rock pile in carpet slippers," said the court. "Suspend sentence, and have the interpreter tell him that the next time he gets in here he had better wear hob-nailed boots."

James Duffy was one of the four prisoners brought before the bar of justice. The charge against him was the same.

Duffy used to be one of the old timers, but for the last eighteen months he has been occupying a seat with the driver of the water wagon. Last night he hit town after a long spell of week and climbed down from his seat for a brief spell. After promising to get back on the wagon and stick for another eighteen months, he was released by Judge Windom under a suspended sentence.

"Remember if you get in here again inside of twelve months, you'll be sentenced to go," said the court, and Duffy repeated his vow of an indefinite spell of temperance.

Sent to Asylum.

After an examination by physicians yesterday afternoon, Freshet Judge Middlecott found Andrew Johnson to be insane, and an order was made for his commitment in the state hospital at Fergus Falls. Johnson is the young man who eluded his relatives when he surmised they were to have him examined for insanity. After several hours' search by the officers he was found in a Lake avenue boarding house.

RARE MEAT TO BLAME

Much Suffering Caused By Egg Which It Contains.

Cooper Gives the Reason For the Fearful Affliction.

Much interest is being aroused in this city by Mr. Cooper's unusual statement that parasites are the foundation for a great deal of the chronic stomach trouble, and by the fact that he is borne out in making this statement since, as he prophesied, many cases of this character have come to light in the last few days.

On Tuesday people called at Boyer's drug store, bringing with them receptacles containing tape worms which had been driven from their systems by Cooper's medicines. Some of these people were frightened, as they did not know what the creatures were.

Mr. Cooper was seen at the Spalding drug store, and was asked to tell how these parasites first found their way into the human system. He said: "People may become afflicted with one of these creatures only through eating uncooked food of different kinds, but in nearly every case the presence of the tape worm in the human system is due to eating raw or very rare meat."

"All meat of this character is dangerous, for unless it is thoroughly cooked it may contain the egg from which these parasites come, and unless it is cooked sufficiently to kill this egg, it is taken into the stomach where it immediately hatches, and grows at an astonishing rate. It travels from the stomach to the intestines and remains there, growing larger each day until it has reached enormous proportions."

"Every particle of food which is passed into the intestines, after being digested by the stomach, is preyed upon by the creature, so that the nourishment which should go to build bone, blood and sinew in the individual, has most of the life-giving properties which it possesses absorbed by the parasite. In consequence, the entire system is broken down, the blood becomes impure, the stomach is thrown out of order, the nerves are affected, and the mind loses its wonted keenness and becomes dull and sluggish."

"Contrary to general belief, the appetite is not greatly increased. It only becomes irregular, so that at times the mere sight of food will nauseate, and at others the individual eats ravenously."

"One of the surest indications of this trouble is a general feeling of lassitude and disinclination for all effort and extreme nervousness. The individual almost invariably thinks himself to be suffering from many ills, and tries first one thing and then another, hoping to rid himself of an imaginary disease."

"As I have before stated, I have found these parasites to be very common, and sooner than take the chance of having one of these terrible things in my system, and subjecting myself to untold misery, I feel that every particle of meat I eat is thoroughly cooked."

"If Mr. Cooper is right about this, and the facts seem to indicate that he is, the epicures who like their steaks chops, etc., with just the least bit of brown on the outside and had better think less of their palates and more of their health. It looks as though the rich rare steaks that appear so tempting and fairly make the mouth water, will have to go, and the raw Hamburger sandwich will be a thing of the past."

NEW LAUNCH HOUSE.

Duluth Yacht Club Plans on Second Building.

The Duluth Yacht Club is planning for another improvement on its Park Point property, in the shape of a second launch house. The first house, with eight stalls, is entirely inadequate to answer all demands, and so popular has it become with launch owners in Duluth and Superior that another structure of the same sort has been found necessary. The second building will contain three 40-foot stalls and four 30-foot stalls.

It will really be an extension of the repair shop. It will be ahead of the old structure in point of height and equipment. The entries for the boats will offer an opening twelve feet from top to bottom, so that a pretty large cabin can be admitted. The building will be equipped with a patent appliance, invented by Commodore H. Johnson, for raising the boats from the water. The device will be attached to the ceiling and will be very easy to operate. A second marine railway will also be built in connection with the new launch house.

UNKNOWN MAN IS MURDERED

Stranger's Body Found With Note Saying He Expected Death.

Elk River, Minn., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A man's unidentified body that evidently had been picked and torn about the head by buzzards, and upon which was found a book containing an entry indicating that the man had believed he would be murdered, was found on the bank of the Elk river in the town of Palmer, in the upper end of Sherburne county.

In the book, which was of the kind used by timekeepers, was the following:

"I understand that I will be killed very soon. I also think I know by whom it has been put up. I will die by the bullet of my enemies. It is an easy thing to fix—me."

The book contained an account of time worked in the woods. None of the names of the book seem to be known to anyone in this vicinity. The county authorities will investigate the case. It is generally believed the man was murdered.

THE SITUATION GROWS WORSE

St. Paul, July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The situation in Aitkin county, among those unfortunate whose farms were inundated by the river flood, grows worse as additional information is received.

A letter from George Kemmerer, superintendent of schools of Aitkin county, and a letter from J. A. Galenau, mayor of the city of Aitkin, indicate that fully $25,000 will be required to adequately meet the situation existing. Private communications received at the governors office, show that scores of families are really destitute of everything requisite to con-continued residence in the country, and the fact is emphasized that the majority of these people are new settlers along the river, who were counting on their first crop to carry them through the coming winter.

Labor Commissioner Williams asserts that in many instances the crops are so utterly ruined as to preclude the slightest possibility of salvage. The letter from Kemmerer voices the thanks of the community for Mr. Williams' visit, and says the labor commissioner went about his work, while in the flood district, with commendable thoroughness.

C. Van Dyke, the governor's executive clerk, said that in many houses the children were actually in want of food and clothing and urged that persons intending to give aid to the sufferers should not be deterred from any false belief that the need was not immediate. He pointed out that the recent news of the famine heated aside from their farm produce, were of the most limited description, and asserted that in dozens of cases, not only the crops, but also the stock of the settlers had been destroyed.

SAILORS GET NEW UNIFORMS

State Militia Officers
Here Fitting Out Naval Reserves.

The members of the Minnesota Naval Reserve are being fitted out with their new uniforms preliminary to their summer cruise in the training ship Penn now on the way to Duluth from the navy yards. Adj. Gen. Frederick Woods of St. Paul and Capt. Thatcher, the state militia storekeeper, arrived in the city today to attend to turning over the uniforms to the sailors. The uniforms will be the first installment that the reserves have had from the state, the first uniforms having been purchased with funds raised at the time the organization was perfected, and before it became a part of the state militia.

Three officers and seven of the enlisted men have received orders to be in readiness to start within a few days for Cadiz, to join the Penn and navigate her to Saint Ste. Marie, Mich., where the main body of the reserves will get on the boat for the Lake Superior Cruise.

BLAMES ALL TO THE JEWS

Odesa, July 26.—The governor of Odesa has issued an extraordinary proclamation which when posted in the city tomorrow, may have the effect of increasing the already bitter feeling against the Jews among the troops and the more ignorant classes of the population. The governor says he has received a number of anonymous letters denouncing persons as Socialists and revolutionaries which he entirely ignores, believing that in most cases these communications were inspired by motives of personal vengeance. The proclamation continues: "Letters have also come from the Jews charging the police with preparing for a Jewish massacre." The governor then declares that such action is impossible and will not be permitted, but he adds: "The governor is astonished at the Jews addressing such letters to him, seeing that it is the Jews themselves who caused all the disorders. The police invariably found revolvers, bombs and prohibitive literature in Jewish houses, but for the Jews there should be no disturbances and no Kishinev type of massacre. Now the Jews have the impudence to bring charges against the police."

TO SETTLE MATTER ARGUMENT IS ON

Catholic Foresters May Bar Liquor Men From Membership.

State Chief Ranger Martin Says Resolution Will Pass.

A second attempt to bar from membership in the Catholic Order of Foresters saloonkeepers, bartenders, distillers, brewers and all men engaged in the manufacture and sale of intoxicants, will be made at the biennial convention of the order, to be held at Boston, Aug. 1. The matter has caused considerable discussion among local members of the order, but no action, either one way or the other, has been taken at any of the meetings of the local lodges, or by the state organization.

"Personally, I have no objection to such men being admitted to membership," said P. H. Martin, state chief ranger, today. "As long as saloons are licensed by the government and state, I see no reason why the men keeping them, whether they are saloonkeepers, doctors, lawyers or members of any other profession, in Duluth we have eleven saloon men who belong to our lodge, and only two of them ever touch intoxicants, which is more than can be said of the majority of members of any fraternal organization."

"The agitation against dealers in liquor was started six years ago, and was caused primarily by the fact that they were not considered good risks. Several of them died within a very few months after passing their medical examination and becoming Foresters. This was, of course, because the examinations were not strict enough. Since that time the doctors have become much more strict in their examinations of all applicants for membership, and therefore one is no greater risk, under the new order of things than anyone else."

"He has, however, been entered as a hazardous risk for the past four years, and has had to pay extra dues on this account. This has had a tendency to keep a good many of the class from applying for entry into the order. Once the agitation was started it came into more and more prominent notice, even after the matter of the health risk was rightly adjusted, and the Foresters began looking at the question from an ethical standpoint. The sentiment against the liquor dealers grew, and at a convention, four years ago, the first organized attempt to bar them was made. To accomplish the desired end a two-thirds vote was necessary. The two-thirds vote was lacking when the matter came to a show-down. I believe the question was forty votes shy. At the last convention, two years ago, the question was not brought up at all."

"The way things look now the resolution which is to be introduced, to the effect that in future all men who make their living in the liquor business will not be permitted to enter the order, will be passed. Delegates from Minnesota will go to the convention unopposed, and will vote as their individual reason dictates. They are in no way bound to vote one way or the other. No official action relative to the question was taken at the recent state meeting, and neither has such action been taken in Duluth. Just what the general sentiment of the order is concerning the proposition I am not prepared to state, and I might say the same of the city. When the resolution was voted on four years ago the Minnesota delegation was divided, and it is not at all likely that all the delegates will agree at the coming convention, but the chances are that out of the 400 or 500 delegates in attendance more than the required two-thirds vote will be secured."

Nineteen Minnesota delegates will attend the meeting. The Duluth district will be represented by P. Grignon, a member of the St. Louis court, No. 177, B. P. McDonald, a member of the auditing committee, will also attend. Mr. Martin, who is a member of the St. James' court, had expected to be present, but business calls him to Canada, so that he will be unable to be on hand. The Minnesota delegation will leave St. Paul next Saturday on a special car.

The convention is to be noteworthy also because of a resolution to be introduced to raise the rates of insurance so that the order will be able to meet the demands made upon it. It is claimed by the officers of the organization that the rates are much too low according to the rates of other fraternal insurance organizations.

It is said that Thomas H. Cannon of Chicago, present high chief ranger, probably will be elected, as there is no opposition to him at the present time. Mr. Cannon has been high chief ranger since 1894. Thomas F. McDonald of Chicago will probably be elected high secretary to succeed himself. Who will get the position of high medical examiner is difficult to predict. Dr. P. J. Smyth of Chicago holds the position, but there are a dozen candidates for his place.

A number of residents of the East have expressed to The Herald the wish that when and where the city authorities are considering the matter of effecting a compromise with the Thomas Lowry upon the street railway situation, they do not forget the matter of the "loop" line that has been agitated so often and which has been postponed now and then with the idea that some day the company will build it. The idea is that the street railway shall be run up some avenue, probably Twenty-fourth, to Fourth street, and connect with the street car line at that point, giving service that will enable a person from Lakeside to go along Fourth street, reaching the normal school and many other important districts without going to Third avenue west and transferring and then riding back that long distance.

Legality of Private Car Lines Question Before Judge Morris.

Both Sides Ask Direction of Verdict—Jury Excused.

In the suit of the Knudsen-Ferguson Fruit company against the Michigan Central railway, in United States court, the jury has been excused until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, for the reason that arguments on the motions of each side for a direction of verdict are being made. C. A. Severance for the defense began his argument to the court yesterday afternoon, and finished at noon today. Roger S. Powell, attorney for the Knudsen-Ferguson company, began his argument this afternoon. Attorney Severance argued the matter at length, and quoted numerous authorities and decisions to sustain his assertions.

The kernel of the whole case is whether or not any railroad has a right to give any concern an exclusive privilege to operate private cars on its road. In this case it comes up in the form of a suit to recover a rebate of 42¢ from charges made for transporting and icing a quantity of grapes from Michigan to Duluth over the defendant company's road. The icing charges were extra, for the reason, the road claims, the refrigerator car in which they were transported belonged to the Armour Packing company, and that company having an exclusive privilege to operate such private cars on the Michigan Central road, had to be paid for the icing furnished.

The plaintiff contends that all charges should be filed with the interstate commerce commission and that as the icing charges are not so filed they are not legal and the road has no right to make the charges. The road further argues that it never had a contract for such transportation with the Knudsen-Ferguson company, but with the shipper in Michigan, and therefore the Knudsen-Ferguson company has no ground for suit, the shipper having made no objection to the charges.

The suit is a very important one, as, if it is found that the Knudsen-Ferguson company has the right to sue, the question of the legality of private car lines will come directly before the United States court and will undoubtedly get into the supreme court of the United States, the court of last resort, whichever way the decision is in the lower court.

RESIGNATION OF FARRELL From Great Northern Steamship Company Confirmed.

St. Paul, July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Practically all the corroboration of the telegraphic reports that President J. D. Farrell of the Great Northern Steamship company had resigned, and that he would be succeeded by J. H. James, president of the Great Northern Steamship company in Great Lakes line, was given today at the office of Second Vice President Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern railroad. Mr. Hill had just received from Mr. Farrell a letter announcing that, in obedience to the suggestions of citizens, he had decided to leave the steamship business. This meant, as was explained by one of Mr. Hill's assistants, that Mr. Farrell would resign the presidency of the Great Northern Steamship company, and would also give up his duties as assistant to President J. A. Hill of the Great Northern railroad.

Mr. Hill said that the resignation of Mr. Farrell was as yet formally recognized.

Great July clearance STREET HATS Bargain counter sale

This great offering is the balance of our immense clearing-out purchase from one of the big millinery jobbers of straw street and runabout hats for ladies and misses. It comprises an almost endless variety of styles and shapes—all the best and smartest in this line of wear. There are many colors—combinations of colors—various weights and weaves of straw—trimmed in braids, buckles, ornaments, ribbons, etc.

These hats were made to sell at prices up to $2.50, and only because we cleared the entire surplus stock of this big jobbing house, thus getting it at a great discount for a cash purchase, are we enabled to offer these values. Ordinarily, the $1.39 hats would be sold for up to $2.50 and the hats we've been offering at 69¢ would be sold for no less than $1.50—therefore our extremely low prices for the clearance sale make these hats bargains of far more than ordinary importance.

All our trimmed straws which we have offered at $1.39 and 95¢ during the sale, commencing Thursday morning will be placed in one lot—and you may have your choice at 89c All the pretty hats which have been selling during the July sale at 59¢ and 69¢, will be offered in one lot, commencing Thursday morning—and your choice of this entire lot for only..... 48c

WILL OBEY FOOD LAW

Camp Proprietors Make Hurried Requests For Necessary Placards. Intend to Give Publicity to Use of Butter Substitutes.

The radical measures that are being taken by the state dairy and food inspection department to enforce the law relative to publicity that must be given the use of butter substitutes, has caused uneasiness in a great many of the lumber and mining camps in St. Louis county and vicinity, and the wholesale houses furnishing camp supplies are said to be flooded with requests by phone and mail for placards announcing that buttering or oleomargarine is being used in this or that particular camp.

During the past week the dairy and food inspection department has instituted suit against a number of range corporations and individuals because they were found to be using buttering or oleomargarine without having conspicuously displayed in their camps or boarding houses placards announcing the fact. The penalty for the offense is not less than $25 or more than $75, including the costs, and it is learned that in nearly every instance the person charged paid the fine. Their explanations were that the infraction of the law was due to ignorance rather than intent. As soon as the people running camps and boarding houses learned that the state inspectors were on a crusade against the places where butter substitutes were used without placards, they went after placards and the local packing houses and jobbers that supply butter and oleomargarine to the range and other points were somewhat astonished at the unprecedented demand for placards that so suddenly began. News of the prosecutions on the range fully explained the matter.

A large number of the camps in Northern Minnesota have been disregarding the law, supposing that the measure related to regular boarding houses where the boarders paid a cash board. They now know that under the construction of the law a boarding house is taken not only to include those places where cash is paid for board, but camps of all sorts where the men employed are fed, the contention being that the board furnished is part of the matter.

The quantity of buttering or oleomargarine that is used in this part of the county is said to be something enormous. The demand for these butter substitutes in sections where large numbers of men are employed is very heavy at all times of the year. In the winter the lumber camps consume immense stores of the substitutes, while in the summer the logging camps take a considerable amount. There are probably few boarding places for workmen on the range but that do not buy butter substitutes in large quantities. The substitutes are cheaper and are claimed to keep better than butter. The consumers are said to find that a good grade of the substitutes gives far better satisfaction than does poor butter.

LOVE AND POLITICS.
Girl Seeks a "B. A." Captures an "M. C."
Omaha, Neb., July 26.—Love and politics were curiously interwoven in the affairs of Congressman-elect E. M. Pollard, and in addition to his victory at the polls, he won the heart of Miss Gertrude Waterman, a pretty young school teacher of this city. They were married at the home of Miss Waterman's father last evening. During the major portion of their courtship Miss Waterman was studying at the university in Lincoln, fitting herself for a high position in the schools. Toward the close of the term she wrote a friend as follows: "I came here to capture the degree of B. A., but it looks very much as though I am going to get an M. C. That is, if the Democrats do not surprise everybody." The Democrats did not.

GROCERS' PICNIC

If the weather man will only duplicate tomorrow the sort of weather enjoyed at the Head of the Lakes today, the Duluth grocers will be his friends for life. All that is needed to finish off the arrangements for one of the biggest entertainment events of the year, the annual picnic of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association, is fair weather.

Fond du Lac will this year be the scene of festivity, where the grocers, their families, clerks and friends will disport themselves for the day and night at all their business troubles. The grocers claim that because of long hours of business every week day of the year, they are entitled to one day of their own for recreation and good time, and when this day arrives they usually make the most of it. The steamer Newsboy is to leave the Fifth avenue dock for the picnic grounds at 8:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. and on the morning trip will stop at the Merrill & Ring dock at 8:30 a. m. to pick up the West Duluth contingent.

As soon as the crowd reaches Fond du Lac the fun will begin, the starter to be a ball game between picked nines comprised of grocers or their clerks. The time the game is finished it is figured that the crowd will be hungry, so that the dinner will be spread in the cool shady spots for which the Fond du Lac picnic grounds are famous.

After dinner will occur the regular athletic program, there being a long list of events with liberal prizes. These have been arranged for both the men and the women, grocers and their wives, and for the grocery clerks. The opening feature of the program will be a guessing contest on a jar of pepper.

After the games are finished, Platen's Third Regiment band, which is to give a concert on the boat, up and back, will play for the dance at the pavilion. The committee in charge of the arrangements has figured it out that many of the young people will desire to remain for the evening dance, so a train has been chartered to leave Fond du Lac for Duluth at 10 p. m. for the picnic grounds.

The grocers expect this picnic to be one of the most successful attempted. Last year the picnic was held at Fond du Lac and was not so satisfactory, the people desiring to go farther away from the city. In such event, to some place that they can reach by a boat ride. Fond du Lac is expected to induce many new settlers to come to Marshall county this fall. After luncheon members of the Commercial club and farmers took the visitors for a drive through the wheat belt.

ATTRACTING ATTENTION
Duluth's Experiments With Tuberculin Test Are Being Watched.

Duluth's ordinance regarding the tuberculin test for cattle is attracting the attention of a number of cities throughout the country, and numerous requests have been received by the municipal health department for copies of the ordinance. The latest one came from the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis which has been organized at New York. R. I. The society is endeavoring to work up public sentiment in favor of more stringent legislation reducing methods of preventing the spread of tuberculosis, and a milk ordinance similar to that recently passed in Duluth is one of the plans that will be tried. The ordinance has given the city not a little free advertising as a progressive leader in the fight against the great white plague.

IMMIGRATION EXCURSION

Visits Hallock and Warren and Is Warmly Welcomed.

Crookston, Minn., July 26.—The newspaper men's excursion under the auspices of the immigration department of the state auditor's office, conducted by Samuel G. Iverson, state auditor and land commissioner, reached here at 10 o'clock last night and left early this morning for Greenbush, whence they will return tonight. The first stop yesterday was made at Hallock, where a meeting was held in the O. M. T. hall, attended by a large number of the farmers. P. H. Kendin, president, and after referring to Kiltson county, of which Hallock is the county seat, as the heart of America's bread basket, told of its natural resources. He spoke of this being a distinctive agricultural center, and with the influx of settlers, it is rapidly becoming a stock raising and dairy center. He said that land which was sold at $2 an acre a few years ago is now bringing from $25 to $40, with few places for sale. Henry Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer of Des Moines, Ia., addressed the gathering, saying in part: "With the land in proper physical condition the farms of the Red River valley are good for 40 crops, but you cannot continue to raise wheat as you have been in the last ten or more years. Raise clover, get something to feed it to and then grow rice. Speeches were also made by Samuel M. Owen of the Farm, Stock and Home, Minneapolis; John M. Stahl of the Farmers' Call, Quincy, Ill.; William Kelso, Albert Dolan, Minneapolis Times, and Peter Stromme of the Politician, Minneapolis.

Prof. Harendt of the state experiment farm at Crookston said Kiltson county is unsurpassed in its fertility. Something besides wheat can be raised. Alfalfa and corn can be grown successfully, and with the introduction of live stock between dairy and stock raising, and cheese factories have been established the last ten years the best of the best years will see even greater changes. He stated that if farmers will introduce the new rotation plan, weeds and Canada thistles will disappear and crops will take care of themselves. "Raise clover," he said, "you are raising the best of the white variety and you can make a success of red clover."

State Auditor Iverson said the corn area is moving northward and predicted that in a few years Kiltson county will be harvesting crops equal to any in Iowa or Illinois. Wheat is matured in from ninety to ninety-five days and corn will be ripened in the same period.

He announced that the state has 4,000 acres unimproved land in this county which will be offered for sale in connection with the lands in other counties. The next stop of the excursion was at Warren, where a brass band and several hundred men and women, and W. F. Powell, vice president of the Commercial club and acting Mayor Angus Lindgreen, welcomed the excursionists to the three-story city. The party was taken to the Masonic and Odd Fellows' halls where luncheon was served. W. F. Powell addressed the excursionists, telling of the resources of the city and county, saying that farms which sold at from $15 to $20 per acre five years ago cannot be touched at $40 today. There were no formal speeches though Auditor Iverson said he expected to induce many new settlers to come to Marshall county this fall. After luncheon members of the Commercial club and farmers took the visitors for a drive through the wheat belt.

LONG LOST TOWN FOUND
The Historic Mascoutin Village Probably Located in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., July 26.—The finding of an old French coin in a cement box, near Berlin, Wis., on the Fox river, may develop into a historical event, for it is believed that ultimately the discovery will lead to the location of the lost village of the Mascoutin Indians, for which historians have been in search.

Anton Disterhoff, employed as a farm hand, while plowing in a cornfield, unearthed the box containing the coin. With a chisel he pried open the cement box, and in the center of this he found the coin, which is three-eighths of an inch in diameter. The farm hand turned it over to his employer, who immediately sent it to the University of Wisconsin. In a few days he received notice that the coin was the "widow's mite."

University authorities believe that more than three such coins are in existence today. It is made of copper, and on one side is a crocheted emblem, described as "two cornucopias with a pony in the center." On the opposite side is the Greek inscription: "Jonathan, the high priest, and the senate of the Jews." The coin is a type of one of the smallest of its kind made by the Jews in the early days.

If the material the coin includes were only considered, it would be worth but little. But the theory is advanced by professors of history that it is of colossal historic value, and even now it is said the coin is worth nearly $5,000 to any museum that might see it to give it a place among the relics of the early days.

Historians feel positive that they have tangible evidence by which they can find the long-lost Indian village, which for a long time they have felt sure was located in the territory where the French coin was found. Heretofore all of their efforts were baffled by the non-appearance of anything that seemed to mark the exact spot.

Father James Marquette alone visited the Mascoutin village in about 1670. He left behind long descriptions of it in the Jesuit Relations. It is now contended that he or some of the missionaries that followed gave the coin to the Indians, or buried it on the spot to mark their claim to land, which was the French custom.

The French are famous for burying lead plates along the banks of rivers, to designate their claims to land. In speaking of the location of the Indian village, Secretary Thwaites of the Wisconsin State Historical society, says: "It was somewhere about here, near Father Belin than Omro," which means probably the spot where the coin was unearthed.

Among the early Jesuits who visited the Indian village were Alouez, Dablon and Marquette. Their accounts, together with the maps attached to the Jesuit Relations of 1670 and 1671 and the present topography of the country, seem to prove the contention.

By government survey the distance from the junction of the Fox and Wolf rivers to Berlin by river is thirty-eight miles. Alouez entered the Fox at the junction of these rivers in April, 1670, reaching the Mascoutin village on April 30. After landing he walked, says the account, about a league to the village. In the evening of the same day he assembled the natives to instruct them in the Catholic faith. According to accounts, Alouez spent about a day and a half on the river, traveling by canoe. The conclusion is that the Indian village must be sought about thirty-five miles from the junction of the Fox and Wolf rivers, which would bring it near Berlin, or where the coin was found.

But there is still more convincing evidence. Father Dablon, who visited the country, describes the place. Thwaites, Marquette and Joliet visited the Indian village. The account in this instance speaks of mineral springs, and tells of the beautiful view from an eminence and the prairies, both of which are admitted to this day.

Landing near Berlin now, at a point about thirty-five miles from the junction of the Fox and Wolf rivers, one finds himself on a little rise of ground. At the foot are springs, and rolling, beautiful prairies lead away in the distance. All and all, the discovery seems to clinch the location of the Mascoutin village.

SERIOUS EPIDEMIC OF YELLOW FEVER IS NO LONGER FEARED

Hundreds of Men at Work Improving Sanitary Conditions. Reports of New Cases and Deaths Are Rapidly Decreasing.

New Orleans, July 27.—No report of additional new cases or deaths from yellow fever was made public by the city board of health in the early hours of the day. There were unofficial reports of a number of new cases today, however. Official report was made today of twelve new cases and six deaths occurring in the previous twenty-four hours. Of the twelve new cases nine are Italians, six of the cases are at 120 and 124 St. Philip street, showing the principal infection to be still in the vicinity of the French market. Only two of the cases are in the upper part of the city. Of the deaths one occurred in the hospital, two up town and three in the French market street. The health officers, after a study of the facts, expressed the opinion that there was hope of eradicating the disease, before fall and in any event with the precautions being taken a serious epidemic was entirely out of the question.

The organization of forces for fighting the spread of the infection for a campaign of education and practical application of the mosquito extermination plans have been completed, and, besides, 100 men put on as extras by the city to clean gutters, 350 men are working as part of the system of sanitation.

Citizens are organizing into sanitary clubs and house-to-house canvases will be made to assure the screening of every citizen and the closing of every cess-pool and water pond. The business men have provided funds for this work.

Mobile, Ala., July 27.—The local health authorities have ruled that fruit steamers that have been out five days from their point of sailing and show a clean bill of health may unload at the local wharves under the usual restrictions. Under new circumstances will vessels from an infected port be permitted to come nearer than the lower bay where the fruit will be lighted under strict quarantine regulations.

Two steamers arrived today from Bluefield, a non-infected port. These vessels have been going to New Orleans.

GERMANY WANTS TO MAKE NEW TREATY WITH UNITED STATES

Washington, July 27.—Germany's commercial relations with the United States will be among the most important subjects to come before the senate at the next session of congress. Having negotiated new commercial arrangements with Belgium, Italy, Russia, Roumania and Serbia, Germany is anxious to make a similar arrangement with the United States. The new treaty already concluded became effective March 1 and preliminary negotiations have been in progress since that time. The German government is anxious to have the treaty with this country to be allowed to lapse about Nov. 30. A thorough understanding exists, however, between Washington and Berlin regarding the reasons for ending this treaty. The matter has been discussed at length by the president and Baron Speck von Sphering, the German ambassador, the latter having communicated Germany's earnest wish to conclude a new treaty with this country, which will be equally helpful to the trade of each country. On his return to Washington in the autumn, Baron Speck von Sphering will have full instructions for the program to be followed and on the execution of these will depend in a measure the policy to be followed by this government. The lapse of the treaty coming late in November, it is believed, will bring the subject to the attention of congress by the senate. Because of the effect on American exports, which without a treaty will be obliged to pay the maximum rates of the German tariff, the officials here believe the senate will consent to the ratification of a treaty which, in return for certain reductions on German imports, will give advantageous schedules to American goods entering Germany.

WROTE LOVE LETTERS TO MISS ALICE; IS CONSIDERED INSANE

New York, July 27.—Private James G. Jones of the regular army, who has been serving a term of imprisonment on Governor's island for desertion from his command at Fort Banks, Miss., has been removed from Castle William on a special order to be examined by a board of lunacy. Although great secrecy has been maintained, the World states that it was learned yesterday that private Jones had been sending love letters to Miss Alice Roosevelt.

More than a score are said to have reached her through the mail and the matter was placed in the hands of the secret service agents when Jones finally sent a sharp note to Mrs. Roosevelt in which he charged the latter with standing between the president's daughter and himself.

Secret service men soon located the writer of the letters, but were unable to learn how he managed to mail them. Some of them expressed the belief that he was feigning insanity.

M. WITTE IS DETAINED BY FOG

Cherbourg, July 27.—Although it was announced that the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse left the Needles at 5.30 this morning, the vessel is still here as this dispatch is filed and it is not expected that she will be able to leave Cherbourg for New York before this afternoon, owing to the denseness of the fog. M. Witte, the chief Russian peace envoy, who is a passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, appears somewhat annoyed at the delay, the Russian peace party being already

HAND STICKING OUT OF GROUND CAUSES THE RESCUE OF FOUR

New York, July 27.—Four men buried by the caving in by a trench they were digging for a new gas plant at Long Island City, were saved yesterday by laborers who happened to pass and saw directly in front of them what appeared to be level ground, a man's hand and part of the forearm. Frightened speechless, they stopped and then the fingers of the hand moved. Hasty DEATH LIST NOW 62. Two More of the Bennington's Crew Are Dead.

San Diego, Cal., July 27.—The list of Bennington dead numbers sixty-two, there having been two more deaths, S. Tuckett, a Japanese mess attendant, and H. A. Mettiss, pay clerk. The cause of Mettiss is peculiar. He was able to walk up town after the accident and was thought not to have been

THE CHINESE BOYCOTT TOWARD UNITED STATES MAY BECOME SERIOUS

Native Bankers to Hold Meeting to Consider Boycotting the International Banking Corporation. Now Considered Doubtful Whether China Will Sign Treaty Excluding Even Laborers From Country.

Shanghai, July 27.—The native bankers here are calling a meeting to discuss a proposal to boycott the International Banking corporation.

The International Banking corporation was organized in June, 1901, under the laws of Connecticut, receiving its charter by a special act of the legislature. It was then the only American banking institution formed for the purpose of doing business entirely in foreign countries, with authority to establish branches. The corporation was made the agent of the United States government for the receipt of the payments to this government on account of the Chinese Boxer indemnity. The stockholders of the corporation were carefully selected from among the leading manufacturers, exporters and importers of the United States. The corporation was capitalized at $3,000,000, with a surplus of $2,000,000. Among the cities represented in the concern were New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Dayton, Cleveland, Columbus, Detroit, Milwaukee, Chicago and St. Louis. The Southern and Pacific coast cities were equally well represented.

The president of the corporation, when it was made the agent of the United States government in 1902, was Marcellus Hartley. John J. McCook was the corporation's attorney, and James S. Pearson was its agent at Shanghai.

The present officers of the corporation are: Thomas H. Hubbard, chairman of the board of directors and president; James Pearson, vice president; and J. B. Lee, general manager. The main offices are at No. 1 Wall street, New York.

The directors include Sir H. Montague Allan, George Crocker, James Pearson, Edwin Gould, Isaac Guggenheim, E. H. Harriman, Thomas H. Hubbard, H. B. Huntington and Sir William Van Horne.

San Francisco, July 27.—Local merchants interested in trade with China have been rather anxious over a rumor that the Chinese boycott against American goods has gone into effect, and that all the big milling and flour companies had received stop orders from their agents in the Orient, and that existing contracts had been cancelled.

CARDINAL GIBBONS SAYS THAT PUBLICITY IS CURE FOR GRAFT

Corruption Has Always Existed and Always Will Until Fear of Loss of Good Name Prevents.

New York, July 27.—Cardinal James Gibbons, who is spending the summer at Southampton, Long Island, gave an interview yesterday on the subject of corruption in business and public life, which he declares must be cured by publicity through the press. "Corruption is a fixed evil that we must reckon with just as long as the present condition of society exists in this country," said the cardinal. "Whenever there is an amalgamation of great capital or a large collection of men interested in one money-making concern, there is sure to be corruption. It is not a new story. It is a story as old as the world's history. The only reason it comes so much to the fore at present is that the methods of its detection are daily growing stronger. Corruption has always existed and I am much afraid will exist as long as human nature yields to the attributes that lead to temptation.

"The bright spot is the fact that the degradation is made known. Corruption cannot exist nowadays without being discovered after a while. The greater the evil the greater the possibility of remedy. And that possibility of remedy has now become such an assured fact that it counterbalances, almost, the evil which the present condition of society creates.

"The fear, the dread of exposure is the counterbalancing element, and that fear, that dread, that horror of having one's name connected with a scandal is due to the efforts of the metropolitan press.

"It may not be good theology, it may not be good common sense, and it is certainly a very good moral element that fear, the dread of exposure in the public press keeps many a man sticking close to the path of rectitude who otherwise would stray off into the byways of personal graft. There is nothing the cardinal contended which a man prizes more than his reputation, and the only way to

MINNEAPOLIS YOUNG WOMAN GIVES LIFE TO SAVE CHILD

Minneapolis, July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—By an act of heroic self-sacrifice, Ella Brown, 18 years old, gave up her life to save a small child from drowning, late Wednesday, in Rice creek, which runs through Fridley park.

The young woman was sitting on the bank of the creek watching several small children wading. Suddenly one of the children, a little girl, stepped into a deep hole and disappeared from view. The child's screams attracted Miss Brown, who jumped into the water after her. In reaching for the child, the rescuer also stepped into deep water. As she grasped the child, the little one clasped her arms about her neck. The two went down together, but they came to the surface Miss Brown succeeded in disentangling the child's arms, and by one supreme effort pushed her towards the shore.

The child landed in shallow water, near the shore, where her companions pulled her out. Miss Brown sank and her body did not again come to the surface. All attempts to recover it by dragging the creek failed last night, but the search was again taken up today.

Ella Brown was the only daughter of Laura M. Brown, a widow, living at 1424 Park street. She was a senior in the North side high school, and was to graduate next year. During the summer she worked for Dr. D. A. Locke. She was a member of the First Heights Methodist church choir. The only other member of the family is a brother.

EQUITABLE DIRECTORS WILL DISCONTINUE MANY PENSIONS

New York, July 27.—The directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society held two meetings today covering a period of three hours. The first was an adjourned session from yesterday and the business transacted included the election of George F. Victor of this city and Ernest B. Kruttschnitt of New Orleans to the board. The directors listened to the reading of the minutes of the meetings of the society for some six months back so as to familiarize themselves with recent conditions. The office of chairman was abolished as previously announced. The committee on pensions reported, and in almost every instance its recommendations were adopted. A number of pensions will be discontinued entirely and others reduced to 50 per cent of salaries received by officials or employees at the time of the severance of their connections. It developed today that in addition to the pension of $25,000 a year to the widow of Henry R. Hyde, there was voted at the same time a pension of $15,000 to Mrs. James W. Alexander, the wife of the former president, to take effect on the death of Mr. Alexander. These two items have been regarded as legal liabilities or annuities in lieu of certain contracts waived by the founder of the society and by Mr. Alexander. The matter will be submitted to the Equitable special counsel, Austin G. Fox and Wallace S. MacFarland.

James H. Hyde was not present at the meeting.

SIX CHINKS WILL HAVE TO GO HOME.

Cleveland, July 27.—Judge Taylor of the United States court today sustained the ruling of United States commissioners ordering the deportation of six Chinamen. One other was released. Judge Taylor says:

"The sovereign may, through legislation, nullify a treaty. Its manifest purpose (the act of April 27, 1904) was to continue the law in force after the expiration of the treaty."

SIX MEN KILLED BY TRAIN.

Amsterdam, N. Y., July 27.—Six men, all Italian laborers, were killed and three others probably fatally injured by being struck by an accommodation train on the New York railroad at Tribes Hill, six miles west of this city, today. The men were working on the track when the train hit them.

JAPANESE CAPTURE THE LEADING CITY ON SAKHALIN ISLAND

Land Some Distance Above and Take Town Without Trouble. Japs Said to Be Attacking Russians on the Tumen River.

Tokio, July 27.—It is announced that army headquarters that the Japanese army on Sakhalin island, on the morning of July 24, after meeting heavy resistance from the Russians, commenced landing in the neighborhood of Alkova, eight miles north of Alexandrovsk, and that Alexandrovsk was captured Tuesday.

Rear Admiral Kataoka, in reporting the successful landing of the Japanese forces in the vicinity of Alexandrovsk, on Sakhalin island, says that the piers at Alexandrovsk, Nyomi and Mukake were found undestroyed, but the enemy had set fire to Munka, and Alkova was still burning. The town of Alexandrovsk was not burned.

The admiral's report, which was received at 7.30 p. m. on July 24, says that the Japanese flag was hoisted over the government buildings at Alexandrovsk without any loss on the part of the Japanese force.

Local military critics, in discussing the situation in North Korea, predict that the Russians will be scattered and Kyong-Chung, to the south of the Tumen river. This town is regarded as most important from a strategic standpoint, as it controls Posel bay. Kyong-Chung is also regarded as the outline of defenses of Vladivostok.

St. Petersburg, July 27.—Dispatches from Manchuria report the landing of a Japanese battalion, and the seizure of a lighthouse on the Siberian coast, near Dekastries, a post formerly called Alexandrovsk, 700 miles north of Vladivostok, after a preliminary shelling by torpedo boat destroyers.

Military officials here attach importance to the episode only in connection with the Sakhalin campaign, and say the landing was effected at a place where the straits of Startary, between Sakhalin and the main land, are narrowest, it apparently is part of the strategy of the Japanese to prevent the escape of the Russian garrison in Sakhalin across the straits. They add that the landing is too far north to have any bearing on the main campaign.

CONSIDERING LOAN. Financiers of World Must Meet Russia's Needs.

Berlin, July 27.—In view of the probability of an early peace between Russia and Japan, the terms of which will involve the payment of a heavy indemnity by Russia, the financiers of Europe have been holding conferences to the end that the peace indemnity may be paid without seriously disturbing the finances of the world. The Mendelschins, the Berlin bankers, who have been for many years the representatives of the continent of the Russian government and who have negotiated many of the Russian loans, have formed an alliance with the Rothschilds regarding the matter and have held communications with all the leading financial institutions both on the continent and in England. They are about to send their representatives to New York with a view of enlisting the cooperation of the larger financiers of the United States. It is likely that a Russian loan for the purpose of paying the indemnity will be secured and that a considerable portion of it will be taken in the United States. J. Pierpont Morgan, after having conferred with a number of financiers of England, is sailing today for New York.

NEUTRALIZATION OF VLADIVOSTOK May Be Demanded By Japs Who Are Willing to Make Concessions.

Washington, July 27.—As a clearer idea is gained of Japan's peace terms, the skepticism with which Washington received the European reports that Japan would demand the neutralization of Vladivostok is lessened. In fact it is learned that not only is this likely to constitute one of Japan's demands, but it will be accompanied by a startling counter proposal. In effect, according to a seemingly well informed source, Japan will propose, in return for the neutralization of this last Russian port on the Pacific, not to fortify Port Arthur. Should this information prove correct, it will entirely change the view which has prevailed in official circles that the question of Vladivostok's neutralization could not reasonably be made a part of Japan's peace price. It is pointed out that while the war has demonstrated that Port Arthur was a military blunder, nevertheless, this great fortification constitutes a tremendous political influence in the Far Eastern question, and its abandonment as such magnitude that it is not felt Russia can refuse to meet it.

On the other hand, Japan's sacrifice would not be as great as seems at first glance because her fortification of

The Straits of Korea would offset the loss of Port Arthur as a strategic point. It is believed here that the question of Vladivostok will prove to be one of the most difficult which the conference will face as Russia has not concealed her disinclination to permit it to enter into the negotiations. In this connection an interesting story is current in diplomatic circles regarding the selection of Baron Komura as Japan's chief plenipotentiary. According to this story Japan had hardly less trouble than did Russia in finding an official willing to undertake the delicate mission. Baron Komura was finally induced to accept it with the stipulation that before the conference assembled the following things should be done:

First—The flotation of a new loan in order that Japan should be prepared to continue the war in the event the effort for peace failed.

Second—The occupation of the island of Sakhalin.

Third—An advance against Vladivostok and, last, that Oyama should strike a decisive blow at the Russian army in Manchuria.

The fact that the first three stipulations have been fulfilled while advances from the front presage the imminence of a general engagement indicate that the story is well founded.

JAP ENVOYS PRESIDENT'S GUESTS

Oyster Bay, July 27.—Baron Komura, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, and the Japanese emperor's principal envoy to the Washington peace conference, and Minister Takahira, the second Japanese plenipotentiary, were the guests of President Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill today.

Their visit was made by special engagement with the president, the arrangements for which were concluded yesterday by Minister Takahira when he called on the president.

Baron Komura and M. Takahira arrived in Oyster Bay on a Long Island train due here at 12.20 p. m. They were driven directly to Sagamore Hill. Baron Komura made no statement concerning his visit. Minister Takahira said that they would probably remain at Sagamore Hill until late this afternoon.

VIOLENCE GROWS OUT OF TEAMSTERS STRIKE.

Chicago, July 27.—Violence growing out of the teamsters' strike broke out afresh last night. A mob of near a thousand persons assaulted a caravan of wagons belonging to a wholesale grocery company while they were returning to the barns of the company. After beating one of the drivers into insensibility the wagon was driven away by the rioters and the horses turned loose. Two sets of new harnesses were stolen.

ROADS ARE CHEAP

Good Highways Are Constructed at Greatly Decreased Cost.

St. Louis County Entitled to More of State Road Appropriation.

A recent demonstration by the Good Roads association at Spokane, Wash., showed that good roads in that part of the country can be built for from $1,000 to $1,200 a mile, and the assertion is made that few communities can afford to do without good roads where they cost so comparatively little.

In St. Louis county good roads can, except in a few localities, be built for very much less, yet there have been protests from some sections that roads cost too much. Members of the county who have had office for some years and who have had a great deal to do with the building of new roads assert that roads are comparatively few instances where the cost of a county road will average as high as $1,000 a mile. There are, however, a few roads in the county that have cost more than $1,000 a mile, but such cases have been rare in this county and they are likely to be even more rare in the future.

Modern methods of building roads with labor-saving and ingenious devices has demonstrated that good roads can now be built at from one-half to one-third the expense of constructing roads a few years ago. This has been found true within the limits of St. Louis county within the past two years.

Where roads have been constructed across swamps it has been necessary to say "Who a great deal of corduroy and cover it with dirt, or gravel, if the latter is available. The building of a road is no small item and where the material has to be hauled from some distance, as has been the case in this county, the cost has been made in the appropriation made for that section of highway.

This county commissioners say that the people who can discover some other method of building roads in a few instances where the cost of a county road will average as high as $1,000 a mile. There are, however, a few roads in the county that have cost more than $1,000 a mile, but such cases have been rare in this county and they are likely to be even more rare in the future.

CHAIR OF FORESTRY Will Soon Be Established at Yale University.

Chicago, July 27.—The first steps toward the raising of $150,000 to be used in the endowment of a chair of applied forestry at Yale University have been taken at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association. The committee has in charge the raising of the necessary funds for the endowment of the chair and the appointment of a special committee of three practical foresters to co-operate with the Yale forest school faculty with a view of directing the course of study along practical lines and also of the work of securing a committee of 100 lumbermen, who will have charge of the work in the various lumbering districts.

The support of the United States government will also be solicited and Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry bureau, will be made an honorary member of the executive committee.

MISSING WAITER IS W. H. BUTCHER

Superior Man Who Disappeared Undoubtedly Detroit Man.

Photograph of Waiter Identified in Duluth as Butcher.

The sudden disappearance of O. Arthur Richards, a waiter in the Gold Dollar restaurant at Superior, and the strange mental awakening of W. H. Butcher of Detroit on a Duluth Superior car Sunday evening are undoubtedly two closely related events. In fact there is little doubt that Richards was Butcher.

Richards has not been seen or heard of at the Gold Dollar restaurant since Sunday night. He stopped at the Superior car that evening and said he was going to his room to read. He borrowed a novel for that purpose and went through the rear of the restaurant to his room at the Golden avenue. He was seen to go into a newstand and buy a paper, which he carried to his room. Later he was seen leaving the room, but the last which he was seen was found in his room. Nothing has been heard of him since that time. His umbrella, suit case and all of his personal belongings were found in the room, and he has a week's pay due him at the restaurant, which he has never claimed.

Richards had been employed at the restaurant about two months, coming to Superior from Michigan. All of the description of the missing waiter started the restaurant, and a Herald man searched Richards' room last evening. The missing waiter was identified by a man who was identified with W. H. Butcher. No letters of description were found in the room, but a copy of a letter from Detroit papers of recent date were found strewn about the apartment. A card evidently purchased within the last few months, bearing the trade mark of the J. M. McFarlane Co. of St. Paul, was found among the papers. The card, which was a small piece of paper, was identified with W. H. Butcher. No letters of description were found in the room, but a copy of a letter from Detroit papers of recent date were found strewn about the apartment. A card evidently purchased within the last few months, bearing the trade mark of the J. M. McFarlane Co. of St. Paul, was found among the papers.

RUST STORIES ARE BASELESS

Say Grain Men Who Have Toured Red River Valley.

Crookston, Minn., July 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crookston grain men, who have toured the Red River valley during the past two weeks inspecting crops, state emphatically that the rust stories which have been sent into the Minneapolis and St. Paul papers are without foundation. W. L. Beal, superintendent of the Duluth Elevator company, who has just returned from an extensive tour of the grain-growing belt, stated that he had not seen a trace of rust during all of his 300-mile journey. "The little bit of rust which I have found," he said, "is only to be found on extremely low pieces of ground and affects only the top of the growing grain. So far as I can see there is no rust in the valley, and it is expected from the red rust. The grain is being matured at a rapid rate and is now in flower over a great portion of the Red River valley area. The stalks are healthy, average about 30 to 40 to a kernel of seed, as a result of the ideal stalling weather which was experienced by the valley, and from the manner in which the heads are filling and size of them, the yield should be phenomenal.

Nels Muns, the Nollville merchant who arrived home from an extended tour of Norway and Sweden, says Norway is prepared for war with Sweden upon a moment's notice. That, of course, is a matter of course, and other passages leading into Norway's domain from King Oscar's boundaries are carefully prepared for an emergency. The army is well equipped with rifles and is also equipped with a body of soldiers immediately be placed on guard. "Farmers in Norway at the present time are bound by sacred oaths to provide upon a moment's notice horses, provisions and men for conflict, should an arise, because of the indisposition of the nobility of Sweden to settle the present controversy. No standing army is maintained, but conditions in Norway are such that far more effective force could be done by the volunteer forces from the farms than by regulars."

ABDUCTION CHARGED. A Missouri Couple Arrested in Montana.

TWENTY-FIVE SMITHS Registered at One Hotel in Chicago.

while the other bore the number 10433. The check was issued by Harris Notation Co., No. 2, Accident check. Phone Main 2700 at 104.

Nearly all of Richard's effects were of recent purchase judging from the apparent signs of use. The most noticeable, seemingly of previous purchases, was found that forms a link in the chain of circumstantial evidence connecting the two mysterious cases. The article in question is a small portion of the border where the laundry mark had evidently been heated out away. Further, the water had destroyed top delicate evidence of his identity. The laundry mark was a laundry mark which had evidently been placed there since his sojourn in Superior as it corresponded with the marks on his other laundered goods and the laundry bill which was found in his dressing case.

Proprietor Wardman states that Richard was a man of very temperate habits and a capable employee. He was known to have received letters from his wife in Detroit signed "Jesse." It is said that he sent her money with which to join him in Superior. The fact that he had returned the money refusing to accept it is a point in his favor. On the other hand it is claimed to have communicated with woman in the same city addressing her as "Jesse."

The parties in this city who conversed with the supposed Butcher in this city were a man and a woman. The man, who was a waiter, furnished by Mr. Wardman, stated that it was the same man who had been seen in the restaurant. The woman, who was a waitress, stated that it was the same man who had been seen in the restaurant. The woman, who was a waitress, stated that it was the same man who had been seen in the restaurant.

The following clipping from a Detroit paper, dated July 26, is a copy of a letter from William H. Butcher, the Michigan restaurant proprietor, who disappeared from his home at 104 N. T. Tuesday. He came from Chicago, arriving at the hotel at 104 N. T. Tuesday. "Butcher's mind was a blank as far as his movements since leaving Detroit were concerned. He expects that as his mind becomes settled again he will be able to give a full account of his movements. He has been in Chicago, arriving at the hotel at 104 N. T. Tuesday. "I came to myself in Duluth and did not know where I was at," said Butcher. "I had to ask a man what city I was in."

There was a most affectionate meeting between Butcher and his wife, who had been separated for some time. Butcher, who was a waiter, furnished by Mr. Wardman, stated that it was the same man who had been seen in the restaurant. The woman, who was a waitress, stated that it was the same man who had been seen in the restaurant. CHINA NOW SATISFIED Japan Assures Her Russians Must Quit Manchuria Forever.

Washington, July 27.—Japan has given formal assurance that the Chinese government in the impending peace conference with Russia her plenipotentiaries will demand the evacuation of Manchuria by Russian troops. Negotiations then will be instituted directly with China for the restoration of the province to its rightful sovereign. As a result of these assurances China will not seek to induce the Japanese to permit her participation in the peace negotiations.

BAR TO CITY OWNERSHIP Are Political and Labor Dictators, Says Scottish Expert.

Chicago, July 27.—"There can be no great reform in the affairs of American municipalities until the political boss and the labor boss come to the front. They are the greatest curse the United States has to contend with."

This is the keynote of James Dalrymple, famous lecturer in which he reported to Mayor Dunne his suggestions on the question of municipalization of Chicago's street railways. The much-discussed episode of the Scotch traction expert's visit to Chicago has never been made public. Nevertheless, it has brought criticism upon the Glasgow man because of the impression that he had backed down on his stand for municipal ownership.

No such reform as the proposed municipal traction system can be successfully brought about where American labor union principles find support, he declares, adding that the same is true of American political bosses. The Scotch expert's advice is the elimination of the two great political parties in so far as they are concerned with the public utility. He believes that the party boss is a necessary evil, and that the party boss is a necessary evil, and that the party boss is a necessary evil.

Referring to organized labor, he asserts he believes in such organization, although he does not believe in the union principle. He expresses the view that arbitration is the only remedy for the disputes between employer and employee, and suggests a system of compulsory arbitration as the solution of the problem. He is a proponent of the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, and he is a proponent of the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes.

The manager of an extensive creamery in Wisconsin states that while a regular coffee drinker he found it injurious to his health and a hindrance to the performance of his business duties.

"I cannot say," he continues, "that I ever used coffee to excess, but I know that it did me harm, especially during the past few years."

"It impaired my digestion, gave me a distressing sense of fullness in the region of the stomach, causing a most painful and disgusting palpitation of the heart, and what is worse, it muddled my mental faculties so as to seriously injure my business efficiency."

"I conclude, about 8 months ago, that something would have to be done. I quit the use of the old kind of coffee, short off, and began to drink Postum Food Coffee. The cook didn't make it right at first—she didn't boil it long enough, and I did not find it palatable and quit using it and went back to the old kind of coffee and to the stomach trouble again. Then my wife took the matter in hand, and by following the directions on the box, faithfully she had me drinking Postum for several days before I knew it. When I happened to remark that I was feeling much better than I had for a long time, she told me that I had been drinking Postum, and that accounted for it. Now we have no other kind of coffee on our table."

MENTAL ACCURACY Greatly Improved By Leaving Off Coffee.

"My digestion has been perfectly restored, and with this improvement has come relief from the oppressive sense of fullness and palpitation of the heart, to which I am used to, and I note such a gain in mental strength and acuteness that I can attend to my office work with ease and pleasure, and without making the mistakes that were so annoying to me while I was using the old kind of coffee."

"Postum Food Coffee is the greatest, table drink of the times, in my humble estimation. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

There's a reason.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

Favorable News Concerning Iron Market From All Over Country.

Demand For All Kinds of Finished Material Is Excellent.

Cleveland, July 27.—The Iron Trade Review this week says: Following the heavy sales of pig iron reported last week, favorable news comes from all parts of the country this week concerning not only pig iron, but also almost every kind of finished material, with the exception of sheets, which are still weak. In some places improved labor conditions, with freedom from strikes, have added materially to prevailing prosperity. This is especially true in Colorado. Rail orders placed with the mills this year now aggregated 1,700,000 tons, and inquiries for more than 500,000 tons are pending. Among recent orders for rails this week are the following: United States Steel, 100,000 tons; Missouri Pacific, 22,000 tons; Spokane International, 17,000 tons; miscellaneous, 43,000 tons, making $5,000 tons. The tonnage of finished material of structural material now carried by the American Bridge company is higher than at any time in its history, having passed 500,000. The buying of pig iron, while not as heavy in the past week as in the few days preceding, has been of good size, and especially in the East. The most significant feature of the quarterly report of the Steel corporation is that, after making liberal provision for depreciation, the usual fixed charges, including dividends on the preferred stock, there remained a surplus for the quarter of $10,500,000, which is more than double the surplus for the year 1904, and is only $2,000,000 less than the total surplus for 1903, although in the latter year 2 1/2 per cent was paid in dividends on common stock.

ARGUMENTS ARE LENGTHY In Private Car Line Case In Federal Court.

The argument of the double motion for a directed verdict in the suit of the Knudsen-Peterson Fruit company against the Michigan Central railway is still on, and so far as Judge Powell's argument is concerned, bids fair to last the rest of the day so far as one judge from the bench during the break. The judge is arguing his case well, and both attorneys seem absolutely confident that they will win.

One strong argument which Mr. Severance, for the defense, put up is the necessity of refrigerating cars, and the impossibility of having them if the roads should be obliged to furnish them if they were to be used only on the road. One of the officials of the company, who was on the goods during the taking of testimony asserted that the reason the refrigerating car contract was let to the Armour people was that the road could not afford to build such cars, while the Armour people could build them at a much lower cost.

PLUNGED INTO NEW COUNTRY

Hospitable Welcome to the Land Special at Greenbush.

Greenbush, Minn., July 27.—Hard on the heels of a day's wandering through the broad basket of the world, Peck, Kittson and Marshall counties, the Minnesota land special plunged into a new and more sparsely settled country yesterday.

Greenbush is the terminal of the new Great Northern extension and here, as all over the valley, the same beautiful hospitality was extended. In this district, the state has many thousands of acres of land, which will soon be put on the market and it is all good.

The Crookston party was joined by Prof. Shaw of the state agricultural college, at St. Paul.

Several hours were spent here yesterday afternoon in viewing the farms and the two rivers and the land. The visitors were met at the station by Dalrymple's brass band. Welcome was given by the farmers, and the party was taken to the farms. The farms were of various sizes, from 20 to 100 acres, and were all well improved. There is no rust, and indications point to a yield of from 25 to 30 bushels per acre.

On the way from Crookston yesterday, the party was met by a party of farmers, who were taking to the land. The party was taken to the farms, and the party was taken to the farms.

ARE DENIED NEW TRIAL

Verdict Must Stand Against Drs. Wunder and Fowler.

Dr. W. E. Wunder and Dr. James Fowler, the range physicians who were some months ago convicted in district court of having exposed in a public place a person afflicted with an infectious disease, have been denied a motion for a new trial and to have set aside the verdict. The order denying the motion was filed by Judge Engstrom before whom the argument was had some time ago. The motion was based on the claim that the complaining witness was an accomplice, and that under the statutes there can be no conviction on the sole testimony of an accomplice. Gerous, the alleged accomplice, and the state's principal witness, was taken sick with smallpox, near Tower. He claimed that he went to Dr. Fowler, an assistant to Dr. Wunder, who did not pronounce the disease, but which, next day, Dr. Wunder termed as smallpox. Gerous claimed that the physicians made arrangements to get him out of town, on the plea that there was no place to accommodate a smallpox patient. He alleged that they bought him a ticket to Duluth, and saw that he got on the train and was started toward this city. After reaching Duluth in a weakened stage of smallpox, Gerous was picked up by the police while wandering about the street looking for the health officer, and was taken out to the isolation hospital. There he was confined for five weeks, nearly dying from the disease. Under the law it is a misdemeanor for a physician to expose in a public place a person known to have an infectious disease, and the facts investigated by the grand jury resulted in the indictment and the conviction by a jury of Drs. Wunder and Fowler. They in turn claimed that Gerous was an accomplice, in that he agreed to accept the order and come to Duluth, and on this claim they based their motion for a new trial.

NEW WITNESS FOR DR. KOCH

Testimony of Creamery Mau's Wife Favorable For Defendant.

Mankato, July 27.—(Special to the Herald).—J. R. Read, an insurance man; Fred Englebert, a saloonkeeper, and Henry Goede, a photographer of New Ulm, testified today regarding details in connection with the murder of Dr. Gerhard for which Dr. C. R. Koch is being tried a third time. Mrs. John Moks, whose husband runs a creamery near the Koch home, was a new witness. They testified in the creamery on Nov. 1, 1904. It was a three-story building. "We lived up stairs," said the witness. "I was home at that night and did not go to bed until about 11 o'clock, my husband being down town. There were two dogs of any kind, around the creamery that night. About thirty teams drove past the front door and I passed out and out of doors a number of times. The next morning I saw no blood on the doors and there was no evidence of any one washing in the trough in the creamery on the night of Nov. 1. My husband goes to his place every Sunday. Sometimes he places game between the front door and the screen door. "Cross examined: 'I know the Koch family very well. There was a fire in the hallway in the basement. Hot and cold water could be gotten easily. The defendant knew our dogs, which are hunting dogs. "The marks I saw on the door were brown, as though made by the fingers of a hand when closed. I noticed this on the Saturday after the murder on the front door. The marks were about two and one half feet from the latch in the middle of the door. The door opened hard. The screen had a small knob. I also saw a brown stain on the screen. I said at the Remington's inquiry that my boy often killed rabbits and thought the stains might have been made by him."

MERIT IN THE UNION CAUSE

Dr. Washington Gladden Says That Organization Is Right.

Boston, July 27.—That labor unions are not only an indispensable right of the workingman, but the only means by which that class can escape being enslaved and degraded, that such organizations protect the interests of their members, secure fair hours of labor and proper remuneration, and fix their social status in accordance with the best ideals and habits of the age, is the burden of an article by Dr. Washington Gladden to be published in the current number of the Congressionalist, under the title "My Neighbor, the Trade Unionist." "Perhaps," writes Dr. Gladden, "you will say that we should regard capitalists and times believe like criminals and endanger the peace and welfare of society. That is true. If we should regard capitalists as the gospel of capitalists, of members of great corporations. But that is no reason why we should regard capitalists as members of great corporations, as a class, as public enemies. "There is a great deal of this sweeping judgment on both sides of the labor controversy, and it is wholly wrong and mischievous. "Sometimes you say that you do not object to trades unions if they keep within their legitimate province, if they do not meddle with what is none of their business. What you mean is that you do not object to the beneficial and social features of unions, and would be glad to encourage them, but you do not approve of their attempts to regulate wages or the conditions of labor. The question, you think, should be determined by the employer. "Your neighbor, the unionist, as such, is doing what he has a perfect right to do, and is bound to do; what you would do if you were in his place. "Taking up some of the questions that now disturb the industrial world, among them the 'closed shop.' Dr. Gladden writes: "There are plausible reasons for this on the part of the unionist, but on the whole I am not satisfied of their justice. I think that if I were an employer I should encourage all my employees to join the union. I would try to show them that it was for their interest to do so, but I don't think I would refuse to employ men who were not union men. It seems to me that that is an interference with personal liberty which ought not to be tolerated. "I confess that as things now are the attitude of the non-union man in any trade union is contemptuous. I would like to see a man who is a union man, and I feel very sure that if I were a working man I should join the union. I should feel that I was my duty to operate with my fellow-workmen in securing protection against the inevitable injuries to which unorganized labor must be exposed. "In suggesting a remedy for industrial unrest Dr. Gladden writes: "Misuse of the power of the unions must be resisted, but, on the other hand, it is the duty of the employer to keep himself in sympathetic relations with his workers, the unionist, so that he may be able to aid him in using this power wisely. I believe it can be done by men of good sense and good will. It is done all over the country."

CONFERENCE OF PRESIDENTS. Pittsburgh, July 27.—President William E. Corey of the United States Steel corporation, will meet the presidents of the subsidiary companies of the corporation in this city tomorrow. It is the first conference since last April and it is said will be of special significance.

PRODIGAL WRITES

After Being Missing Two Years and Seeks Assistance.

His Parents Spent Their Fortune In Fruitless Search.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—A wandering son, missing two years, during which time his father became bankrupt in searching for him, has been found, the prodigal writing home to his parents. "Thirteen-year-old Max Bienenstock, son of Max Bienenstock, dealer in dress suit cases at 306 Ridge avenue, who disappeared in March, 1903, has written home from Kansas City, after his father had spent more than $4,000 in advertising and traveling around the country to find the runaway boy. The boy writes: "Dear Father and Mother: I write tonight to let you know whether I am living or dead. I have been through the roughest hands there are. I am on a farm and work seven days a week. I am homesick and have run away from a place. I stayed so long that when I left home I got to New York, and the society got me and sent me out West to cruel hands. I went to school and they made me work with holes in them. They kept me till spring, when all the plowing was done. I never worked so hard in my life. I walked as high as thirty miles a day and did not get a cent for it. I got a whipping every time I got into the house. I worked till I was pretty near a skeleton. When they were done plowing they sent me home. I went to a man by the name of Scott. I irrigated for him. I rode when I irrigated. I got him a horse and a dinner with them. They told me if I would stay they would help me look for work. "They tried and could not help me get work and I could not get any more. Then I had to do something to pay them back. At last they did not want anything, but I could not treat them like that. When I left Scott I left some clothes there, but I thought I could not risk going there. To let you know what kind of people I am with, I send you reference cards of A. Goff-Cowley Co., bankers. "If you will send me a ticket for home I will pay it back in a hundred times over when I get home. I know I was foolish to go away. I was taught a lesson—a lesson which I will remember all the rest of my days. Please send me a ticket for home. I will stay here until I hear from you. I have been going under the name of W. Snyder. "I would like to be home again. I am sick and broken down. If you send a ticket I will pay it back in a little while. I can do a lot of work. I will do it. I will do the best I can. I came to this place last Sunday without a cent. I am penniless. I can get no more food and nobody else. Hoping that you will get this safely, I close. Your son, "MAX."

Although his expenses since Max left have run into thousands, his father, Max, broken his health, he has sent the ticket. When the son returns he will be forgiven. There are five other children in the family between the ages of 1 and 10 years, but Max was his father's favorite. "I do not care if it kills me, I will have him back," said Bienenstock, who told how, when money was gone in the search for his boy, he borrowed money. Then he had to sell out his store. His wife, Mary, sold her jewelry. Still the boy could not be found. Bienenstock's friends stood by him. He sent Max's picture to every newspaper, dyspepsia, the disease, every state in the Union himself. All this took much money. When it was all gone he gave up his business and found employment.

Three Days to Europe.

One of the largest vessels ever built in England was recently launched, and an experiment is to be equipped with turbine engines. When a new concave propeller blade is combined with these engines a speed of forty miles an hour is expected. Will the first quarter of the century bring the three-day ship, is the question being asked by the marine world. The question of greatest importance to the seaman or woman is, how to regain health quickly. Thousands of persons have succeeded successfully by taking Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine has done more to make people strong and healthy than any other, and for fifty years has never failed to cure indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulency, cramps, diarrhoea, insomnia and female ills. Don't fail to give it a trial.

PANIC IN STORE

Caused By a Bargain in Overalls.

Pittsburg, July 27.—"Bargains. Men's Overalls, 10 cents. Men's Shirts, 10 cents." The above sign in the window of a store on Fifth avenue at noon Tuesday caused a disastrous stampede of bargain hunters. Eight women were seriously hurt in a rush to secure overalls or shirts for their better halves, and the reserve force of police had to be called out in the downtown district. Ambulance and patrol wagons backed up to the doors of the store, and for a time it looked as though there would be a great loss of life. As a result of the trouble and the danger incurred it is likely there will be a rule issued by the police against bargain day sales in Pittsburg. Mrs. Mary Hoover of Pride street was the worst hurt of the women who got caught in the crush. She fainted at the head of a stairway and would have fallen to the lower floor had the crowd not been too dense to allow her to fall. She was held up by the crush, apparently dead, and 3,000 women in the place became panicking. The crowd tried to reach the street by the shortest way. More than a dozen women fell in faints and the police had to use their clubs to break up the crowd. The injured women were revived and sent to their homes. The condition of Mrs. Hoover is considered serious.

MRS. E. D. RAND DIES. Was Connected With the Professor Herron Case.

Burlington, Iowa, July 27.—A cablegram announces the death of Mrs. E. D. Rand in Italy. Mrs. Rand was a member of one of the most prominent families in Burlington. Her husband, who died many years ago, was an early resident of Burlington. Mrs. Rand followed her husband in connection with the case of Prof. George D. Herron. Dr. Herron for several years was pastor of the First Congregational church, which Mrs. Rand and her daughter, Miss Carrie Rand attended. Later he went to Iowa college at Grinnell to occupy a chair founded by Mrs. Rand. Later he divorced his wife to marry Miss Rand.

CORTELYOU Has Made Record as Extremist of Swindlers.

Washington, July 27.—Postmaster General Cortelyou has made a record for himself as an exterminator of fraudulent concerns unequalled by any predecessor in his office. During the four months he has been in office he has issued more than 100 orders in any two years in the corresponding months of April, May, June and July. During this period, Cortelyou has issued orders of this sort, or about the number put into effect the first six years of the fraud order campaign. Postmaster General Payne issued seventy-one fraud orders, and the year preceding but forty. The increase is due, in the main, it is said to the new system of the present postmaster general adopted for the use of inspectors for revealing fraudulent concerns throughout the country and for bringing them to justice. Recently orders have been issued against concerns that were permitted to become flourishing while the department was disgraced as a result of the exposure of graft in the department. Up to the present time there have been 2,282 fraud orders issued, a large proportion of which are still unexecuted.

LONG-LOST CHILD Found Within a Few Miles of Home.

Tellico, Ohio, July 27.—After searching for almost sixteen years, William Potes found his long-lost daughter at the Wood county infirmary yesterday. The young woman and her parents have lived in the same county for three years without knowing of each other's existence. In 1880, Mr. and Mrs. Potes lived at Weston, Ohio. In that year Mr. Potes was arrested and sent to jail, where he remained a long time awaiting trial. During this time, Lulu, the eldest girl, was placed in the Cleveland orphan's home. She grew up in the institution and then went to Pennsylvania, where she was married. Love came into her life, but on the night of her wedding her husband was killed in a railroad wreck. Her health failing, she

SHE KIDNAPED HER LOVER

Young Woman Steals Youth and Appropriates a Horse.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 27.—Because she had a stolen horse, abducted her lover, a boy of 15, and together with him, rode bareback more than 100 miles to an obscure locality, where they lived as man and wife, Miss Mary Eiernann, a beautiful girl of 19, daughter of wealthy parents of Bon Homme county, South Dakota, has been placed under arrest on the charge of horse theft, and the parents of her youthful lover are threatening more serious prosecution. The youth, Albert Hanig, is greatly angered by the course of Miss Eiernann, and it was through his home-sick pleadings for permission to visit his parents that the young woman was persuaded to give up her efforts to make a man of him and voluntarily present herself once more at the home of her parents, where her capture was easily effected.

It is alleged that young Hanig took the horse, but the girl is alleged to have inspired the youthful indiscretion, and, as usual, the woman receives the burden of the blame. She rode sixty miles bareback in one night from her retreat in Charles Mix county to the home of her parents in Bon Homme county. She has been turned over to the authorities of Charles Mix county.

"He claimed he loved me just as much as I did him," said Miss Eiernann in speaking of the incident, "but his love soon grew cold. He was too chicken-hearted to settle down and go to work earning a living like a man, as the head of a family should. I'm glad I got rid of him when I did."

CLOSE FRIENDSHIP Between President Roosevelt and Senator Lodge Ended.

Chicago, July 27.—Walter Wellman, in a Washington special to the Record-Herald, says, in part: Important changes have occurred in the White House circle, and others are imminent. The most surprising of these is the finish of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as a chum and confidential adviser of President Roosevelt. Lodge is down and out, and Secretaries Root and Taft are the big men of the present and future. Secretary Shaw is out of favor, and will soon retire from the cabinet, without any regrets on the part of President Roosevelt, though he will probably follow his usual course and give the retiring secretary of the treasury a handsome farewell.

Senator Lodge's downfall is surprising to the few persons who are aware of it. For many years he has been Theodore Roosevelt's closest friend. The climax came last winter when Mr. Lodge joined with other Republicans in defeating the arbitration treaties. Mr. Roosevelt never forgave him for that.

PLUNGED OVER A CLIFF. Miss Manning's Terrible Fall at Summer Resort.

Independence, Iowa, July 27.—Miss Nevada Manning, aged 16, lies in a critical condition as the result of an accident at the "Devil's Backbone," a pleasure resort 25 miles northeast of the place. While driving upon the top of a cliff her horse plunged over a precipice 100 feet high. Miss Manning received serious injuries, but is still alive.

BOARD OF PARDONS Will Have Chance to Reprive Hoch For Appeal.

Chicago, July 27.—Governor Nordeen said today that he would not interfere with "Bluebeard," Johann Hoch's execution, which is set for tomorrow. It was stated, however, that the governor would present the case to the state board of pardons, the purpose being to let the board pass on the question of a reprieve, giving Hoch an opportunity for an appeal to the Illinois supreme court.

BROKER MUST ANSWER OR BE IMPRISONED.

Washington, July 27.—A New York broker who was before the grand jury investigating the cotton report leakage today refused to answer questions relating to his dealings in agricultural products and was notified by District Attorney Beach that unless he changed his mind by tomorrow at 11 o'clock when the grand jury convened for the day, he will report his recalcitrancy to Judge Wright, who already has given public notice of his intention to punish any witness refusing to reply to questions. The penalty is imprisonment. The name of the witness is withheld.

THE GREATNESS OF DULUTH

As a jobbing center is due to the firms whose announcements appear on this page. The merchant who buys once of Duluth jobbers buys always. The location of Duluth makes it possible to fill quickly any order and ship promptly whether from East, West, North or South.

WEATHER NEEDED

Prof. Bolley Says Rust May Do Very Little Harm.
Weather of Right Sort Would Render It Harmless.

Prof. H. L. Bolley, the botanist of the North Dakota agricultural college, whose opinions as to the black rust plague are received with more weight, perhaps, than those of any other man, says, in a letter given out at Fargo yesterday of the character of that now being found in the Northwest:
"For the period of the past ten days our office has been flooded with packages and samples of wheat, messages and letters of inquiry regarding the rust situation. As long as we were able to answer these letters as rapidly as they should be answered, I have tried to give an accurate statement of the condition as shown by each sample. Usually these inquiries and samples are by farmers who are vitally interested in the condition of their crop, and therefore, I am again writing this statement concerning the rust condition, which I hope may be a reliable one as matters now stand.
"Aside from the numerous samples which have been examined from many portions of the state and Canada, I have remained quite constantly in the field, day by day, about Fargo. Yesterday I spent the entire day in the wheat, riding through the fields in an extended circle about Center, Grand and westward and slightly northward of Hunter. I wish to say that any statements which claim that there is an abundance of the eastern rust on the heads and necks of the grain are at present unreliable. I found the wheat there as elsewhere showing a very heavy stand of straw and that the working power of the leaves had quite generally been almost destroyed by the leaf rust (Puccinia rubigo-vera). The outbreak of Puccinia graminis (stem rust) is scattered and evenly distributed. I was able to find a few spikes of that rust on a few straw in almost every rod square of wheat that I have been in the fields of the state. This is the strongest statement that can be made with regard to that rust for this region of the valley and northward. The outbreak of this rust is not such at present, as to enable the ordinary citizen to rust in amounts such as some interested parties are continually reporting. Indeed, if 30 more stem rust should break out on the wheat that is now apparent, the general wheat crop could be quite enormous in this state. However, the fact that there is a rather even sprinkling of this rust in the fields of the state from the South Dakota line to the Canadian boundary and westward to the Jim River region makes it possible that, unless splendid wheat weather yet prevails, this rust may do general harm.

"Weather I mean cool, clear, windy weather with the winds in the west and northwest blowing in the south and east; for it is the south and east which furnishes the great bulk of rust spores.
"The orange leaf rust (Puccinia rubigo-vera) has now reached the black stage almost everywhere, and is passing away, having done about as much harm as it can do. The stem of the wheat yet remains strong. As it has lost most of its leaves, it will not mature the grain as fast as it should, but if a large outbreak of Puccinia graminis does not occur the strength of stem is such that good wheat which is so badly hurt by leaf rust as to prevent a fair crop is found on the rich overwatered summer fallows.
"The stem rust (Puccinia graminis) is now making its first showing of actual pustules or spots, usually in scattering red lines. Now and then, there is a spot or two low down on the wheat or barley plants which may be seen to be turning black, that is, the black spores are beginning to form. It is from these first old spots of stem rust that the general increase of rust may be expected to occur. The summer spores or red spores having already been scattered, and the black spores which the summer will not germinate any more this season; that is to say, black spores do not distribute the rust in plant to plant.
"The wheat is generally not quite in the milk stage. As yet, I have been unable to detect any spots of this stem rust on the heads or necks of the straw of the grain from any point farther north than the line running through Fargo, and such as I have really found are labor heads grown here on the experimental plots of the college farm.

"Weather now means everything to the wheat crop. People ought not to be unduly frightened, but should be conservative. Observe the general development of the wheat on your farm and the character of the weather from day to day; and, as farmers draw your own conclusions as to whether the wheat who are visiting the fields in the interests of commission houses are reporting facts or otherwise."

LABOR DAY PROCLAMATION

Governor Johnson Urges Its Observance By Fitting Ceremonies.

St. Paul, July 27.—Governor Johnson has issued a proclamation designating Monday, Sept. 4, as Labor day, and urging its observance by appropriate ceremonies. "Labor is the basis of all wealth and prosperity," says the governor. "In the community of interests, so essential to the well being and our progress, the relation of the employer and employee should not be strained. Between capital and labor there should be no difference. Labor, seldom asking more, should always be given a fair chance. In all problems involving any difference between capital and labor there should not only be a just solution, but wise and patriotic consideration.
"In this day let there not only be the healthful recreation of the holiday, but a discussion of problems looking toward a settlement of differences, the realization of the true dignity of labor and the establishment of all industry on the basis of equal rights to every citizen. Let full co-operation follow, and in the enjoyment of this day let the central thought be the upbuilding of the state and the nation and the elevation of the citizen to the highest possible standard."

TIMBER TRESPASSERS Are to Be Sued For $38,000 Damages.

St. Paul, July 27.—Attorney General E. T. Young has announced that he will bring suits against alleged timber trespassers for approximately $38,000 damages, unless they pay the amounts within the next few weeks. This announcement was made as a result of a special investigation by C. S. Jolley, special counsel of the department, who has been going over the timber trespass records for the last ten years, and the reports of former Public Examiner Johnson to Governor Van Sant.
Most of the trespassers are charged with making contracts to cut green timber on certain tracts of land at $8 per thousand, and after the timber was cut, with representing to the state auditor that much of the timber was dead. It is charged that in this way the trespassers secured settlements considerably below the market value of the timber.

It is stated that these contracts did not cover dead timber, and that the contract holders were therefore trespassers to this extent. The names of the offenders are withheld by the attorney general, pending further investigation.

MINER KILLED

By Falling Rock at the Soudan Mine.
Tower, Minn., July 27.—While tramping in the Soudan mine an iron rock last night, Joseph Seening, 40 years of age, was instantly killed by a blow on the head from a falling rock. He has no relatives in this country, but is survived by his wife and two children in Austria. He will be buried here.

INDIANS INCREASE.

Population Is 50 Per Cent Larger Than 1900.
St. Paul, July 27.—Final figures on the Indian population of the state were announced yesterday by the state census bureau. The figures show that the red men have increased nearly 50 per cent in Minnesota during the last five years. The total Indian population in 1900 was 6,492, as against 10,226 in 1905.
A controversy has arisen in Norman county which will tend to the partial rescinding of the White Earth reservation Indians who hold allotments in that county. The citizens of Norman county declare that the Indians should be regarded as citizens, as they hold allotments, and their numbers should be credited to Norman county.
In order to settle the dispute, D. C. Light, being formerly assistant insurance commissioner, has been selected to make the recount.

NEW CHIEF STARTLES CHICAGO GAMBLERS.

Chicago, July 27.—John Collins, the newly installed chief of police of this city, started the gambling fraternity last night by leading a comprehensive raid against the largest poker rooms to be found in the downtown section of the city.
Headed by Chief Collins in person, the police descended upon four prominent gambling clubs, arrested about 300 men, and confiscated large quantities of gambling paraphernalia, and destroyed all of the furniture to be found in the places. Chief Collins announced early in the day that he proposed to suppress all gambling in the city, and the raid was the first step taken in that direction.

ROMAN CATHOLIC PRIEST JOINS EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., July 27.—Father Hennis, formerly a Roman Catholic priest, has become a member of the Episcopal church, and will soon be a licensed clergyman in the Fond Du Lac diocese. It is not necessary for Father Hennis to pass through a second ordination. He is now serving a six months term on probation in Father A. Parker Curtis' parish at Ripon, and when this is completed he will receive his license from Bishop Grafton. Father Hennis is a graduate of a Roman Catholic seminary in Texas and was located at Boise, Idaho, before coming to Fond Du Lac. He is a comparatively young man of extensive learning and says he became an Episcopalian on purely conscientious grounds.

PENINSULA GETS A SHOCK

Marquette, Calumet and Other Points Feel the Earthquake.
Marquette, Mich., July 27.—Marquette and other points on the iron range last evening experienced a distinct shock of earthquake. A dull, rumbling noise accompanied the disturbance. Tall buildings were awayed, dishes rattled and windows shaken, but no damage was reported.

Calumet, Mich., July 27.—Great excitement was caused here shortly after 6 o'clock last evening by a shock resembling an earthquake. Plaster was cracked and fell from walls, dishes were shaken off the shelves and broken and houses rocked. The people rushed from their houses to learn the cause of the disturbance or in fear of further shocks. The disturbance is a mystery. Many think a blast occurred in some of the old or worked out workings of the mines underlying the city. Either that or an explosion at a fuse factory in Keweenaw county is advanced as the cause.

THREE BOYS KILLED.

Chicago, July 27.—Three boys were killed and a number of others were severely injured yesterday afternoon by the collapse of a two-story cottage at Thirty-second and Fox streets. The building was being torn down, and the boys were gathering wood for use at their homes when the crash came. James White, a holierman, was badly injured while rescuing boys plucked under the debris.

GRAIN BOARD OF APPEALS.

Attempt to Secure Uniformity in Decisions.
St. Paul, July 27.—The new grain board of appeals, which organized in the office of Governor Johnson yesterday will make alternate weekly shifts between Minneapolis and Duluth in an attempt to secure uniformity in the decisions of the two sections of the board. This was decided on today at a conference between the new board and Governor Johnson. It is understood that the Minneapolis section will sit in Duluth one week and the Duluth section in Minneapolis the following week. Governor Johnson has assigned the members as follows: Minneapolis section—Arthur Benson, St. Peter, W. F. Kelso, Hallock, S. F. Thompson, Winthrop. Duluth section—Philander McGorger, Fergus Falls; T. B. McManis, Crookston; Theodore Pearson, Glenwood.
Mr. Benson, who has been a member of the board for six months, was chosen chairman, and both sections will meet at Minneapolis Aug. 1 to elect officers. "We do not plan to make radical changes in grading grain," said Mr. Benson. "The law provides that changes in standards must be made in September. The law is going to try to make good, although we don't expect to please everybody."

PIPESTONE, MINN., MAN FOUND BADLY STABBED.

Pipestone, Minn., July 27.—Nels P. Hanson of this city, was found lying in a field about three miles from the city, bleeding to death from an ugly wound in the throat and several gashes about the heart, made by an old pocket knife which was found buried several feet from where Hanson lay. The wounded man was brought to the city hospital and is in a critical condition. He is a laborer.

TWO CENTS.

AUTHORITIES THINK THEY HAVE YELLOW FEVER WELL IN HAND

Every New Case Promptly Reported For Scientific Treatment.

There Are Now 206 Cases and Forty-Four Deaths.

Strict Quarantine Causes
of New Orleans.

New Orleans, July 28.—The health authorities who are handling the yellow fever situation here have now so thoroughly perfected their organization that they feel confident every case of fever though not thoroughly developed, will be promptly reported and go on the official records. So thorough has been the inspection of the city that it is believed that every existing case has been routed out and is now included in the 206 cases which have been announced. Many of these are on the road to recovery and it is expected that with the perfect scientific treatment, that has been arranged for, there will be a reduction in the mortality rate, which in the early stages of the disease has been admittedly high.

The most annoying feature of the situation now is the disposition of practically every town in Louisiana, as in the adjoining states, to tighten the quarantine against the city.

The governor said today that he believed there was not the slightest justification for a panicky feeling in the state. He is in perfect touch with the local situation and he thinks that if there is a thorough co-operation of the people with the medical authorities, there is no danger of a serious spread of the fever in Louisiana even if additional isolated cases occur outside of New Orleans on the night of the Italian population.

The reported case at Bowie, on the Southern Pacific in La Fourche parish, has been confirmed. The case was an Italian who fled from New Orleans.

Official detailed reports of twenty-six new cases and two deaths received in the preceding twenty-four hours have been made to the state health board, today, making a total of 206 cases and forty-four deaths to date. Of the twenty-six new cases all except one are Italians. The exception is a negro living in the infested district. None of the new cases is above the age of ten, and all of them with one exception at 422 St. Anne in the rear of the city, are in the area of original infection. The majority of cases reported are from the French market section. The two deaths, Nuncio Brocato and Jose Nallo, occurred in the vicinity of the market.

The Louisiana state board is in session, today. It will quarantine the state against New Orleans with the exception, perhaps, of the provinces of Tennesse, Mississippi and Jefferson, contiguous to the city, some of whose towns desire communication with New Orleans.

The steamer Imperial was compelled to return to her landing here, today. She was not permitted to land at any point up the river. The marine hospital service, today, began the inspection of all steamboats on the river. The service is buying thousands of dollars of salubrious to be used in the destruction of mosquitoes.

New York, July 28.—The Southern Pacific company's steamer El Cid, which arrived today from Galveston, was detained at quarantine for a thorough inspection of the crew. Health Officer Doty having decided to put into operation the same strict inspection given to vessels from New Orleans and Colon. All vessels arriving here from Gulf ports will be subjected to the same rigorous inspection.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 28.—The quarantine established by Acting Governor Dougherty against New Orleans and other infected districts in the state of Louisiana was put into full force today, and will be rigid. All passenger trains coming from Louisiana will be examined as well as freight trains for the possibility of transport of fever. Dozens of New Orleans people have arrived here.

New York, July 28.—Twenty-five persons were, today, removed from the steamer Alamo from Galveston, suspected of yellow fever infection and were transferred to Hoffman's island for inspection.

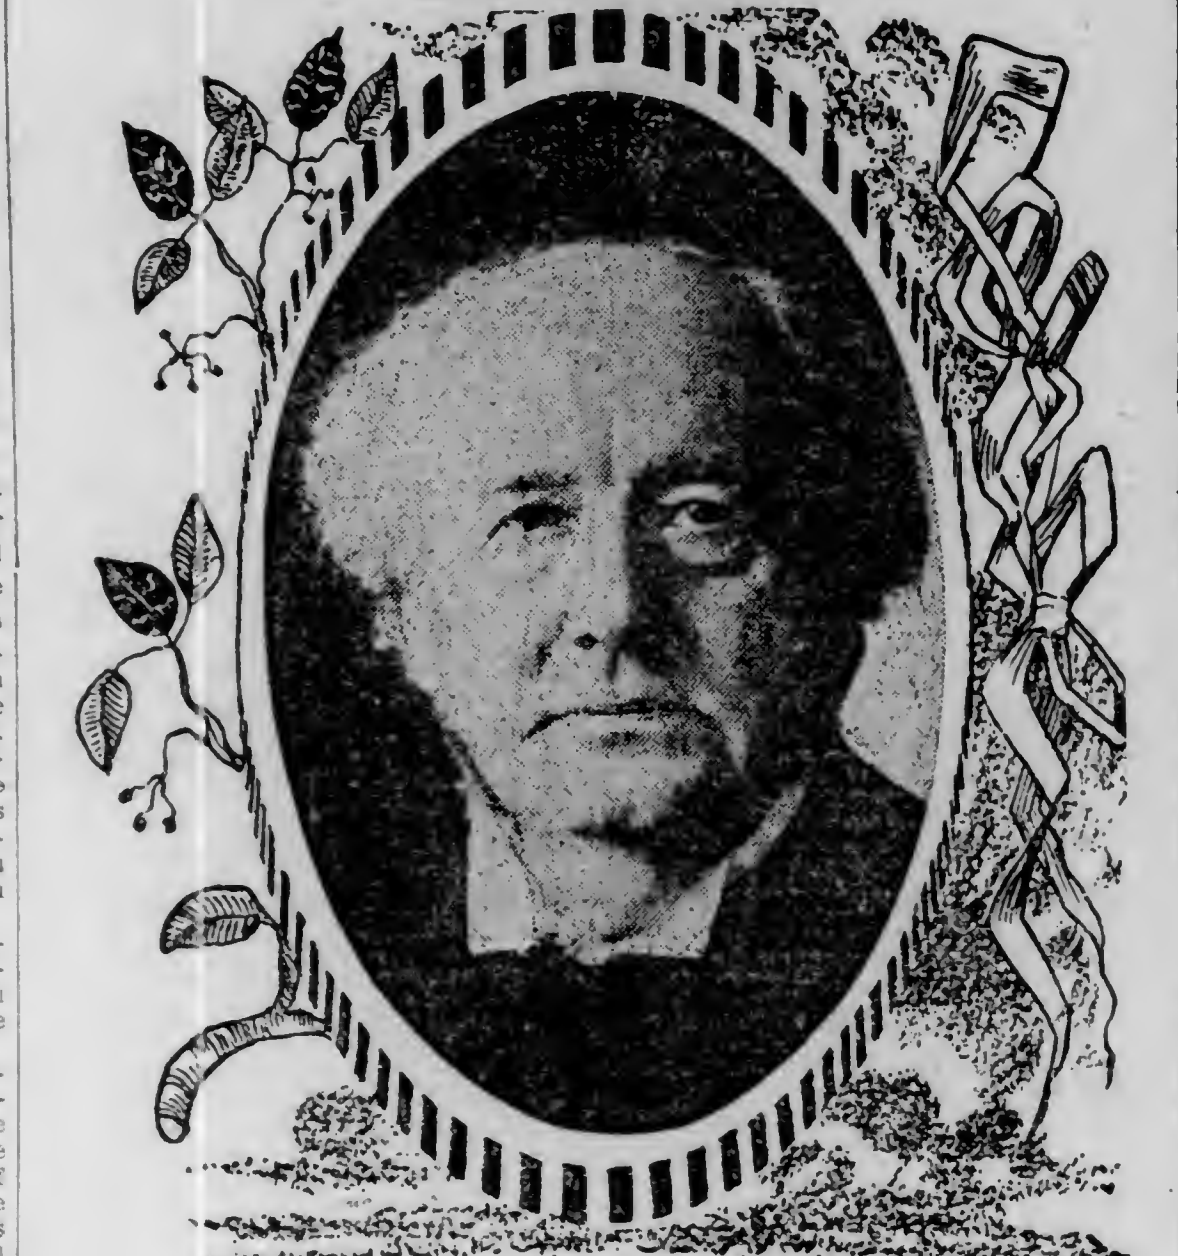

Only ten of this number really have the high temperature which is the first symptom of the yellow plague. The other fifteen were wives, mothers, husbands, children and brothers or sisters who refused to be separated from their relatives and who were in consequence sent to the detention station with the suspects. More than half of those removed from the vessel were cabin passengers.

TOO VACILLATING.
Governor General of Moscow
Removed By Czar.

St. Petersburg, July 28.—The newspapers today announce the appointment of Gen. Durnovo, a member of the council of the empire, as governor general of Moscow, in place of Gen. Konev, who is considered to have been too vacillating in his policy towards the zemstvo congress. Durnovo, who is extremely wealthy, was governor of Moscow in 1872 and 1878. He has had long experience in administrative posts. His son was the commander of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Bedovy at the battle of the sea of Japan, and subsequently escaped to Vladivostok.

BISHOP JOYCE SUCCUMBS TO ATTACK OF PARALYSIS

Veteran Minister Passes Away at Minneapolis
Home at the Age of 69 Years.

BISHOP ISAAC W. JOYCE.

Minneapolis, July 28.—Bishop Isaac W. Joyce, Methodist bishop of Minnesota, died at his home, 310 Groveland avenue, at 1:20 o'clock this morning as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage and consequent attack of paralysis, which he sustained while delivering a sermon at the Red Rock, Minn., camp meeting on Sunday, July 2. Bishop Joyce had preached nearly fifteen minutes, when he was seen to sway as if about to fall. He stayed himself, not accepting the support proffered by deacons on the platform. Three times he spoke his last sentence, the words becoming more and more inarticulate: "Well, I've preached the word of God in every land, and every"

NEW CHIEF HAS GAMBLERS GOING

Chicago, July 28.—Spectacular raiding of handbook resorts in which eighty-four men were taken prisoners in four hours work, marked John M. Collins second day's work as general superintendent of the Chicago police department. Then at night came descents on ten poker games.

Following out his startling action of Wednesday evening, when he interrupted several time honored poker games, the new chief, yesterday, removed Assistant Chief Schuetzler from the command of the gambling detail, and took personal charge himself, announcing at the same time that he would hold his inspectors responsible for whatever gambling would be discovered in their districts. Armed with search warrants and sledges, the "gambling detail" continued at night the destructive raids which had terrorized the gambling fraternity during the preceding twenty-four hours.

A score of warrants, to which the signatures of two police magistrates were appended, were given to the raiders and detectives on ten "clubs" were made before midnight. The paraphernalia, of that part of it left intact after the onslaught of the raiders was confiscated.

Chicago, July 28.—The arrest of forty-two persons last night ended a riot which began with an attack on two non-union teamsters at Halstead and Van Buren streets. More than 500 men and women were involved.

James Simpson and Oscar Berger, non-union teamsters, who had resigned their positions, were recognized by union men. They were attacked and as the crowd increased the police were not able to get them away. A patrol wagon loaded with policemen soon arrived and the disturbance continued. Attempts to disperse the crowd were unavailing and the lieutenant ordered the policemen to arrest all who refused to go away.

HEAVY RAIN PLAYS HAVOC WITH WORK IN THE IRON MINES

Chisholm, Minn., July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heavy rain which began yesterday has played havoc with work in the mines around here. The rain continued throughout yesterday and all night, and this morning it is still falling. The stippling operations of the Winthrop-Dear company at the Monroe mine will have to be suspended for about a week. The pit is a deep one and there is twenty feet of water in it at the present moment.

Washington, July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank A. Hancock of Morris, Minn., has been awarded the contract for the construction of a number of buildings for the new Indian school, to be located at Wahpeton, N. D. His contract amounts to over $50,000.

TWENTY-THREE KILLED IN FOREIGN TRAIN WRECK.

Liverpool, July 28.—An electric express train on the Lancashire & Yorkshire railway, bound from Liverpool to Southampton, collided, yesterday afternoon, with an empty stationary train at the Hal road station, causing the death of twenty-three persons and the injury of many. The first car of the express, which was crowded, was smashed to pieces, and only six of its occupants escaped. The road was recently given an electric equipment.

THE SULTAN SAYS HIS GOODNESS SAVED HIS LIFE.

Constantinople, July 28.—In reply to a Musliman address of loyalty and gratification at his escape from assassination by the explosion of a bomb thrown by an unknown person at the conclusion of the Sema ceremony on Friday last, the sultan says that the protection of Divine Providence on that occasion was his reward to him for constant endeavors to promote peace and happiness of his people. The only feature of the incident which deeply affected him was the fact that so many of his dear devoted soldiers and well beloved people were killed or injured.

Much interest is aroused by the determination of Miss Wright, a flag member of the club, to race her twenty-five foot sloop Lady Ellen with two young lady assistants.

Purses will be offered to the winner in each class, to the first boat in, and to the one making the best time on time allowance.

After the race the Chicago and Detroit yachts will cruise to the north channel and Georgian bay.

BIG CHECK FOR CATHOLIC HOME.
Los Angeles, July 28.—Bishop Conboy of this diocese of the Roman Catholic church confirmed today, the report that he has received the personal check of a Los Angeles man for $25,000 as a donation to the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, work on the construction of which is about to begin. Bishop Conboy declined to make known the name of the benefactor.

Washington, July 28.—George T. Moore, physiologist and algologist of the department of agriculture, today tendered his resignation to Secretary Wilson, and it has been accepted. This action is the culmination of a hearing at the department yesterday, at which it was alleged by two representatives of the agricultural publication that Moore's wife held stock in a company manufacturing culture for soil inoculation, while Moore, who had charge of the preparation and revision of bulletins regarding the enrichment of farms, directed farmers to the concern for their supplies of the culture.

SPEED TRIAL OF BATTLESHIPS

Race Up the Coast.

New York, July 28.—The most powerful fleet of naval vessels ever gathered in New York harbor is at anchor in two divisions, one lying stretched in a line in the Hudson river from Grant's tomb to Fifth street and the other off Tompkinsville, in the lower bay. Sixteen warships, carrying 263 guns, are in New York waters.

The eight first-class battleships of the North Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Roby D. Evans, arrived in the harbor late yesterday afternoon. The ships came single and in pairs, intervals of an hour or more separating them. This was the result of a speed trial up the coast which had been ordered by Admiral Evans as a test of the qualities of the different designs of battleships. A part of the race was made under natural draught and then forced draught was resorted to. The Missouri finished far in front, with her sister ship, the Maine, flying the flag of Admiral Evans.

The Kentucky led her sister ship, the Kearsarge, and also beat the Illinois. The Iowa and the Alabama brought up the rear of the contesting ships, the Massachusetts taking no part in the trial because of her greater age. It was said on board the Missouri that the speed maintained by that ship for six hours will be close to 18 1/2 knots recorded on the trial trip.

The armored cruiser Pennsylvania arrived at Tompkinsville tonight. She has also been making speed tests and during a four hours run averaged 22 1/2 knots.

Other ships in the harbor are those of Rear Admiral Sigbee's division, and several at the navy yard.

LONG RACE FOR YACHTS

Chicago Craft Will Start on Course to Mackinac Saturday.

Chicago, July 28.—The yachting season in the West reaches its climax when the fleet of the Chicago Yacht club and the representatives of the Detroit and Cleveland Yacht clubs cross the lines tomorrow afternoon in the start of the long cruising races, the former at Chicago, the latter at Port Huron, both bound for Mackinac Island. Four splendid schooners evenly matched and representing the two types of craft popular on fresh water, a half dozen powerful cruising yawls and several racing sloops will race in their respective classes with ten minutes between the classes.

The distance is 340 miles and it was covered last year in 10 1/2 days. The race is running before a southerly gale. Very high seas were running at the north end of the lake and there were many accidents to spars and rigging. It is not thought probable that this record will be equalled this year although there are indications of the probability of plenty of wind.

The only limitation of rig is the barring of club topsails. The closest race will probably be between the four schooners Hawthorne, Alice, Uncas and Mistral. Hawthorne is the favorite for heavy weather and Uncas or Alice for light.

Much interest is aroused by the determination of Miss Wright, a flag member of the club, to race her twenty-five foot sloop Lady Ellen with two young lady assistants.

Purses will be offered to the winner in each class, to the first boat in, and to the one making the best time on time allowance.

After the race the Chicago and Detroit yachts will cruise to the north channel and Georgian bay.

UNKNOWN WOMAN SAVES MURDERER HOCH AFTER ALL HOPE WAS GONE

Will Raise Money For an Appeal to Supreme Court.

Calls at Jail In Company
With a Prominent Physician

Who Guarantees Payment of Money Promised
By Woman.

Chicago, July 28.—Alleged pitiless slayer and swindler of unnumbered women, "Bluebeard" Johann Hoch was today, by a woman's pity, given a respite of two hours from the hangman, and before the two hours was up had been reprieved for four weeks more. The four weeks were secured, not by pity, but by cold cash. The exact amount of money essential was $500.

Cook County Jail, Chicago, July 28.—Three hours before the time set for his execution, "Bluebeard" Johann Hoch, the wife murderer, had not given up hope of clemency. Although there seemed little probability for interference by the state as the result of the action of Governor Deneen and the state board of pardons in refusing him further reprieve, Hoch believed he had yet a chance for life.

Hoch slept soundly during the night retiring about 10 o'clock. He awoke only once in the morning about 3 o'clock and complained of having a feeling of nausea. After he had been relieved he retired again and soon fell asleep. He arose at his usual hour and declined the comparatively sumptuous meal given to prisoners in the jail here. He said coffee and rolls were good enough for him and this was given to the condemned man.

Hoch at this time appeared cheerful as possible under the circumstances and chatted pleasantly with the guards assigned to his cell. He was very talkative and said that he had been in the jail here for six weeks. He was raining and as Hoch heard the patter he bemoaned the gloomy day. "I fear that is going against me," he told the guard.

As one of the night guards who has been watching over him bade him goodbye, Hoch said: "What's the matter? I'm not going yet. If they hang me today they will murder an innocent man. Let them go ahead."

Hoch then changed his clothes, putting on a black suit and black scarf. He packed his few belongings, saying he might be able to use them yet, and gave Guard Sullivan a photograph of himself and wife, Mrs. Emelia Fisher Hoch, sister of the woman for whose murder he was to hang.

Dr. Liston H. Montgomery, a well known physician, accompanied by a woman whose name was said to be Mrs. May Wilson, appeared at the jail about two hours before the time set for the execution, and said money was available to take Hoch's case to the supreme court. The woman refused to tell her name, but insisted she had enough money. Dr. Montgomery and the woman visited Hoch's attorney, Mr. Plotke. Meantime efforts were made to reach Governor Deneen.

The state's attorney, Hoch's attorney, Plotke, and Jailer Whitman held an immediate conference. Soon afterward the jailer postponed the execution until 2 p. m., and it was announced that Hoch's attorney would talk to the governor by long distance telephone as soon as possible.

The woman is said to be wealthy and professed to have been interested in the case from humanitarian motives only. She enlisted in her aid Dr. Liston H. Montgomery, one of the most prominent physicians in the city. Dr. Montgomery acted as her intermediary in the negotiations. Mrs. Wilson said she stood ready to advance a portion of the money necessary to enable Hoch to carry his case to the supreme court and that three persons had last night also agreed to advance a part of the sum necessary.

Mrs. Wilson said she would be glad to appeal to the governor herself. She was assured by Jailer Whitman that the delay in the execution as long as possible in order to give Hoch the benefit of all possibilities, and that Hoch, who had about given up all hope, paced his cell nervously awaiting the outcome.

It was stated that Dr. Montgomery, in his effort to shield the woman from publicity, vouched for the production of money and whatever assurance the governor would require. Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Wilson left the jail together. Mrs. Wilson clung tenaciously to her anonymity. She said:

"I am interested in the case solely because I think the man ought to have a chance—an equal chance."

After Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Wilson left the jail State's Attorney Healy talked over the telephone with Governor Deneen, who is at Springfield and who was made

The woman refused to tell her name, but insisted she had enough money. Dr. Montgomery and the woman visited Hoch's attorney, Mr. Plotke. Meantime efforts were made to reach Governor Deneen.

The state's attorney, Hoch's attorney, Plotke, and Jailer Whitman held an immediate conference. Soon afterward the jailer postponed the execution until 2 p. m., and it was announced that Hoch's attorney would talk to the governor by long distance telephone as soon as possible.

The woman is said to be wealthy and professed to have been interested in the case from humanitarian motives only. She enlisted in her aid Dr. Liston H. Montgomery, one of the most prominent physicians in the city. Dr. Montgomery acted as her intermediary in the negotiations. Mrs. Wilson said she stood ready to advance a portion of the money necessary to enable Hoch to carry his case to the supreme court and that three persons had last night also agreed to advance a part of the sum necessary.

Mrs. Wilson said she would be glad to appeal to the governor herself. She was assured by Jailer Whitman that the delay in the execution as long as possible in order to give Hoch the benefit of all possibilities, and that Hoch, who had about given up all hope, paced his cell nervously awaiting the outcome.

It was stated that Dr. Montgomery, in his effort to shield the woman from publicity, vouched for the production of money and whatever assurance the governor would require. Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Wilson left the jail together. Mrs. Wilson clung tenaciously to her anonymity. She said:

"I am interested in the case solely because I think the man ought to have a chance—an equal chance."

After Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Wilson left the jail State's Attorney Healy talked over the telephone with Governor Deneen, who is at Springfield and who was made acquainted with the latest phase of the situation. The governor told the state's attorney to ascertain whether the offer was bonafide, to make sure of the money and to call the governor's office again.

The governor thereupon instructed Sheriff Barrett to delay the execution until 1:30 p. m.

Later Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Wilson returned to the state's attorney's office, where they were discussed with the state's attorney and Hoch's attorney. After a long conference Hoch's lawyer emerged and announced that Dr. Montgomery and Mrs. Wilson had failed to convince the state's attorney that the woman would give the money. The lawyer for Hoch said, however, that a telegram message from an attorney known to Hoch's lawyer had been received stating that the sender of the message had $500 to give towards saving Hoch. The offer was said to be on account of personal friendship for Hoch's attorney. Hoch's representative had replied that the money, to satisfy the state's attorney and Governor Deneen, must be either in cash or a certified check covered with the signature and breathless, the attorney mentioned by Hoch's letter arrived at the state's attorney's office in a short time and showed a bank check for $500. The state's attorney insisted that he could not have the money, but promised that with that amount of cash he would recommend to the governor that a reprieve be granted. Hoch's attorney thereupon departed post haste with the intention of cashing the check and himself calling up the governor to save time.

It developed later that the woman who intervened to save Hoch was Mrs. Cora Wilson. She is said to be an acquaintance of Governor Deneen. Her plan and that of Dr. Montgomery was not to give the money, but to guarantee to the governor that they would raise the money by subscription, provided the governor would reprieve Hoch. The governor did not think this plan was certain enough and he refused to act.

Jailer Whitman, while negotiations were pending went to Hoch's cell and told the prisoner of the situation. Hoch chuckled and laughed like a schoolboy.

"I knew my chance would come," he cried. At this time Hoch was calling up the governor and announcing that the check had been cashed. The governor said, however, that the check would be reprieved Hoch, and would telegraph the sheriff at once. LONGER HOURS FAVOR PEOPLE

Will See Those Unable to Call During Day.

An announcement that will doubtless prove interesting to many people of this city was made last evening by Mr. L. Z. Cooper, at the Spalding hotel. The young man was asked whether he was enjoying his visit to Duluth or not, and after stating that he had enjoyed himself immensely, he said: "I have been in many cities, but never have I seen anything that compares with your boulevard drive. It literally took my breath away the first time I went over it. The view from certain parts of it is simply magnificent."

My work here has proven satisfactory to me, and is so far all that I could wish, and I have decided to meet a demand that has sprung up in the past week.

Each evening I receive numerous telephone calls from people who ask for an interview with either myself or physician in the evening. Those people say that owing to their duties they are unable to get away during the day.

I at first could see no way to meet these people, as my assistants are busy all day long and desire the evening to themselves. But the demands have been increasing to such an extent that I have decided to remain with my physicians at Boyce's drug store until 10 o'clock Saturday night. This will give every one a chance to call who have been unable to do so during the day. If there is a suffering man or woman whom I can help I certainly do not see how I can place it beyond their power to see me.

This coming week will be my last in Duluth.

TWENTY-FIVE HURT IN STREET CAR COLLISION.

Cleveland, July 28.—Because air brakes and reverse lever both refused to work, a Euclid Avenue car, coming from the parks late last night, crashed into a second car in front, which was slowed up at the crossing of Olive street and Euclid avenue. The entire vestibule of the second car and the first two seats were demolished. The canopy and the rear platform of the first car were jammed up into the rear seat. Twenty-five persons were injured. The motorman of the second car, Bert Gordon, was badly injured, and was taken to the hospital. On the car were a number of Wellington, Ohio, excursionists, who had been spending the day in Cleveland.

INDUSTRIAL DIVIDENDS For August Show Increase Over Last Year.

New York, July 28.—Industrial dividends for August thus far declared and those yet to come show a gain approximating $1,100,000 over those of August a year ago, the total this year footing up $15,700,000, according to the statistics compiled by the Journal of Commerce. There is a slight increase in the dividends of the steel, oil and coal industries, which are great disbursements for the month of July. In July this year the total payments were $2,800,000.

WORK FOR TUG

Fire Boat Could Act As Auxiliary to Bridge.

Agitation For Purchase of Tug Is Being Renewed.

The agitation for the purchase of a fire tug is being renewed in certain quarters, the argument being used that it could be run as a ferryboat when the bridge happened to be out of commission for repairs.

For many years the chief engineer of the fire department has urged the purchase of a fire tug, claiming it was badly needed for the protection of the property along the harbor front.

The members of the city council and the citizens in general have recognized the desirability of such a fire-fighting apparatus, but the expense of fitting up a fire tug is so heavy that the council has never been in a position to purchase one.

Since the bridge was shut down for repairs, and the citizens have been compelled to submit to inadequate ferry accommodations, the plan of purchasing a fire tug has been revived. It is claimed that the tug could be used as a ferry whenever the bridge should be closed down for repairs.

The city engineer states that it is altogether likely that the bridge will have to be closed for a few days, and perhaps a week or two each year to make repairs, such as are always rendered necessary on any machinery.

The tug would always have to be kept ready for service, under any conditions, and the plan of using it as a ferry, when the bridge is closed, would save the city the expense of hiring a ferryboat at an expense of $25 to $30 per day.

The repairs to the bridge are almost complete, and it is expected that it will be opened to traffic again, Monday. All but two of the trucks have been "stotted" and placed in position, and the repairs will be completed tomorrow and Sunday.

WILL SEE THE CARNIVAL.

Newsboys to Be Guests of Management.

Circulation Manager Pearson of The Evening Herald was requested today to invite all the newsboys and carriers of The Herald to participate in a "Newsboys' parade" on Wednesday of the week of the big Fall Festival and Jubilee, to be given by the Third Regiment band, on reaching the carnival grounds, through the courtesy of Manager Snyder of the Cosmo-politan. Amusement. The invitation will be permitted to visit all the shows at the big fete without charge.

Similar requests have been made to the circulation departments of the News Tribune and the Superior Evening Telegram, so that all of the newsboys of Duluth and Superior will participate in the big fest.

Wednesday the day on which the "newsies" will be the guests of the Third Regiment band and the Cosmo-politan company, in "Supper" day. Other special features are being arranged for the occasion, and the residents of the sister city will not want to miss an amusement on the big day aside for them by the local people.

Nothing will be denied the lads on "Newsies' day, and every effort will be made to show the little fellows the time of their lives. Mrs. Murphy, the monkey acrobat, will make her balloon ascension for the lads' benefit. Vol will ride the ride of death in the cycle whirl, the Wilsons will do their bicycle act, and the Nelsons their daring mid-air feats for the "kids." In each show on the "Pike" the boys will be welcomed, without charge, and the performers, who enjoy playing before the little folks, as much as for adults, will spare no effort to amuse their guests as they never have been amused before.

WIDOW ENDS LIFE Because of Love For a Married Man.

Elkhart, Ind., July 28.—A scandal with which gossip has been busy for a couple of years had its denouement in the suicide of Mrs. Ida Stockford, a handsome widow of 35, who left a note saying that she had given up everything in the world for Warfield Newman, and that she hoped God would send him to her.

She was found dead in her bed in a white dress and some cruties that appeared to be the result of a rubber hose extending from a gas jet in her room. The discovery was made by two women.

To a friend Mrs. Stockford said that Newman had taken her money and revolver and that they had planned to leave the city together.

Newman is a member of the firm of Newman Bros., planing mill owners. He is married.

ATHLETICS CAUSE DEATH. Chicago, July 28.—A dispatch to the Tribune from El Paso, Tex., says: As the result of over-indulgence in athletics, Arthur T. Kerr, 22 years old, is dead here. In a cross country run in the month of February, Kerr, thirty-one, contracted a cold which developed into tuberculosis. He was graduated from Columbia in 1904.

ADVANCE MONEY

C. W. Ericson's Claim Against Home Investment Company.

President Says He Put Up $923 at Directors' Request.

Two more attempts at intervention have been made in the suit brought by Joseph Schober against the National Home Investment company, a defunct Duluth corporation, to recover money which Mr. Schober claims to have invested on contract.

Charles W. Ericson, president of the defunct company, has filed notice through his attorney, L. C. Harris, to the receiver, C. B. Miller, of a motion to intervene and present a claim which Mr. Ericson claims to have against the company for money said to have been advanced by him to pay debts of the corporation, amounting to $923.21, of which only $127.25 is alleged to have been repaid. In his complaint, filed with the notice of intervention, Mr. Ericson claims that he advanced the money at the special instance and request of the officers and directors of the company. He asks that he be allowed to prove his claim, and have judgment in respect to the same against the company for the full amount of the balance, $795.96, with interest from the date of the payments. Attached to the complaint is a statement showing the amounts, the dates and the persons to whom the money was paid. With few exceptions, the amounts, which range from $15 to $125, are claimed to have been paid contract holders.

The other notice of motion for intervention is given by William Chesney of West Duluth, through his attorney, John Jensen, Jr. In his complaint Mr. Chesney sets forth that, Feb. 11, 1905, he recovered a personal judgment against the National Home Investment company in the sum of $904.00, and that execution was returned unsatisfied. Mr. Chesney asks that he be allowed the full amount of his claim, with interest at 6 per cent from Feb. 11 last, and that the receiver be directed to pay the judgment out of any money he may receive in respect to the same against the stockholders of the defunct company. He also asks to be made a party plaintiff in the Schober suit.

MORTON FIRES A GENERAL AGENT OF THE EQUITABLE.

New York, July 28.—Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, today notified Archibald C. Haynes, a long serving agent of the Equitable society in this city, that Mr. Haynes' contract with the Equitable was terminated on July 28, 1905, and that he was to be paid $100,000, with interest, for the balance of his claim, with interest at 6 per cent from Feb. 11 last, and that the receiver be directed to pay the judgment out of any money he may receive in respect to the same against the stockholders of the defunct company. He also asks to be made a party plaintiff in the Schober suit.

ZIONISTS EXCHANGE BLOWS AT MEETING.

Basle, Switzerland, July 28.—The reports that rioting occurred at yesterday's meeting of the Zionists congress are incorrect. This morning, however, while the delegates were arriving in the hall considerable scuffling occurred in the hallways and stairways of the casino. This caused a scene of angry altercation and shouting. Blows were exchanged and the police intervened and cleared the stairways of the disorderly element.

The Zionists held a lively session over the special order of the day for the establishment of the Zion in East Africa. President Nordau was compelled to close the session amidst a scene of general agitation.

NEGROES TO BOYCOTT CARS

Refuse to Patronize Traction Service Arranged For Them.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 28.—The colored people along the Lonsdale division of the Knoxville Traction company have as a majority agreed that they will not patronize the cars on the line on account of the "Jim Crow" law and a meeting is to be held this week to perfect an organization to establish a boycott. The movement started among negroes who are employed along the Lonsdale line. Very few are riding on the Highland avenue cars, and it is very seldom that a negro is seen riding on a Euclid avenue car. Negroes are seen loading along the car line in Lonsdale and frequently see negroes who start to ride, a servant employed on a negro woman. A Sunday afternoon a negro woman, who started to board a car near Lonsdale and she was pulled off by a negro man, who upbraided her for not standing with the other negroes in a separate car. The woman refused to get on the car, and she did not know of the agreement of the proposed meeting, and when she did learn of it she refused to ride.

Implying at the office of the Knoxville Traction company showed that since the trouble on the Lonsdale line on the night of the 24th, the colored citizens of the northwestern part of the city, near the Knoxville college, are now being boycotted in the movement, but it is chiefly iron molders and other laborers who are employed at the Lonsdale line. A negro who is employed as a bricklayer stated to a reporter that letters had been received from Nashville and Chattanooga from negroes there who asked them to remain off the cars and had informed them that if this was done the street railway companies would insist on the law being repealed and the next legislature would repeal it.

The work of forming the sentiment against the law has been done quietly. A week ago Saturday night Sheriff Keels and deputies dispersed a mob of negroes who were pulling other negroes off the cars. One negro was fined and condition of the poor. The president was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Jos. His. The trip from Oyster Bay to Sea Gate was made on the naval yacht Sylph. The president expected to remain in Long Island for several hours, after which it was his intention to return to Oyster Bay on the Sylph.

paid his fine. Two others who were leaders in the movement, escaped and it is said that since then they have been at work quietly creating a sentiment against the laws and customs that oppress the negroes remaining off the cars.

The Oakwood and Sevierville Pike cars have been heavily patronized by colored passengers. The patronage on the Oakwood line has fallen off, but as to the Sevierville Pike line, it has not been affected. This line is patronized by several hundred negroes, who are employed in railroad work and while they remained off the cars for a week they now ride and have no kick coming, so it appears.

The Knoxville Traction company does not expect a general boycott and pays little attention to the movement among Lonsdale negroes.

MISS MYRA KELLY Is Reported Engaged to a Wealthy Horseman.

New York, July 28.—Cupid is reported to have captured Miss Myra Kelly, whose delightful stories of East side children, after others had tried to write of them, came as a grateful rain on a dusty road.

The talented girl who has held the East side child up to view just as he is and given to the magazine character sketches that are now a part of the literature of New York, it is said, will become Mrs. John McNaughton, president of the Standard Coach Horse company.

Mr. McNaughton is wealthy. There is said to be some objection among relatives to the proposed marriage.

OLDEST ODDFELLOW. Summer, Iowa, Has Claimant For This Distinction.

Summer, Iowa, July 28.—The Odd Fellows' lodge here claims to have the oldest living active member in this state and one of the oldest past grand in the country. Mr. Wade joined the Odd Fellows when the order was in its infancy when he became a member of lodge No. 8 at Newark, N. J., in 1835. Two years after he was honored by being elected the first noble grand of Protection lodge, No. 23. He was 27 years of age at the time. A year later he moved to Rock county, Wisconsin, taking a withdrawal card from Protection lodge. Here his services were again in demand as a lodge organizer, and he helped to start a lodge in that county, being its first noble grand. In 1855 Mr. Wade moved to Fayette county, Iowa, near Sum-

PLANS ARE CHANGED. England to Push Naval Work at Rosth.

London, July 28.—In the course of a discussion of the vote on the naval works in the house of commons today, Lieut. Col. Arthur Hamilton Lee, civil leader of the admiralty, announced that the admiralty had decided to not proceed with the Chatham dockyard extension, but instead to push work on the new base at Rosth, Firth of Forth, Scotland.

The Chatham extension scheme, as outlined in 1903, contemplated an expenditure of $22,000,000. Explaining the reasons for this step, Lieut. Col. Lee said there was a probability that ships in the future would be fewer in number and greater in individual power. Hence, the berthing and docking space must be of the least. The admiralty had decided that Rosth possessed greater strategic and other advantages than Chatham.

FRENCH STEAMER ASHORE. Guernsey, Channel Islands, July 28.—A large French freight steamer, west ashore today on the west coast of this island. It is believed that the vessel, the name of which is not known, will be a total wreck. There was no loss of life. It was at first reported that the steamer was a trans-Atlantic liner. The fog continues.

"GET RICH QUICK."

The public is getting wise in the matter of so-called money-making schemes that offer a hundred dollars for one. The day is fast approaching when it will be wise in regard to similar methods of selling goods. Truthful advertising has more weight nowadays with thinking people than flamboyant statements that ring false in honest ears.

THE LYCEUM CLOTHING AND SHOE HOUSE IN THE LYCEUM BUILDING. 423 West Superior Street.

It is expected that the assembly, which is to be given tonight, will eclipse all other parties of its kind that have ever been held in Duluth. There are many out-of-town guests this season and all the school people are home so that the party cannot but be a success. Although the weather has not done its share toward the evening's pleasure, it cannot dampen the strong enthusiasm which everyone has caught. LaBrosse will play the program of dances.

A midsummer pupils' recital will be given tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Stocker, 1014 East Second street. Miss Helen Mason will give the program of vocal solos and will be assisted by Mrs. John F. Segog, Miss Clara Stocker and Miss Isabel Pearson. The program is an especially well chosen one. All of the numbers are by master composers. The program will be:

Vocal duet—"The Violet".....Reinecke
Song—"My Redeemer".....Flick
Piano solo—Polonaise, Op. 26, No. 1.....Chopin
Song—"Du bist die Ruh".....Schubert

(b) "One Summer Night".....Greig
Piano duet—Vals in A flat—Moszkowski
Song—"Hush My Little One".....Bevignani
Piano solo—(a) Nocturne, Op. 40, No. 1.....Chopin
(b) "Scarlatti".....Chladni
Song—"Allah".....Chadwick
(b) "A Moment".....Park
Vocal duet—Tuscan Folk-Song.....Miss Mason and Mrs. Segog.

Miss Laura Mathers, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stewart, Park Point, returned yesterday to her home at Fargo.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Rittenhouse of New York, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Coker for the past two weeks, left yesterday for the Yellowstone Park and the Pacific coast.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Kelley and son left for the Pacific coast yesterday.

Dr. George W. Holmes of Minneapolis, formerly of Hamden, Persia, is the guest of Mrs. W. L. Whipple of 1215 East Third street. Mrs. Holmes will arrive next week for a visit of one or two weeks.

W. E. Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins of Chicago, Miss Enslly of Minnetonka and Mrs. T. H. Green left yesterday morning for Isle Royale for a two weeks' outing.

Miss Belle Davis of Buffalo, formerly of Duluth, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. W. Taylor of 1121 East Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stevenson and son, John, Mrs. M. A. Stevenson of Hamilton, Ohio, and G. M. Stevenson of Bellefontaine, Ohio, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Stevenson of East Second street, have returned home.

Mrs. George Knight entertained at a delightful little birthday party yesterday afternoon in honor of her little daughter, Geveleva. The house was decorated in the national colors, and the refreshments were also suggestive of the red, white and blue. Those present were: Marion Robertson, Edna Carroll, Leona Landault, Marie Johnson and Ruth Webb. Mrs. C. F. McComb was hostess at a daintily appointed luncheon today. A number of the younger girls were the guests.

Mrs. Isaac D. Smead of Cincinnati and Mrs. Edward C. Lewis of Chicago are the guests of their sister, Mrs. W. D. Underhill, 514 First avenue west.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Abraham of 1426 East Superior street have returned from a month's outing at Solon Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smart and son Harry of Hibbing are visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. Carl Boettcher of Evansville, Ind., is the guest of Miss Katherine Fiebliger of East Second street.

WHITE SHOES SCARCE. Supply In All Stores Is Very Low.

"Follow the leader" has evidently been the motto of the white shoe brigade as no doubt you will find out if you have not already done so, when you try to obtain a pair of these delightful white oxford shoes. For trouble awaits those who do not already possess a pair. The local dealers seem to be entirely out of this line of foot apparel. One of the large department stores in advertising their claims to be the only store that can meet the demand of the tardy buyers. If you are fortunate enough to have very large feet, or very small ones you may be able to get them at other stores, but the medium sizes are all sold out.

The same scarcity of this article has been noticed in other places, such as Chicago, Minneapolis and even Superior. Duluthians are not the only ones that have caught the contagion of the white canvas shoe fad.

These shoes can be worn with any light colored summer gown either in the afternoon or evening. They are not only cool looking but are the most comfortable of all footwear, and can easily be cleaned when they begin to look shabby. Some woman evidently had good taste and knew what real comfort was, when she adopted this light weight canvas shoe; and as some one has said that "women are as bad as sheep," the saying has been verified in this case, and we all are following the leader.

Hours on Their Hair.

French women spend hours combing their hair and then are almost as careful about keeping it in order as are their sisters in Japan.

"How do you know that she is a French woman?" asked a traveler of a French woman.

"By her hair," was the quick answer. "The hair of the American woman looks as if it were never combed. Most often it looks as if it were twisted up ready for a bath."

The French woman spends an hour or more combing her hair, and at night it is tucked under a fine muslin protection—nightcap, maybe—and in the morning it looks as tidy as though newly combed, says the Pittsburgh Press.

If there is any morning entertainment, such as riding or driving, the hair dress of the afternoon before answers, and unless the hair has been subjected to a horseback ride it remains in form until luncheon. Then, at 3 o'clock, the hair is brushed out, a tonic is applied, and then it is made ready for another twenty-four hours.

Of course, where so much attention is given to the appearance of the hair there is much helping out of scanty locks by means of artificial rolls, puffs and braids. And anyone accustomed to the ways of the world would as soon think of asking, "Is your complexion natural?" as, "Is that all your own hair?" For many times it isn't.

Fair Stock Table.

A stock table is an appropriate and well patronized feature at an outdoor, or other bazaar just now, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Women interested in summer fairs and fete work industriously for a stock table, making many dainty and ingenious pieces of neckwear, which have no suggestion of shoddiness and are, accordingly, quickly sold. One of the prettiest lately seen was a collar and tabs, made of pale blue embroidery silk, "tatted" into whole and scrolls, in a design evolved by the maker. A little bead-work was seen on this collar, but not enough to divert attention from the tating.

A CONQUERING WOOPER CAME By W. J. B. Moses.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"He didn't ask for you by name, ma'am, but he described you so that there couldn't be any mistake. He's a very tall man, ma'am, with curly hair, and a very thin man, ma'am, and he has such beautiful eyes."

"He isn't an insane person, Marv, is he?"

"Oh, no, ma'am; he looked quite kind, and like a gentleman, ma'am, though not smartly dressed except in his eyes. Even his dress was suggestive of the red, white and blue. Those present were: Marion Robertson, Edna Carroll, Leona Landault, Marie Johnson and Ruth Webb. Mrs. C. F. McComb was hostess at

"I am very glad," he said simply. "But I knew that you would like me, that you must like me. I had not thought that you were melancholy, but I now know you were just in need of me, that was it."

"That must have been it," she laughed gaily. "All at once the man grew more serious again. 'You have never seen me, but I have often seen you, but without knowing your name. I do not know your name even now.'"

"It is Elizabeth Mart," said the man softly and meditatively. Her name had never sounded so sweetly in her ears before. "And mine is Randolph Jordan," he added after a pause, "and I am a poet."

"A poet? Of course you are a poet! I might have known it. 'From my heart I sing to thee,' said the man. 'From the glimmer of poetry that is about you, I guess.'"

"They were silent for a moment and then the man resumed, 'Do you realize how strange, how unusual, it is for us to be talking to each other in this way?'"

"I know it, but I do not realize it. I seem to have broken away from all bounds and from all traditions, but a poet is not subject to conventionalities. If you choose to humor me with a visit, can you tell me your will. I am a sort of prince, a king to whom lesser mortals must do reverence. What is your will, sir, or should say, your majesty?"

"She was a little giddy, as if she had taken too much wine. She wondered if she were not carrying her jesting too far."

"My will is— and in his tone was a new sound, a thrilling sound, the accents of the master, but he paused and the enthusiasm of his countenance softened into a beautiful smile. Her heart had pounded at his ringing words, and she had almost feared what he might make her do, but now she grew quiet again, and happy in his smile."

"But before I command I must request, and before I request I must explain." He was silent again, as if reviewing and marshalling his words.

"I am a poet. I am also a man of an independent, though small, fortune. I am able to live the life I choose and I live the life of a poet. I live as much as possible with flowers and birds and beautiful things. But do not think I am an indolent dreamer. I work hard, my poetry and I work with my hands for the love of work. I have a cottage and a garden, and both I care for myself. I study, too. I long to know, to know everything, about money, or about social distinctions. For society I seek the help of the poor. I am not a philanthropist, nor a social reformer. Something tells me that each man must work out his own destiny in the place where he is put, and I do not venture to meddle."

He paused abruptly. "Well, that is enough about myself, that and what you can see. And now I must speak about you. I have known you by sight for over a year. I have admired you—more than I can tell you. I knew that you were a person of unusual congeniality. I knew that you had more in common with me than anyone else I had ever seen."

There was a strange, insistent burr about the man's voice. It seemed to have a mechanical effect upon Miss Mart. She sat perfectly still, and rather white, and felt an attracting quiver, like that which comes from the handles of an electric battery drawing her towards him. She could not resist, for in an unconventional fashion, I am a poet and I did not care. I did not even care to know your name. I knew just you, you, yourself, and I cared nothing for name or social distinctions or conventionalities. I knew a time would come and when I saw you yesterday coming back to the deserted city I knew the time had come. It was my love called you back. In some far away place our souls were made for one another, or in some other world we knew and loved one another more strongly, more sweetly, more passionately, than common men can know. I knew there could be no mistake. I knew you must love me as I love you, when once I came to get you. And now I have come, have come to tell my love, have told it unafraid, for the guiding voices have spoken truth and you love me."

He paused, rose from his chair stepped to her side, stooped, took one of her hands in his and looked gently into her eyes.

"Do you not, Elizabeth?"

"Yes," she murmured, dreamily.

FEDERAL AID Often Extended to Flood Sufferers Along the Mississippi.

Senate Committee Reported In Favor of Retaining Reservoirs.

Washington, July 28.—Federal aid has often been extended to flood sufferers along the Mississippi river as shown by the records.

Soon after President McKinley was inaugurated there were big floods in the lower Mississippi valley, and the governors of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana petitioned the president for assistance. April 7, President McKinley sent a special message to congress recommending a suitable appropriation, and the sum of $100,000 was set aside to assist the flood sufferers.

It was not all expended, and in July, 1897, Congressman Page Morris introduced a joint resolution in the house of representatives which provided for transferring $100,000 from the unexpended balance for the relief of settlers in the vicinity of Alkirk, Minn.

Judge Morris presented petitions headed by T. R. Foley, W. Potter, Carlton Graves and others, asking federal aid. Jerry Simpson of Kansas, and Powers of Vermont, opposed the resolution on the ground that it should have been introduced and backed by the governor of the state of Minnesota.

At the same session of congress a joint resolution was passed providing for a thorough investigation by the senate committee on commerce as to the causes of Mississippi floods, and whether such floods are the result of the destruction of timber at and near the headwaters in Minnesota, and whether the reservoirs which are maintained at the headwaters are required to prevent floods caused by sudden precipitation and the overflows from tributary streams. The senate committee during the congressional recess made an examination and later submitted most exhaustive report on the subject in which the reservoir system was endorsed.

Since coming to Washington, Representative Stevens of St. Paul has been made the most exhaustive report on the subject in which the reservoir system of the Upper Mississippi river is preparing and made itself useful in congress next session. The attack on the system will probably take the form of a joint resolution to be introduced in the house, regulating the flow of water from the reservoirs. The "senate resolution" will, of course, be of character to destroy the usefulness of the reservoirs. Mr. Stevens is enlisted for the war, and when congress meets he will take of his coat and go to work. He seems very hopeful. Recognizing the leading members of congress, the passage of any "resolution" will be quite out of the question. He thinks that the arguments are altogether with those who believe that the reservoirs should stand, and while there will be a divided delegation from Minnesota, that the reservoirs will be permitted to stand.

Mr. Stevens speaks in high terms of the board of army officers, appointed to investigate and report to the war department. The board is disinterested, and its report will be unprejudiced. The report will be made in the late fall, probably after an exhaustive study of the case on the ground this summer and fall. Should the report be favorable to the reservoirs, congress will be very unlikely to interpose any objections.

PRESIDENT ANGRY Because Hyde Was Allowed to Get Away.

Washington, July 28.—Sensational and startling are developments connected with the investigation of the department of agriculture; so much so that for the time being the government printing office matters are put into the insignificant column.

President Roosevelt has sent some very warm telegrams during the past day or two to Secretary Wilson. The president is incensed over the departure of John Hyde, who was allowed to resign, pack his trunk and sail for Europe.

Hyde is wanted very badly here by the grand jury. As an outcome, Secretary Wilson's retirement from the cabinet is regarded as liable to follow the present investigation.

Prof. W. M. Hays of Minnesota is practically in charge of the department.

Another interesting feature that has been given attention is the trolley line excursions that could be had from West Duth to Fond du Lac, and along the St. Louis river to the power house site. The trip, especially above Fond du Lac, where the St. Louis river scenery is especially wild and picturesque, would appeal to excursion parties and to tourists, and the ride would be one unequalled by any other electric line in this country. Such a service would offer splendid inducements to the tourist and business traveler.

Was on His Way to Duluth to Give Himself Up.

A. B. LOUTZENHEISER.

While on his way to Duluth to give himself up to the authorities, Albert B. Loutzenheiser, the absconding teller of the First National bank, was arrested yesterday in St. Paul by the St. Paul police, and is being brought to this city today in charge of United States Marshal Grimshaw.

Loutzenheiser arrived in St. Paul from Chicago yesterday morning. The assertion is made in the News Tribune this morning that D. R. McLennan sent word to Chief Troyer of Loutzenheiser's presence in St. Paul, but this is denied by the chief, who says that he got word from another source.

Mr. McLennan met Loutzenheiser in the depot in Chicago, and expressed surprise at seeing him.

"Well," said Loutzenheiser, "you will be more surprised when you know where I am going."

He then pulled out of his pocket a ticket to Duluth, and a check for his baggage, also to Duluth, and said that he was going there to give himself up.

He also showed Mr. McLennan a letter addressed to a fictitious name at New York by George R. Laybourn at Duluth, and said that was the name he had been going under.

They rode up to St. Paul together, and in the morning got off the train. Loutzenheiser said that he intended to come up on the afternoon train, preferring to get here in the evening rather than in the morning.

Mr. McLennan, during the day, mentioned to several Duluth people who he saw in St. Paul that he had seen Loutzenheiser, and that he was on his way back to Duluth, but he took no steps to advise anyone, in order that he might be apprehended. He was convinced that Loutzenheiser was sincere in his determination to come back, and the thought of advising the Duluth authorities never entered his head.

Chief Troyer says that he got word from one of the bank directors, who was probably advised by some people who saw him in St. Paul.

Chief Troyer immediately telegraphed Chief O'Connor of St. Paul to locate and arrest Loutzenheiser, and he was apprehended yesterday afternoon by Detectives Frazer and Springer of the St. Paul department.

George R. Laybourn, local agent for the American Bonding company, which was on Loutzenheiser's bond for $10,000, stated that he received a telegram from the missing teller Tuesday evening, dated at New York, in which he stated that he was starting for Duluth. Mr. Laybourn states that he believes Loutzenheiser has been in New York the greater part of the eight months, and during which the police of every city in the country have been searching for him.

The amount of the shortage, with which Loutzenheiser is charged, is $10,000. When arrested and searched by the St. Paul police, the missing teller was found to have but 30 cents in his possession.

Loutzenheiser is under indictment by the federal court for embezzlement, and he will be arraigned before Judge Morris as soon as he reaches the city.

There is also a warrant in the municipal court charging him with grand larceny, but it is likely that this will be withdrawn and the case prosecuted through the federal authorities.

The arrest was made yesterday afternoon by Detectives Frazer and Springer. He was promptly taken to the police station to be escorted to Duluth today. Loutzenheiser made no attempt to escape. He told the detectives that he was the missing teller and that he was on his way to Duluth to give himself up.

Efforts made at St. Paul to ascertain where Loutzenheiser has spent the last eight months were largely unsuccessful. He said that he came from New York, but would give no further account of himself.

RAIN WAS DAMPER

Grocers' Annual Picnic Did Not Get Good Weather.

But Few of the Athletic Events Were Attempted.

Starting out from Duluth with ideal weather in prospect, the crowd that attended the retail grocers' annual picnic at Fond du Lac, was overtaken by rain before the steamer Newsboy reached the picnic grounds yesterday morning. Throughout the day it was more or less showery so that a damper was put on a larger portion of the program of sports.

The neighborhood of 1,000 people, and these enjoyed the day to a certain extent despite the rain, but did not have the good time anticipated had the weather been more propitious.

On the way to Fond du Lac, Flaaten's Third Regiment band of sixteen pieces gave a concert, and the trip was one of much gaiety. After landing at Fond du Lac three innings of the ball game scheduled between the wholesale grocery clerks and the retail grocery clerks were played. The game resulted in a victory for the retail clerks by a score of 3 to 1.

After dinner an attempt was made to carry out the program of athletic events, but after a few were pulled off the downpour of rain put an eternal stop to anything further. The hop, step and jump, the free-for-all 100-yards dash, and the race for the same distance open to grocery clerks were won by Lee Gibson, Ray Segog won the boys' running race.

The prize for the heaviest traveling man was bestowed on S. Naverson, who weighed in at 220 pounds. In contrast to Mr. Naverson was P. Smith, who weighed in at 125 pounds. The picnic was captured by the highest traveling man at 125 pounds.

Owing to the wet condition of the pavilion the afternoon and evening dances were had in the fire hall at Fond du Lac. A larger portion of the excursionists returned on the afternoon boat and trains, about 100 remaining for the dance in the evening and returning to Duluth on the 10:30 o'clock special train.

Stanford Newel is to sail for home this week.

Washington, July 28.—Word just received in Washington is to the effect that Stanford Newel, late minister at The Hague, will sail for home from Rotterdam, Saturday, with Mrs. Newel. For some time past they have been resting at Aix-la-chapelle. Mrs. Newel is in poor health, and has been hoping that the hot mineral springs at Aix-la-Chapelle would help her. Her social duties at The Hague were very trying and she was compelled to seek rest in order to be strong enough to stand the trip home. After a short stay in Washington Mr. and Mrs. Newel will proceed to St. Paul, where they will occupy their Dayton avenue residence. Mr. Newel will now retire from active pursuits of all kinds.

SCOLDED BY A JUDGE.
Woman Who Wanted a Divorce Severely Lectured.

Des Moines, Ia., July 28.—Mrs. B. E. Van Hook, who had petitioned for divorce, was given a severe scolding by Judge Hugh Brennan in district court. Judge Brennan put the woman through a series of questions:

"You know this man's bad character when you married him, did you not?" asked the court.

"But he said he would reform," answered the woman.

"You knew that he was no sort of a man for you to marry?"

"Well, I suppose I did."

"This court wishes to say that people who rush pell-mell into foolish love scrapes and marriages will get no relief here. The thing for you to do is to grin and bear it. This is your second mistake, as I see by the court records you have been divorced before. I will not grant you a decree in order that you may get a third rake for a husband."

Mrs. Van Hook was overcome by the court's cutting remarks. She was carried to her home and is quite ill.

MARKET IS WILD

Hot Weather Causes Lemons to Double in Price.

Raspberry and California Fruit Receipts Are Very Heavy.

The lemon market throughout the country has apparently gone wild during the last week, owing to the very heavy demand and a rather small crop.

The exceedingly hot weather throughout the country doubled and tripled the demand for lemons for all kinds of cooling drinks, and the shortage in the supply at once became evident. The crop this year was not a heavy one, and the price has ruled firm for the last two months or more. But when the greatly increased demand began to have its effect, the prices increased by leaps and bounds, jumping in one week from about $1.25 to $1.50 per box to $1.80 and $2.00.

Even at that figure the Duluth market is claimed to be as low or lower than anywhere in the country, and the dealers predict that the prices may go even higher during the next week or two, especially if the warm weather continues.

Even at this high figure, the highest reached in years, the demand is brisk and the dealers are having trouble in supplying it.

Oranges, like lemons, are high and scarce, and are, moreover, in great demand owing to the hot weather. The California late Valencia are about the only oranges left in the market.

Watermelons are also in great demand at the present time, owing to the warm weather, but great difficulty is being experienced in getting them to the market in good shape. The long trip from Georgia under the blistering sun of the Southern states, is sufficient to spoil a large percentage of the melons, and frequently the dealers receive cars containing 1,000 to 1,200 melons, from which they are unable to use more than 500 to 800. As they have to stand the loss and pay the freight on the damaged melons, the price is kept at a rather high figure, although the crop in the South is very large.

The California nut season continues at its height, and here again the hot weather is making a very heavy demand. The peaches are getting better as the season advances, showing a big improvement over the rather dry and tasteless varieties received earlier in the season.

A few consignments of sour cherries have been received during the week, but they are not likely to be on the market long.

Raspberry receipts have been very heavy during the week, and the season is now about at its height. The red raspberries are selling for about $1.50 for a bushel case, but the market is subject to fluctuations from day to day.

The blueberry supply is not very large yet, but the new shipments have cut off shipments. The demand is in excess of the supply, and what there is on the market is selling for about $2 per case.

Urrants and gooseberries should come in freely during the next week, as this season is just reaching its height.

The Duchess apples are now on the market, selling for about $3 a barrel. As yet they are only slightly colored, but next week some of the later harvest apples will be on the market.

Banana prices have not changed during the week, but an advance is looked for, owing to the new shipments from New Orleans causes a long continuation of the severe quarantining regulations. New Orleans is the greatest banana port in the country, and the greater part of the supply is received there. If the port is quarantined for yellow fever it will doubtless greatly interfere with the banana trade, unless the United Fruit company's vessels are sent to some other port.

Minnesota potatoes are now on the market, and the price has dropped to 85 cents a bushel. The Minnesota crop promises to be a bumper one, unless the wet weather of the early part of the season has caused the tubers to rot. The acreage this year is very large, owing partly to the very low price of seed potatoes, and the yield is said to have been a heavy one. The new crop is selling for less than the price quoted for last year's crop when it first came on the market, and indications point to a continuance of the low prices, unless the stories of rot, materialize.

All the old vegetables are now out of the market, with but a few old potatoes, and some beans, parsnips and rutabagas, still being offered, but the new Minnesota grown vegetables have almost entirely replaced the old crops.

Not a little trouble is being experienced by the growers of the new Minnesota grown vegetables, as it is almost impossible to keep them fresh for more than two or three days. As there is a consequent rise in the price to 10 cents a dozen, the receipts are also lighter, and the market is a very tight figure, with prospects of a still further advance.

There has been little or no change in the poultry and meat prices during the week, and market conditions are about the same. The week has been a rather quiet one, and the receipts have been about the same. The market is a tight figure, with prospects of a still further advance.

JAPANESE REJOICING

Over the Success of the Expedition to Sakhalin Island.

Tokio, July 23, 6 p. m.—Lutloff on Sakhalin island to which point the Russians retreated, is some thirty miles southeast of Alexandrovsk, beyond a range of hills separating the Alexandrovsk district from the plain. Here the Russians are completely isolated owing to lack of roads. It is impossible for them to make a long stand and it is expected that they will soon be subdued. A victory over them will make the Japanese masters of the whole island. There is great rejoicing in Tokio over the success of the Sakhalin expedition and the landing at Krestamp light house is regarded as the first entry of the Japanese army into Russian territory proper.

Admiral Kato reports that the squadron sent to Kastr bay on July 21 found the light house at Krestamp abandoned. The fleet proceeded to Basalt island and observed four guns in the direction of Alexandrovsk postoffice. These guns opened fire but were immediately silenced. The city was burned and a building like a magazine exploded. Kastr bay is opposite Saghalin, sixty miles northeast of the Sakhalin town of Alexandrovsk.

CATCHING BIG TROUT.

Large Ones Being Landed at Isle Royale.

Big lake trout, averaging in weight from 8 to 20 pounds, and weighing in the aggregate 712 pounds, are claimed to have been the catch made by three boat loads of guests at Tobin's Harbor, Isle Royale, last Wednesday. News of the big catch, which is said to have been the banner one this year, was brought to Duluth today by T. A. Merritt, who has been spending a week at Tobin's Harbor. Mr. Merritt says that the run of lake trout on the reefs at Isle Royale this year is the largest ever known, and that big catches are the common thing. On the same day the big catch was made, Mrs. Shaw of this city, wife of the keeper of the Passage Island light house, caught with a small spoon hook, while trolling, a trout weighing 3½ pounds.

FRANCE'S RELATIONS

With Germany Said to Be Again Strained.

Paris, July 28.—France's relations with Germany are again showing signs of strain owing to the inability of Premier Rouvier and Ambassador Von Radolin to conclude a definite program for the Moroccan conference. The agreement of July 5 contemplated a joint program, but the arrangement of this program is causing renewed difficulty, particularly in connection with France's right to police the territory adjoining Algeria and supervise the maintenance of order throughout the empire.

FORGERIES DANGER AT BRIDGE CLEVER

Unknown Forger Had Book of Blank Checks Printed.

The cleverest forgeries reported to the Duluth police in years, are now being investigated by the department. Last evening six or seven reports of bogus checks were received by the department from different victims of the unknown forger. Among them were W. Davidson, B. J. Cook, G. Egdahl and others.

It is evident that the forger deliberately planned and carried out his scheme to defraud his victims. He had a book of blank checks printed, bearing the name of the Knudsen Exchange company, the checks being on the American Exchange bank. He then made out a number of checks for amounts varying from $25 to $50, payable to "P. Peterson." The writing was done in a firm, business-like hand, and signed with the name of E. M. Peterson, treasurer of the company. On the back of each check, in a different style of handwriting, was indorsed the name given on the check. The ordinary business man would not hesitate about cashing the check. Everything looked perfectly legal. The forger evidently had no trouble in getting rid of the paper, as he passed no less than six of the checks before evening. As soon as they were presented at the bank they were found to be false, as the company does not keep its account with the American Exchange bank. The forger secured about $125 or $150 in this way and made his escape.

The police have been furnished with a partial description of the man from the men who cashed the checks.

WILL PLAY FOR PURSE

Panton & White Team and Millers Will Clash.

Sunday afternoon the Panton & White baseball team will meet the Millers in what promises to be one of the hottest games of the season.

The game, which will be played at 3:30 p. m., will be for a purse of $300, which has been put up by the members of the two teams, as a result of the warm rivalry which has existed between them throughout the season.

The two lines are among the best amateur teams at the Head of the Lakes, and the game Sunday will undoubtedly be a fast one.

The Oak Hall team has been reorganized with George Loh as captain, Bert Peering as manager, and Lawrence Smith as treasurer, and it is now looking for trouble. The address of the manager is 2096 West Fifth street.

POLICE GET FUGITIVES

Capture Four Men Wanted in Three Different Cities.

The fourth fugitive from justice to be arrested in Duluth within twenty-four hours, was captured by Detective Schulte last evening. In the person of Otto Tim, Tim is wanted in Milwaukee on a charge of embezzlement. The details of the arrest are not known by the local police, but he had received a request for his arrest if he were discovered here, and the request was complied with.

The chief of police of Milwaukee was notified and a telegram was received in reply this morning, stating that he was sending a man after the prisoner.

The first of the four fugitives to be caught was Angus McDonald, who was arrested yesterday morning at the request of the authorities at Cheboygan, Mich., where he was wanted for obtaining money under false pretenses. The other two men were caught at Lakeside last evening, after walking in from Knifs River, where they were claimed to have obtained money in a fraudulent manner on a time check.

All four men will be sent back to the different cities where they are wanted, today.

OUT OF BUSINESS.

Pest House Closed After Eleven Months' Use.

For the first time in more than eleven months, the pest house is empty, and arrangements have been made by the health department to close it indefinitely.

This means that there are no cases of smallpox in the city at the present time, the last patient having been discharged from the pest house several days ago.

There have been a few odd cases reported in the city during the last year, and these together with the patients brought from the ranges kept the pest house open. But the city is now once more entirely free from the disease and the house will be closed.

TO FEED TRAMPS.

Michigan Woman Leaves a Fund of $10,000.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 28.—The will of Mrs. Almira Kramer, just read in the presence of the heirs, astonishes them by a trust fund of $10,000 to be used to feed tramps. Senator Burrows, who is named as trustee, will have charge of the money. All applications must be made by tramps at the police department, where each tramp will be presented with a ticket entitling him to a square meal at a restaurant. If the tramp wishes, he may have a hot bath. Senator Burrows drew up the will for the woman, who was 80 years of age when she died. The heirs will not contest, as the residue of the property amounts to $105,000.

Wooden Structure Over Talmadge Creek In Bad Condition.

County Commissioners Say Bridge Should Be Rebuilt Immediately

The wooden bridge over Talmadge creek, about eleven miles from the city, on the northern shore, must be rebuilt at once. Such is the opinion of County Commissioners F. W. Kugler, E. M. Patterson and John Sundeen, who were out in Commissioner Kugler's district yesterday looking over county roads.

The commissioners claim that the bridge is in a very dangerous condition for team traffic and they have asked that people driving across it do so with great care until temporary repairs are made pending the rebuilding of the bridge. The temporary repairs are likely to be in the way of supporting posts of other timbers to strengthen the bridge at a point where the old timber work has rotted away. The Talmadge creek was built about fifteen years ago and is quite an imposing wooden structure with a span of 100 feet over the creek, resting on piers on either side and the floor of the bridge fully thirty feet above the water. It was built by Samuel McQuade, former sheriff of St. Louis county.

The condition of the bridge will be presented to the county board at the next meeting, Aug. 9, with a view of discussing ways and means of securing funds with which to build a new structure. The funds left in the treasury from last year's levy for the purpose of road and bridge improvement, are dwindling to small amounts for some of the districts, being practically exhausted for at least one commissioner district. At present time there is not enough money left in Commissioner Kugler's district road fund to meet the expense of a new bridge. It may be possible that the new bridge will have to await until the levy made this year is available.

The county commissioners strongly favor replacing all the old wooden bridges with iron and steel bridges and it is likely that this will be done in the case of the Talmadge creek bridge. While the iron bridges cost more in the first place they last so much longer that the county really saves money in the long run by having them.

The present necessity also calls attention to the claim that some of the county authorities have always advanced, that provision should be made in every annual road appropriation for an emergency fund with which to meet the cost of new bridges when circumstances arise demanding that they be erected at once. The practice has been to divide the road fund among the several road districts and when each sub-division has its share of the road work or for repairs, there is nothing left to draw on in an emergency.

BACK FROM RANGE.

Oliver Mining Company Engineers Inspect Industries.

The party of ten Oliver Mining company engineers, who held a business meeting in Duluth Tuesday last, leaving in the evening on a special train over the Iron Range road for Ely, returned to the city this morning, and about 8 o'clock started for Thompson, the scene of the Northern Power company's operations, on another special. On the way back from Thompson they visited the Zenith-Bias Furnace, which is situated at West Duluth. The nine outside engineers leave over the Omaha at 5:30 o'clock for their homes in the East. W. A. McGonagill and A. B. Wolvin went with the party today. The engineers making up the party are: John Reis and M. A. Neeland, New York; F. H. Daniels, Worcester, Mass.; S. E. By, Pittsburg; L. Holmboe, Chicago; P. C. Patterson, McKeesport, Pa.; E. E. Silk, Pittsburg; G. E. Huttematter, Pittsburg; H. J. Westinghouse, Duluth.

Crops Looking Well.

Q. Richards, a large farmer at Kenmare, N. D., in Ward county, was in the city today visiting on the Duluth board of trade. He says that crops in his vicinity are doing very well, and he looks upland splendidly when he left. From Harvey to Courtenay, along the line of the railroad, the grain looks poorly, but general wheat acreage in the country through which he passed has a fine appearance. From Glenwood to Minneapolis, however, it did not look so well.

TAFT GIVEN A LUNCHEON Americans the Guests of Japanese Minister of War.

Tokio, July 28.—Gen. Terauchi, Japanese minister of war, entertained Secretary Taft and party today at a luncheon and garden party in the famous gardens surrounding the arsenal. The guests, elder statesmen and many officers of the army and navy were present. The party numbered 250. Lunch was served in a temporary pavilion which was almost covered with American and Japanese flags. Gen. Terauchi escorted Miss Alice Roosevelt and Madame Terauchi was escorted by Secretary Taft and Miss Alice Roosevelt was escorted by General Terauchi, who also led the cheering for him. When Minister Grisco proposed the health of the emperor of Japan, the Americans present arose and gave three "Banzais" and three American cheers.

Gen. Terauchi proposed the health of Secretary Taft and Miss Alice Roosevelt. Secretary Taft, in toasting the Japanese army, dwelt chiefly on its record in the Chinese wars and boxer uprising, and on questions connected with its organization and leadership. He did not refer to the present war.

Both Minister Grisco and Secretary Taft heartily thanked the Japanese for their kindness. The secretary eulogized Grisco's services as minister. Grisco composed an original poem composed in honor of the visit of the Americans. After the luncheon an hour was spent in viewing the extensive gardens.

THOSE WHO HAVE DIED John Carbut, Well Known Photographic Inventor Passes Away.

Philadelphia, July 28.—John Carbut, known to photographers the world over, is dead at his home in this city, aged 73 years. He had been a sufferer from Bright's disease for more than a year. Mr. Carbut came to this city from Sheffield, England, in 1853. He was skilled as a chemist and made scientific photography his life study. The Photographers' Association of America chose him as their first president and he acted as official photographer when the Canadian Pacific railroad was constructed. He made several inventions facilitating the taking of pictures in color, chief of which was the orthochromatic plate. In 1879 he perfected his widely known "Carbut dry plate," which revolutionized the trade.

Boston, July 28.—Word has been received by cable of the death in Seoul, Korea, Wednesday, of Arthur S. Dixey, private secretary to United States Minister Morgan. He was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1902 and was a native of Boston.

New York, July 28.—H. R. Vonderhorst, secretary of the Brooklyn Baseball club, died today from heart failure, due to aneurism of the aorta. He was born fifty-four years ago in Baltimore.

Chicago, July 28.—George Z. Work, long a leading wholesale tailor of Chicago, died suddenly last night of heart failure while riding on an electric car.

SUICIDE

Of Actor Hawtrey's Former Wife in London.

London, July 28.—Mrs. Charles Hawtrey's supposed suicide at the Alexandra hotel, opposite Hyde Park corner, by throwing herself off a balcony, was a horrible affair.

Although Mrs. Hawtrey has not been seen about of late years, since she left her husband, an actor, who last spring presented "A Message From Mars" in Duluth, she is well known. She was the daughter of Mrs. Bagot Chester.

Those who were passing the hotel at the time she fell say the scream she gave as she dropped was something that could never be forgotten. She crashed against the railings and from them to the ground. She was once a witness in a disreputable cause celebre in Paris. She was never able to go anywhere alone, and had a nurse with her when the accident occurred.

COUPLE MARRIED TWICE, After Fifteen Years, First Ceremony Thought Illegal.

Portland, Or., July 28.—Adam Knobla and Mary Anna Magdalena Melor were married about fifteen years ago under the old contract law in California. They are now about forty years old, and have lived happily together since their marriage. Though ignorant of the law, the wife lately began to suspect they were not legally married under the Oregon laws, and suggested to her husband that they get a license here. Together they went to County Clerk Fields, where they finally secured a license. When they arrived at home they discovered that that part of the license certifying to the solemnizing of the marriage was blank, and a hurried trip was made back to the clerk, who explained to the singularly ignorant couple that the services of a minister or other qualified person were necessary.

INSURANCE SCANDAL

Investigation of Another Company Shows Some Crooked Work.

Management of Mutual Reserve Life of New York Condemned.

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—Concealment of judgments against the company amounting to $152,767, exaggeration of its surplus by over $300,000 and a fixed policy of delay in settling claims, are some of the charges made against the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company by Chief Examiner Isaac Vanderpool in his report submitted to State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks and yesterday made public by him.

The examination was begun last December and covers a period back to 1890. The company has headquarters in New York city and claims assets of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

Examiner Vanderpool says that the management of the company made no mention of these judgments in its annual report for the year 1904.

"Of the $154,912.35 reported by the company in its last annual statement as being due or accrued for salaries, rents, office expenses, taxes, bills, accounts, etc.," says he, "$152,767.22 consisted of judgments entered against this company. I am constrained to believe that the return of this item after the manner stated could not have been the result of an inadvertence, and certainly constituted a concealment of facts sufficient to render the company's sworn statement for 1904 materially inaccurate.

Further variations, in addition to those appearing in credit assets and policy reserve, as between the figures published in the company's last annual statement and similar items embodied in this report, are produced in the item of unpaid death claims Dec. 31, 1904.

"They are returned in the annual statement of the company at $796,704.31. As the result of this examination the amount is shown to be $31,429.30. The company's last annual statement, says the report, "produces a so-called surplus of unassigned funds amounting to $359,211.53. The examination just completed fixes this item at $23,421.18."

The report shows in detail how insurance amounting at one time to $1,232,000.72, finally yielded its benefits of $300,000 on account of an indebtedness ascertained by the company to exist against the assured, with a further deduction of $228,883.93, retained by the company for the various alleged violations of contract by the insured.

"Making due allowance for the time it may occupy to thoroughly investigate all questionable death claims," says the examiner, "I think that as the result of the examination it is quite clearly in evidence that the company has adopted a settled policy of delay in withholding the approval necessary to constitute an admission by it of receipt of satisfactory evidence of death in the case of all claims under policies or certificates issued while the company was operating under articles of the insurance law. From the date of such approval ninety days is the specified time within which payment is to be made."

"The average period elapsing between the filing of proofs of death, which were being investigated, and the payment of the claim, is so lengthy as to be a matter of public concern."

The report also points out the severe criticism in its treatment of these beneficiaries, many of whom must be subjected to no little suffering and distress by this seemingly inconceivable procrastination on the company's part in the payment of its just debts to policy holders."

In 1896 the department recommended that the company establish a sinking fund to offset the depreciation of leases. The suggestion was adopted, but, says the examiner, "the fund appears to have been abandoned some time ago, for in ten years it has reached but $56,943.76. The sum of $42,000 has, however, been borrowed from this fund and is charged to mortuary account. The balance, therefore, after the loan to the latter account, reduces the sinking fund to $14,943.76. Instead of $165,590, the amount which now represents it, under the recommendation made in 1896 by the appraiser of the insurance department."

The report alleges that commissions paid by the Mutual Reserve fund for securing the membership of the Northern Life Assurance company of Chicago, in 1900, "never seems to have been received by it. The receiver's report since the re-insurance was effected shows no revenue from this source. The commission went to third parties."

Frederick A. Burnham is president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company.

LIVELY CONTEST

Among Members of State Board of Investment.

St. Paul, July 28.—A lively contest among the members of the state board of investment over the proposed sale of $200,000 worth of Virginia bonds held by the permanent school fund is expected. The sale is proposed by State Treasurer Julius H. Block and it is said that Chief Justice C. M. Start, who is a member of what is called the "big board of investment" which must pass on matters of this nature, is strenuously opposed to the sale.

The proposition will be presented to the board at a meeting in a few days and it is said that Chief Justice Start is already ready to state his opposition. Objections have been raised to the proposed sale, based on the fact that the bonds are not registered in Minnesota securities as it is proposed, some of the municipalities by bringing pressure to bear on the legislature might repudiate their debts.

The Virginia bonds bear 3 per cent interest, and it is proposed to reinvest the money in Minnesota securities at 4 per cent.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Four men were killed Thursday by the wrecking of an east bound freight train on the Northern Pacific, between Myers and Big Horn, about seventy miles east of Billings, Mont. The washing out of an iron bridge over a small stream caused the engine and four cars to plunge into the stream.

August Pfaff of Chicago, who was killed while on a visit to his native home in Germany, for having deserted from the German army thirty-one years ago, has been released. This information was contained in a letter received by his son. No details concerning the release were given.

Philip Carlin of Minneapolis has been appointed general organizer for the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. His headquarters will be in Minneapolis and his territory includes the United States, Canada, Mexico, West Indies and the Hawaiian Islands.

The town of Gornie, B. C., was nearly destroyed by fire Thursday. The damage is $50,000.

In sight of restorers at Gold Springs, Mich., on the Black river, Miss Fanny Hochfelder, aged 18, of Chicago, and William Heald, aged 9 years, son of W. H. Heald, proprietor of the resort, were killed Thursday, for violating the high license liquor law. The party failed to secure a liquor license. Bonds were furnished and the picketers were allowed to go home.

Miss Julia Knox Wheeler, daughter of Gen. Joseph Wheeler, was married to William Julius Harris of Georgia, in New York, Thursday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Ernest H. Starnes at St. Thomas Protestant church. The three sisters of Miss Wheeler were the maids of honor.

DETROIT, July 28.—The veteran driver, Ed F. Geers, who on Monday drove Walter Direct to victory in the Chamber of Commerce stakes at the Grrosse Pointe track, yesterday followed up his achievement by capturing first money with the chestnut gelding, Hal C. in the Chamber of Commerce consolation. Geers trailed most of the way in the two heats that he won and forged to the front under the very shadow of the well-lit grand stands. Again in the 216 trot, which Cleveland M. the favorite, won in straight heats, Geers made splendid drives with Turkey in the home stretch in each heat, finishing a close second in all three.

After the first heat of the Chamber of Commerce consolation, the judges put back Curry up behind. Abuta, being dissatisfied with Walker's driving.

Saugus, Mass., July 28.—The New Hampshire station, Harrison Wilkes, reduced the trotting record at the local track yesterday from 2:12 1/2 to 2:11 1/2, in the 216 trot. The former Baltimore mare, Abuta, was the best almost to the wire. Every event on the program was interesting, as the winners were in doubt until the very end. The favorites that were Mixed Wood and Harrison Wilkes. The victory of Larabee Rose was entirely unexpected. Horses which received their previous records were Harrison Wilkes, to 2:11 1/2; Larabee Rose, to 2:13 1/2, and Princess Leola, to 2:14 1/2.

Some Town Can Have Company. In the Third Regiment.

St. Paul, July 28.—There is an excellent chance for some enterprising town of the state to secure a company in the Third regiment of the Minnesota National Guard. The towns of the state do not seem to be tumbling over themselves, however, to fill the vacancy caused by the mustering out of the company at Brainerd.

The company was mustered out by the adjutant general some time ago, Alexandria and Bemidji both asked for the company, and were seriously considered by the adjutant general. Neither city could furnish an armory, however, and thus far no city has fulfilled the requirements for the mustering in of a local company.

Within the next year or so nine more companies will be added to the national guard of the state, in order to meet the requirements of the Dick bill under which the guard receives government aid for maintenance. Under this law each regiment must have twelve companies. At present the three Minnesota regiments have nine companies each.

It will be a comparatively easy matter to fill up the First regiment, as Minneapolis will probably put in two more companies. Room for six companies has been provided in the new armory. It will be a more difficult matter to add three companies to the Second regiment in the southern part of the state, and three more to the Third regiment, in the northern part of the state. This will require some energetic recruiting.

JOPLIN YOUTHS

Robbed a Sunday School and Begun Rioting.

Joplin, Mo., July 28.—To obtain money for drink Harry and Frank Buie of this city stole a half gallon of pennies belonging to the Baptist Sunday school. Promptly they began rioting. Pennies were scattered to the winds. For a time they lived recklessly and then the police became suspicious and the two young spenders were placed under arrest.

They admitted the theft of the money from J. M. Newcomb, superintendent of the Sunday school, who had accumulated the pennies from the Sunday school collections.

CONVICT'S STRIPES

In Sight For Many Men of International Importance.

Remarkable Collection of Criminal Cases In New York.

New York, July 28.—Never before has New York had such a remarkable collection of criminal cases as District Attorney Jerome will have to press for trial within the next three or four months. Some of the men who will be called to the bar are not only of national, but of international prominence. Lawyers of great influence and ability, financiers who have had the handling of not only millions, but hundreds of millions of dollars, and men high in political and high social life are numbered among the lot who must stand before judge and jury to have it decided whether prison cells and felon stripes are to be their portion.

There are nearly a dozen trials set, or likely to be set, for the autumn term, and which one of the most important take rank as a celebrated case, and present indications are that not only all these cases will go to the hearing, but that more of like rank will be added to them as a result of the grand jury investigation of Equitable Life affairs. The public prosecutor is now engaged in an examination of the testimony taken by Insurance Superintendent Hendricks, and it can be set down as a safe prophecy that at least three persons will be indicted in this case.

The trials of A. H. Hummel, Benjamin Steinhardt and former Supreme Court Justice Fursman on charges of conspiracy in connection with the DeGoe-Morse divorce case are set for October. It is a long time since a jurist of the rank of Mr. Fursman has been brought to such a pass, and it is many a year since a lawyer of the commanding ability of Mr. Hummel has been in such imminent danger of wearing a convict's suit. And it is a generation or more since a great millionaire has been mixed up in such matrimonial tangle and such a peculiar scandal as involves Charles W. Morse.

No one can tell how many persons will be indicted and sent to prison because of the Town Topics and "Fads and Fancies" revelations. The whole story in connection with this affair has not been told, and is not likely to be told. It involves too many persons. Charles H. Ahle, the one man arrested, is only a small fish in the blackmail pool.

One thing that has puzzled many persons in regard to these blackmail cases is, "How do the blackmailers happen to get information so damaging to so many persons that they can make a regular business of levying tribute on indiscreet men and women?" Possibly, if the public knew how close a working arrangement there is between the professional blackmailers and certain criminal lawyers, they would understand. These lawyers, in their professional capacity, come to know many things about men and women of prominence. This information they get in this way may, or may not, have any bearing on the law cases in which they are involved, but they find it advantageous to "tip off" the blackmailers' union for a share of the plunder.

The year 1905 has been marked already by the number of lawyers who figure as defendants in criminal cases. Only a few weeks ago J. W. Wooten was sentenced to nine years away from home for grand larceny in connection with the case of David Rothschild, formerly president of the Federal National bank, and who is now serving a long term for wholesale swindling. Al-derise is in prison for forgery. Thos. P. Wickes, a former assistant district attorney, is out on bail awaiting trial on a charge of attempted blackmail through the famous "Jarvis" letters. Then there are Sam J. Ferguson and Armitage Matthews, who are to be tried in September on charges growing out of their connection with Wooten. The murder of Millionaire Rice by Lawyer Albert T. Pack was he recalled when David L. Short and Maurice Meyers, both lawyers, are brought to trial for forgery in connection with the checks which Rice is alleged to have signed.

There are six prisoners now in the most interesting of the lot, but they are not the French girl slave, who shot and killed Emil Gerdon as he was being led to jail on charges of threatening to kill her.

At present there are 332 persons under indictment for various offenses. A large number of them are accused of receiving stolen goods. These comparatively small cases do not give the district attorney much trouble save for their numbers. They are "put to the bat" with all possible speed, and guilt or innocence is quickly established. It is the greater offenders, whose cases are so complicated, and which involve so many people, that occupy the greater share of his attention. Investigation of cases like the Equitable scandal or the blackmailing of prominent persons lead up to disclosures of graft, which require the most diligent search, and which often result in the finding of new criminals.

Mr. Jerome's term of office expires with the year. He will have all the fighting he wants between now and Jan. 1. It will be the supreme test of his powers. He will have to meet the greatest aggregation of legal talent ever assembled in defense of accused men in this city.

If he falls he will be classed as a great prosecutor.

If he falls he will be classed with the failures.

SHE MADE BETS

On the Races and Would Make Another Despite Police.

Energetic Grass Widow Who Married Circus Strong Man.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., July 28.—Mrs. Naomi Covay Duncombe Ring, twice a millionaire, owner of a theater, who, when a widow fair and somewhat over 40, married Patrick J. Ring, strong man and wrestler of a one-ring circus, after thrashing him soundly with a horse-whip for an escapade with a rival, says she is still strong enough to give him another beating and will do it on sight.

This is because she believes Ring—no longer her fireside companion in fact, whom she is suing to get possession of her $50,000 opera house—inspired the police raid on the alleged poolroom for women on Eighth avenue last New Year's in which she was caught. In reply to the allegation that she was the "woman with the bank roll" back of the establishment, Mrs. Ring hotly declared, while jolling in a rich Persian chair in her handsome old mansion on South Third avenue:

"I am not the backer of any poolroom. I was simply there making a bet. I put $5 on Clifton and won $7. Everybody in Mount Vernon knows that I never did anything that was a discredit to me, except that I went to the race track. It is nobody's business if I did bet. I would make a bet tomorrow, if I got a good tip and I wouldn't care a rap for all the police and detectives of New York. I wouldn't have been caught in the raid if that woman detective hadn't fooled me." The woman detective to whom Mrs. N. C. D., etc., Ring referred, was Mrs. Harriet Lewis, who was in the place at the time of the raid. She had lured Mrs. Ring down, it is said, with the bait that she "had a good thing."

"I am sure my husband told her to watch me," continued Mrs. Ring, "and caused the raid to humiliate me. I will use the Kentucky style, but I am strong enough to thrash him now."

And she looked as if she meant it. Ring, who caused the raid on the Eighth street resort, says that the race track touts and gamblers are bleeding his wife for her fortune, and that she has lost in this manner between $75,000 and $100,000. "She bets $50 and $100 on a race," said he. "She gets reckless. One day last week she lost $250, I am told. She has been in the courts seventeen years and lawyers and gamblers have got her money. She begged me to marry her. She had an ante-nuptial agreement drawn up and gave me a one-half interest in the opera house. After we had been married she promised to give me half of the one-half of all her property, but she didn't."

Mrs. Ring's life has been full of strenuous romance. For the last ten years "Pat" Ring has shared publicly with her in a score of sensational incidents. When Mrs. Duncombe and Ring, whom she made manager of her estate before their wedding, were not contributing to the safety of the little city her pretty granddaughter, who had the center of the stage in a double romance, out of which grew Justice Dicksey's famous decision that Dakota divorcees have no value in New York state.

The divorcee's widow, relict of Alfred Hall Duncombe, millionaire brush manufacturer, was sued by her grandchildren for the letters of the property of the deceased, which they claimed had been given to them before his death. The divorcee's daughter, Naomi, who was being besieged by lovers after leaving a Montreal convent, Charles A. Hollister, an ardent young civil engineer, was the successful suitor, the pair eloping to Connecticut, where they were married.

That was in November, 1900. Young Hollister came home one night to find his wife dressed in a pose and stormed his grandmother's home. The Duncombe retainers, led by trial lawyer, opened fire on Hollister's crowd, and he was served with a notice that his wife was being divorced.

After Mrs. Hollister had obtained her divorce she returned to Mount Vernon and became the bride of Edward W. Valentine. Hollister sued Mrs. Valentine for absolute divorce and $25,000 for the value for alienation of his wife's affections. He recovered a verdict for $10,000 and was granted a divorce.

Mrs. Hollister was forbidden to marry during the life of her first husband. Mrs. Hollister has continued to live with her second husband, with the approval of her grandmother. Mrs. Hollister has received threatening anonymous letters.

QUITS CASTLE FOR A SHANTY

British Lord Lives as Hermit in Wilds of Arizona.

Phoenix, Ariz., July 28.—From castle haunts to a garbage dump, from a child's dry bed of green lawns in the shady parks of "Merrie England" to a brush shack on desolate sand dunes near the life of a hermit in a foreign land, Philip Neville, baron of Latimer, is but a mild hint of the startling and perhaps heart-breaking contrasts that have marked up the life of Philip E. Neville, baron of Latimer.

Different from most men whose continuous struggle to attain an empire belongs to him, Neville has spent his later years in recalling the fact of his gentle birth, repudiating the title that justly belongs to him and living the life of a hermit in a foreign land, pinched and poverty stricken, but proud and dignified in his own spirit. Neville, who was a scrooge and his mysterious life story is hard to unravel. Never yet has he disclosed the reason for his forsaking the home and seven centuries ago other than to intimate that it was the result of differences with relatives. It is known, though, that he is on friendly terms with an aunt, who has addressed him letters as "Lord Neville," and who has urged him to return to the land of his nativity and claim his own. It was a bill of exchange for $5,000 that first gave proof of his identity.

Perhaps but once in the history of any Phoenix church has there ever been a Sunday collection as lively as the one that took place on the Sunday of the world's goods, the incident suggested that the donor had inadvertently placed the wrong package in the basket, and in a desire to correct the mistake, if such it proved to be, Neville was sought and found, when he announced that his contribution was deliberate; that he took pleasure in doing that which he had hitherto been unable to do for years for the betterment of mankind; and the spread of Christianity. He said he had recently acquired considerable money and could afford the liberal donation.

Such an incident could not remain a secret, and further inquiry brought out the fact that his recently acquired wealth and the amount of it, as well as its source.

It was known that Neville lived in a shack on the garbage dump in the principal occupation and seemingly his sole source of revenue was the melting of the solder and other by-products that he might find. He bitterly resented the stories the papers printed concerning him. He was at first angry that a prying world should interfere in his affairs, but finally consented to say something regarding himself and to pose for pictures, though the last concession he considered as positively insulting.

Neville said that he was not a baron at the present time, though of right he ought to be. The barony of Latimer, several centuries ago, escheated to the crown. He is the lineal descendant who, had his rights been preserved, would be addressed as Baron Latimer.

The $5,000 is but an installment of what belongs to him, but whether the rest will ever be received is uncertain depending to some extent, no doubt, on his own movements. But little more could be learned of his legacy, though the letters from his aunt, who addresses him as Lord Neville, are affectionately written and entreat him to return to his home in Hertfordshire and claim his own. This, he says, he will not do, but will spend the remainder of his days in the land of his adoption. He only says there was a family estrangement and he has cast off forever certain of his relatives with whom he presumably would be brought in contact were he to return.

The aunt alone seems steadfast in her friendship and is doing all she can in his behalf. He says it is his own affair and the curious have already learned more about him than he desires as well as he knows.

ONCE WORKED IN DULUTH. James Hynd's Body Saved From Potter's Field.

Minneapolis, July 28.—The badly decomposed body of James Balthazone Hynd, the 22-year-old Scotchman drowned in the Mississippi river near the east end of the Tenth avenue bridge, Sunday, July 18, was recovered by power house employees about noon Wednesday. Hynd was a member of the local carpenters' union. This organization had left instructions to have the body, when found, removed to Amor & Co. local undertakers. When Coroner Estler was notified of the finding of the body, instead of viewing the remains, he ordered Morgue Keeper Mortenson to take the body to the potter's field at the poor farm, near Hopkins.

The morgue keeper brought the body to the morgue, and at 3 o'clock started for the poor farm cemetery with Hynd's decomposed body. By this time Hynd's carpenter friends had learned of the finding of their craftsman's remains and of its journey to the potter's field.

When the morgue keeper drew up to the poor farm preparatory to interring the body, he was stopped by a request from the carpenters' union committee to bring the body back to the city, and place it with Amor & Co., which he did.

Yesterday the body was buried in Layman's cemetery under the auspices of the union. After Hynd's friends of the carpenters' craft had telephoned the police, they went out and identified the remains as those of Hynd.

Hynd has a sister living in Pittsburg. He came to this country about two years ago from Glasgow, Scotland, and has worked in Scranton, Pa., Duluth and Minneapolis.

TWO MOLES A MINUTE

To Be the Speed of
New Motor Cars in Germany.

Test Line Between the Cities of Hamburg and Berlin.

Berlin, July 28.—After years of patient study and experiments involving millions of dollars, it is thought that at least the "high speed" long distance electrical locomotive is about to be put to actual commercial use; i. e., with an ability, if needed, to run at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

The test line will probably be built between the cities of Hamburg and Berlin. The distance is, to be exact, 178 miles, and is now covered by high grade steam locomotives with coaches in three hours and twenty-four minutes, or at the rate of fifty-two miles an hour. A proposition has been laid before the German emperor and the Reichstag to lay the bed and track and equip rolling stock to establish a service that will travel the 178 miles between the two cities in a trifle over one hour and forty-five minutes. An operating schedule based on this time, 100 miles an hour—is guaranteed as a part of the proposition, and the Allgemeine Elektricitäts Gesellschaft of Berlin, one of the largest general electric companies in the world, offers to do the work for $32,500,000.

The Allgemeine Elektricitäts Gesellschaft does not look upon this undertaking as the limit of high speed traction. It goes further, it says plainly to the German government:

"If you would go a trifle faster, say 125 miles an hour, you may do so for $45,000,000."

Up to date the German government has not decided to accept this offer. Neither has it rejected it. That the proposition is under consideration is assured, because it drew out of experiments in high speed traction tests on a road, the use of which was permitted by the government to the very people now suggesting the establishment of the new service.

The great German corporation making the offer demonstrated the feasibility of the new speed and the durability of their motors to the engineering world as far back as 1903, when trials at Zossen, over the German military road, were successfully made.

At these trials, now celebrated in the electrical world as an interesting and entirely new set of phenomena appeared. Dr. Shultz, President of the Imperial German railway department and chairman of the committee of study of the Zossen trials, thus describes what will soon constitute a part of the every-day trip between the two German cities:

"Instruments are to be read every ten seconds to take measure of speed and power. The engine and apparatus, founded by wires and apparatus that carries a current of 14,000 volts.

It will be possible to observe the standing on stations passed by the train at top speed cannot be recognized. No injurious effects will be felt by air pressure due to the train, but they have been caught by the electric motor, which moves faster than a bird's wing."

It is likely that remains of small birds and insects will be found after every trip on the front of the motor. Birds caught in the electric train, but they have been caught by the electric motor, which moves faster than a bird's wing."

Louis J. Magee of New York, one of the foremost electrical engineers of this country and the director in America of the Allgemeine Elektricitäts Gesellschaft, adds much of interest to the description of this new world-beating passenger train. He says:

"The passenger in the train drawn by a great electric motor should be much more comfortable than in those drawn by a steam locomotive, for the simple reason that the electric power is a non-rotary principle, or uniform in drawing power, while the steam power is a reciprocating power, or subject to a jerky motion of movement met with in electrically propelled cars."

"The rotary system is a great advantage. High speed is natural in a motor. You can get up maximum speed much faster than with the steam locomotive, and slow down with more uniformity of reduction and quicker."

"The new trains will carry no fire to ignite in case of an accident. There will be no boiler to burst, no steam to scald and blind, no gases to suffocate."

"It will be possible for the new motors to run at 125 miles an hour. It means more than two miles a minute, or within six miles an hour as fast as the fastest motor at the Zossen trials ran—121 miles. The roadbed of the new line is to be specially reinforced, the track perfectly straight, or with curves of more than a mile in radius and free from switches, except at the terminals, where facilities for switching trains and motor must, of course, be maintained."

"One stop in the 178 miles will be made about midway between Berlin and Hamburg."

"It has been found that the great obstacle to long-distance high speed electrical traction has been the enormous amount of power required to propel even a single car. The expense is stupendous."

The enormous amount of power required to propel electrically even a single car at speeds over 100 miles an hour is one of the principal objections to high speed on account of its great expense and the limited carrying capacity of the cars.

In the Zossen experiments it was found that the motor car, when accelerating up to 120 miles an hour, required 2,000 horse-power. At a constant speed of 110 miles an hour, 1,200 horse-power was expended. The head-

15 YEARS OF TORTURE

Itching and Painful Sores Covered
Head and Body.

CURED IN WEEK BY CUTICURA

"For fifteen years my scalp and forehead was one mass of sores, and my body was covered with sores. Words cannot express how I suffered from the itching and pain. I had given up hope when a friend told me to get Cuticura. After bathing with Cuticura Soap and applying Cuticura Ointment for three days, my head was as clear as ever, and to my surprise and joy, one cake of soap and one box of ointment made a complete cure in one week. (signed) H. B. Franklin, 717 Washington St., Allegheny, Pa."

and resistance, due to the atmosphere, at a speed of 120 miles an hour, was equivalent to 1,000 horse-power.

It was also found in the Zossen experiments that it was not safe to have a second car as a trailer, at very high speed on account of lateral oscillations, even on a track almost entirely straight.

For high speeds the track must be free from sharp curves, and very high speed, such as 100 miles an hour, can be accomplished only on a line where no curve has lesser radius than one mile. Such a service would require a reconstruction of American lines.

When the German government shall have told the Allgemeine Elektricitäts Gesellschaft to go ahead with its work of installing the fastest train service in the world, twelve months, or perhaps eighteen, will elapse before the first train starts.

Experts here say that the 100 miles an hour electrical motor service is not due in America for many years yet.

ROMANCE OF BRAVE MATRON

Mother of Six Becomes Lawyer and Will Defend Jews.

New York, July 28.—This is the romance of a brave woman.

Mother of six children and burdened with the cares of her house and her husband's business affairs, because of her husband's illness, Mrs. Sophie Mayer found time to study law, and, having passed the state bar examination with an average of 95 per cent will be sworn in this week as a lawyer.

Thirty years ago, as Sophie Rosenberg, Mrs. Mayer was a student in the Fourth Gymnasium in Warsaw, Poland. For proficiency in all her studies when she was graduated in 1875 she was presented with a silver medal by the Empress Maria Alexandrovna of Russia.

Adolph Mayer, the fine-looking young secretary of Legation from Switzerland, took her from the Warsaw department of education in 1882 and made her his bride. She then went to Cleveland, Ohio, where she lived for a few years. She was then well versed in Russian, French, Polish, German, Bohemian, Slavonic and Hebrew. She was the only Jewish woman permitted to teach and lecture in the schools.

When those of New York, excepting all Jews from Warsaw. Having relatives in Ohio, Mrs. Mayer persuaded her husband to go with her to Cleveland. There he entered a law office and conducted a law and real estate business as usual. Mrs. Mayer, however, was not content to sit at home. She began to study law, and, having passed the state bar examination with an average of 95 per cent will be sworn in this week as a lawyer.

How well she bore her burdens and overcame all difficulties is shown in the result of her examination.

DUCKING STOOL

May Be the Fate of a Woman
Scold.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 28.—Charged under the old blue laws of being a common scold, Mrs. Mary Frederick of this city was held by Magistrate Donohue in $500 bail for a further hearing. The prosecutrix is a neighbor of Mrs. Frederick. The magistrate said he would like to settle the case by imposing a fine, but that the law makes the offense an indictable one, to be tried before a jury, and if the defendant be found guilty the ducking stool is the only punishment provided.

Magistrate Donohue says:

"In this enlightened age public opinion would never stand for such a punishment, and that the next legislature should abolish it, providing a new law in keeping with the present civilization."

TRAINMEN

On Ohio Road Prohibited From Wearing Flowers.

Cincinnati, July 28.—"In future do not wear coats, or bouquets in the lapels of your coats, or any decorations of any kind that are not prescribed by the rules." This order, issued for the guidance of Western trainmen, was promulgated by the remarkable taste for variety and quantity of flowers worn by conductors and trainmen.

It is said the crisis came a few days ago when a trainman, while providing a new law in keeping with the present civilization.

KITCHENER GREATER

Than Indian Viceroy If His Army Plans Are Adopted.

Press of India Warns
England It Means Military Dictatorship.

Srinia, July 28.—The Indian Press continues to criticize Mr. Brodick's dispatch to the viceroy regarding the change in the position and duties of the commander-in-chief and the military member of the council in a tone strongly antagonistic to the secretary of state. The Times of India has published a special number containing articles representing Anglo-Indian opinion. Summarizing these, the Times of India says:

The position concerning the threatened resignation of the viceroy is aggravated by the tone of the final dispatch of the secretary of state. It contained no indication of a desire to smooth over existing differences of opinion, and no trace of willingness to accept the view of the government of India.

Mr. Brodick seems to have gloated over the chance of thrusting contemptuously aside the reasoned and widely held opinions of the whole of the chief administration in this country, apart from the commander-in-chief, or rather he appears to have gloried in emphasizing the severity of the blow. If it is felt that such a communication leaves the recipient only course of procedure it is not to be wondered at. Yet, if Lord Curzon cherished the intention ascribed to him by the press, he will reconsider his position.

"First and last, India has for him spelt doom. By remaining at his post he will serve India best and create an impression which will write itself indelibly upon the hearts of the people of India and ultimately upon that of Great Britain. Also, 'time is on his side.' The whole civil administration of the country is one on this question. He has the unflinching support of the whole of his administrative colleagues, and practically the whole of the press, both European and native, unite in protesting against the surrender of the Indian empire to a military dictatorship."

The issue has not yet been properly understood in England; it is not realized at home that great constitutional questions lie behind the controversy, and that the real effect of the new scheme will be to bind India hand and foot to the chariot of the commander-in-chief. It is the work of a man who is honestly convinced of the necessity for reform, of a soldier who is sincerely and, perhaps, rightly assured in his own mind that the army in India is not at present organized upon a basis which will enable it to resist a powerful foe; but it is also the product of one who faces the problem from an extremely limited outlook, who is utterly indifferent to the accepted principles of constitutional government, and who seems to know little, and care less, for the laborious and reasoned processes by which the policy of India has been built up. He sweeps away the serious arguments of argument against his scheme as though of no account. He pits the weight of his own personality against the cumulative testimony of innumerable civil and military authorities who have known India for generations."

Lord Kitchener came to India with preconceived ideas, knowing little of its people and its history, and of the principles underlying its system of control, and those ideas have never been seriously swayed. It is clear that when once firmly seated in the saddle under the new order, none will say that the viceroy remains in nominal control, but that he will be a mere figurehead, a bulwark of a commander-in-chief who supports his request by a batch of opinion and a crowd of obedient subordinates.

"We fear most of all the inevitable result of the utter subversion of a constitutional principle which Lord Kitchener's scheme implies. It is the work of a soldier whose life has been passed in places where he had no concern with the multifarious problems of administration and progress that beset a civilized government. It has gained acceptance not because the principles upon which it is based command the respect of the prevalent statesmanship, but because there is something in the figure of the viceroy which has been adopted in the face of the formidable opposition it has met. This is a government that has been established by the fortunes of the threatened resignation of Lord Kitchener. It has been established by the popularity of the estimate of Lord Kitchener's capacity as a military statesman, and by the fact that he has been able to win the approval of the military system of India after two years' acquaintance with it."

INNOCENT MAN FREE

After Serving Five Years in California Prison.

San Rafael, Cal., July 28.—That an innocent man has been confined in San Quentin for the past five years was the conclusion of the state board of prison discipline when they granted an unconditional parole to Charles H. Parks of Napa, who was sent up from Solano county in 1901 to serve twenty years for an alleged assault upon a young girl. Parks had all along maintained that he had absolutely no connection with the crime, but it was only last week that absolute proof was furnished that he was innocent. The case consists of an affidavit from the girl in which she exonerates Parks completely, and a confession from Dan Regan, who is now serving a sentence in Nevada for murder.

Parks' story is a pitiful one. He is now free, not even bound by the restrictions usually placed on a paroled prisoner, but he is far from happy. His young wife secured a divorce immediately upon his conviction. His meager savings and little home were swallowed up in fighting the case. His brother and aged mother also exhausted their funds in the cause. But what hurts him worst of all are the five years spent behind San Quentin's bars under the stigma of a disgusting felony.

The directors were unanimous in granting Parks an unconditional parole, and have sent a recommendation to the governor urging that he be pardoned immediately.

YOUNG ALLIGATOR

Is Found In a Creek at San Antonio.

San Antonio, Texas, July 28.—A young alligator was discovered in San Pedro creek by the women under Dixon Comstock, F. G. Huntress. The discovery was made at the crossing of the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass railway over the creek on Larso street. The alligator was basking on a log in the stream, and when disturbed sank into a pool of water close by. It was thought by the men who discovered the reptile that it was a crocodile, but it was a young alligator. This is one of the very few alligators that have been found in this vicinity. A few years ago one or two small ones were seen in San Antonio river. The alligator is a really good scavenger.

PUT AN END TO CRUEL ABUSES

Only Frenchmen of Character Can Wed In England.

London, July 28.—At last a practical arrangement has been concluded with regard to Anglo-French marriages which will put an end to cruel abuses.

It has just been settled between the two governments that no Frenchman will be able to wed an English girl in England unless he can produce a certificate from his consul.

The document must be drawn up in English, as well as in French, and must, moreover, have been approved by the authorities of the two countries. The intending bridegroom will have to go through all the formalities which are required in his native land, just as if he was about to marry one of his own fellow-countrywomen.

This will put an end to crying scandals. The French marriage laws are very strict and precise, and ignorance of them has brought many an English girl to ruin.

She has gone through the usual service in church or chapel, and has considered herself a lawful wife, until one day, when she was cynically informed by the man to whom she had confided her future, that, as the civil ceremony had been omitted, she had no legal claim on him.

Many a heart has been broken, many a life a family turned into the street, owing to the trust which the poor girl had reposed in her unworthy suitor.

These iniquities have too often been committed with deliberate calculation by unprincipled Frenchmen, who, who may contemptuously be called "the Frenchman," will be properly protected, but it would be just as well if she had additional inquiries instituted as to the exact social position, character and means of the foreigner who has expressed a desire to obtain her hand.

TEXAS MAKES RIFLEMEN.

Furnishes One-Fourth of Uncle Sam's Sharpshooters.

San Antonio, Texas, July 28.—The war department tables of the scores made by the troops in target practice during the target year of 1904 have been received at the department headquarters, and give a most interesting and exhaustive lot of data. On the whole the tables are most complimentary of the Southwestern division and the department of Texas, especially so of the infantry.

Among other things the tables show that the Southwestern division, composed of the department of Colorado and Texas, leads all other divisions, and the department of Texas gets third place among all the departments. Fort San Houston stands fourth in the list, and Company A of the Twenty-sixth infantry has the fifth place.

Leut. Linwood E. Hanson of the Twenty-sixth infantry made a remarkable record among the expert riflemen, having gained the eleventh place. In addition he possesses the best record in the army for slow firing at targets, making 211 out of a possible 225 points.

Leut. Alvin M. Graham of the Fourth cavalry gets seventh place among expert riflemen.

The tables show that the United States army has 235 expert riflemen, and of this number the department of Texas has furnished fifty-nine, or slightly higher than 25 per cent of the total number. Nine departments have contributed these expert riflemen, not including the Philippines department.

For average target work the Twenty-sixth infantry gets twelfth place among the forty-five regiments of the army.

"In Natal the white retail trader has been almost eliminated as the result of Asiatic competition. The inhabitant of the Transvaal sees the same process going on with alarming rapidity in some of the smaller towns of his own colony. Owing to his low standard of living the Asiatic retail trader has an enormous advantage in the contest with his white competitor."

NO DAMAGES
For Man Behind Big Hat at Play.

New York, July 28.—A Paris cable to the West says: Mr. H. on May 3 last, bought two upper circle seats, Nos. 55 and 57, at the Sarah Bernhardt theater.

When the curtain rose he found that seat No. 57, exactly in front of him, was occupied by a hat of such size that the curtain might as well have remained down for all he could see of the stage. The wearer having refused to remove her hat, he gave up his seats and bought others at a higher price in the stalls. He has just sued Mme. Sarah Bernhardt for the extra sum which he had to pay before he could see the play and $9 damages. But the court has decided against him on the ground that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who explicitly forbidding the wearing of hats in the stalls, does not guarantee a view of the stage unimpeded by such obstructions to spectators in any other part of the house.

RATTLER

Killed By Men Attracted By Woman's Cries.

Mount Holly, N. J., July 28.—Mrs. Henry W. Roberts of Marlton, while strolling through the woods found herself near a rattlesnake, whose thickest part was as large as a man's arm.

The snake made no attack upon Mrs. Roberts, but she struck the reptile with a stick, when the snake coiled up in an attitude of defiance, and she struck it with a rattlesnake and a button. Her cries for help brought several men to her assistance and the dangerous serpent was killed.

LOVE IN CODE

France May Amend Marriage Code In Important Particular.

Cupid Seldom Brings About Unions In That Country.

Paris, July 28.—At the present time a not inconsiderable number of Frenchmen are living in the fear that the law may compel them, under penalty, to love their wives.

It is not that these men do not already possess some sort of affection for their partners in life, but there is no knowing what awkward interpretation the ladies might put upon the new reading of the law. Hitherto the French marriage code has limited itself to declaring that the contracting parties owe each other mutual esteem, fidelity and succor. Nothing is mentioned about love. An eminent playwright, M. Paul Hervey, however, thinks that people who enter the bonds of wedlock should also be required by law to love one another. M. Hervey expressed his views before a parliamentary committee formed to consider certain reforms in the code, and apparently a majority of the members are inclined to share his view, on the ground that it is in the interests of morality for the law to recognize love in matrimony.

Curiously enough, love enters very little indeed into the making of the vast majority of French marriages. French people as a rule marry because it is to their mutual interests. In aristocratic marriages love is seldom even taken into consideration. It is purely a question of convenience, of decorum, of mutual convenience.

Among the middle or bourgeois classes marriage is principally a question of pounds, shillings and pence. A manufacturer, a lawyer, an official, an officer of a merchant looks forward in contracting a marriage to finding in the shape of his wife's dowry value corresponding to the position he holds or the annual income he derives from his profession or business.

One of the first cares of a French father is to provide a dowry for each of his daughters, and according to the value of the dowry he can command a more or less suitable husband for his daughter. The larger the dowry the more exacting will he become as to the status of a possible son-in-law. Suitably presented to nearly always arranged by the parents or near relations on both sides. The young Frenchman who decides it is time to marry seldom fixes his choice on any particular girl. He follows his relatives to look around for him. He manages to obtain, by various well-known artifices, a view of the person who is engaged to him, as a suitable partner, and if she is suitably presented to please him, and the two families can come to terms as regards money matters, the proposal is made in due form. In France, hasty marriages, long engagements and unbroken promises are practically unknown.

Nevertheless, it is a remarkable fact that the proportion of unhappy French marriages is comparatively small. The natural reason is to be found in the fact that the French method of marrying young people, with its absence of any preconceived affection, works as badly as might be imagined.

CLOVER CROP Menaced By Boys Who Raid Bees' Nests.

Allentown, Pa., July 28.—Small boys, who hunt down bumble bees and rifle their nests of honey, are believed to be responsible for the partial failure of the clover crop in Lehigh county. Farmers, upon the advice of a leuciscent, wish to have a law enacted to protect the wild bees.

It is a scientific fact that clover growth is dependent upon cross-fertilization of the blossoms by bees, which carry the pollen from one bloom to another while gathering honey. Of late years bumble-bee hunting has been the prime sport of the small boy in Lehigh county, and the result is a great scarcity of these insects.

IOWA FOLK By Hundreds Gather Along Mississippi River.

Clinton, Iowa, July 28.—The annual exodus of Clinton folk to the canning places up and down the Mississippi river is in progress. Camping out is one of the most popular forms of recreation in Clinton, and hundreds of persons from this city are now in camp, spending their summer vacations in their cottages at the mouth of the Waples. Reed's and Keizer's Landings, Lainsville, Elk River, the Docta and the hundred other pretty spots where there is such a demand for temporary quarters that parties are obliged to wait their turns at the up and down river camping places. The only drawback to the campers' enjoyment this summer is the lack of good fishing. The Mississippi has been so high during the spring and summer, spreading out over the bottom lands, that the pole-and-line anglers are meeting with poor success. The river is now over ten feet higher than the minimum stage. Clinton and another flood is coming down from the North. But little line fishing is expected this year.

THE CASTOR OIL INDUSTRY

The Government Statistics Show Millions of Gallons Are Consumed.

Washington, July 28.—The government has been gathering statistics concerning the castor oil industry, and the facts disclosed will upset a good many theories and beliefs regarding this well known vegetable product. Until comparatively recent years it was used chiefly for medicinal purposes, and many adults can hark back to the time when it was in almost every home, particularly in rural communities, and was known as a "sovereign remedy," the dread of every child in the household. But all this has been changed.

While still in use to some extent as a drug, more particularly in country places, castor oil has come to have a high place in the industry of dyeing and printing cotton goods. For example, the popular red, commonly known as turkey red, famous for its permanency, tenacity and beauty, owes its quality of exceptional fastness to castor oil. The chief castor oil manufacturing points in this country are Jersey City, St. Louis, Kansas City and Memphis. Another British (the United States) leads the world in its consumption. The castor bean of American commerce is grown exclusively in a small area in Oklahoma, Eastern Kansas and Western Missouri. British India supplies almost the whole world with the bean, and the deficit here, which is 80 per cent of the total consumption.

The castor oil plant is one of the most interesting in the world's flora. Tropical in its origin, the antiquity of the culture is attested first by seeds found in the sarcophagi of the ancient Egyptians, and, later, by records of the writings of the Hindus.

Indigenous either to Africa or India, the plant has been carried by the migrations of men to all parts of the tropics and subtropical world. The beauty of its foliage has also led to its culture as an ornamental plant for north of where it can be raised for industrial purposes. A perennial in the tropics, it grows to a height of thirty to forty feet, but acclimated in the cooler zones, it becomes an annual, and attains a height of only eight to twelve feet.

From the botanical, as distinguished from the cultural point of view, it is now widely distributed over all the warmer regions of the earth. In America its possession is grown wild in Porto Rico, is cultivated for oil to a small extent in Hawaii, and is also found in the Philippines. Cultivated in Mexico, there is an official record of an increase of the crop from 57,000 bushels in 1900 to 327,000 bushels in 1902.

While castor oil finds its chief use in manufactures and in medicine, it is used in various parts of the world for many other purposes. For instance, in parts of China it is used as a cooking grease, as hard in this country. In British India it is used as an illuminant, even in railway cars. In Australia, its chief use is as a lubricant. In this country there is a limited demand for it as a leather dressing, and in a smaller way it comes into use in the manufacture of sticky fly paper and so-called glycerin soap.

The consumptive demand in the United States is now at its maximum up to this date, and has passed the million-gallon point per annum.

LOUBET TO RETIRE To Modest Flat When His Term Ends.

Paris, July 28.—M. Loubet has just proved conclusively that his intention to retire from his high office at the expiration of his term next February and not to seek re-election is final, by signing a lease with the landlord of a house in the Rue Dante for the occupation of a flat on the first floor of No. 5 in that street.

The Rue Dante has been newly opened in one of the oldest parts of Paris, and turns off the Boulevard St. Germain. The president's youngest son will shortly take his degree at the Sorbonne, close by. Loubet left his father during the terms of study.

M. Loubet's flat is comfortable and has modern improvements, such as a lift and electric lighting, but is otherwise unpretentious. It consists of a large dining room, two reception rooms and five bedrooms, and the yearly rental is $1000.

CRAZED WOMEN'S

Shrieks Startled Worshipers In Michigan Church.

Lapeer, Mich., July 28.—With a shriek that electrified the congregation of the Baptist church of this place during the morning service last Sunday, Mrs. Manzo Weston sprang to her feet and cried: "Well, I don't care, I'm going to join the Catholic church. They will not turn me away from there."

Then shaking off the restraining hand of her powerful husband, she started for the door of the church, with the avowed intention of proceeding to the Catholic edifice across the street. It took several men to restrain her.

Rev. A. M. Morrill was just concluding his opening prayer when the woman's agonizing cries rang out, and in an instant every one was on their feet. Despite all efforts to restrain her the woman rushed down the aisle, carrying her husband and several friends with her. Out through the door they went, and it was not until the portal of the Catholic sanctuary was reached that the woman was got under control.

After her arms had been tied she was taken to a carriage and removed to her home, where physicians examined her. They state that she is suffering from temporary insanity and will recover eventually.

Friends of the Westons state that they have suffered business troubles lately, and constant brooding over her losses unhinged the woman's mind.

NAT GOODWIN

Buys San Francisco Apartment House For $135,000.

San Francisco, July 28.—Nat Goodwin, the actor, has invested in a San Francisco apartment house. He has purchased the family Hotel Lafayette at a cost of $135,000. The place is in Sacramento street, between Gough and Octavia. It is one of the finest apartment houses in San Francisco. The monthly rental is $2,200.

This is the second investment Mr. Goodwin has made here. He bought a cottage and Ocean Beach lot for $50,000.

CITY BRIEFS

Independent ferry to Superior, 5c. Drifting from cold pipes prevented. "Phone 55, Krieger, "Alaska." The Albenberg company, a Duluth company organized to buy and deal in merchandise at retail, has filed articles of incorporation with the county register of deeds. The incorporators are: Jack Feiler, S. Anderson and M. C. Gervey, all of this city. The company will occupy, in a few months, the Hunter block, which is being demolished to meet the needs of a large retail establishment. Announcement is made today that John S. McKenna, formerly local manager in Superior for the Douglas County Telephone company, in Superior, has been appointed city manager of the Duluth County Telephone company, in Duluth. Mr. McKenna succeeds H. D. Wilford, who was recently made superintendent of the Bell Telephone company's interests in this district.

Sunday afternoon the Duluth Central Gun club will hold its final shoot for the class average watches. The new unit have been divided into three classes on the showing made in the preliminary shoots, and at the final shoot Sunday, they will compete for the prizes which have been put up for competition. Each man will shoot at 100 birds, and the marksman leading each class will be given one of the watches.

J. M. Kelley, the decorator at Frohm's, has prepared a handsome trim in honor of the Knights of Pythias, who will visit Duluth tomorrow. A large K. P. emblem studded with incandescent lights occupies the center of a window in which are tastefully arranged the K. P. colors. In the foreground are several handsomely gowned figures attired in the latest mid-summer fashions.

Ben Young was arrested by the police at noon today for violating the ordinance forbidding spitting in street cars. It is claimed that Young refused to stop spitting in the car when told to do so. Plinton & White company have just received today, by express, a shipment of ladies' white oxfords. A full line of sizes, 2 1/2 up. These pretty oxfords are on sale in the shoe department, second floor, at $3.98 a pair.

ARE A NUISANCE.

Board Receiving Many Complaints Regarding Thistles.

As the result of a number of complaints received by the members of the board of public works regarding the heavy growth of Canada thistles in some parts of the city, the board has requested the city attorney to furnish an opinion as to whether or not the property owners cannot be compelled to cut them down.

The board was urged to send out men to cut the thistles which are becoming a pest, but the fund will not stand the expense and the board is now endeavoring to ascertain if the property owners themselves cannot be compelled to abate the nuisance.

HOSPITAL MUST PAY

Taxes on Its Farm Property, Says Supreme Court.

St. Paul, July 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The appeal of St. Bernards hospital, Minneapolis, from a decision of the Hennepin county district court, taxing certain farm property owned by the corporation, was rejected in a decision of the supreme court today.

This was a suit to enforce the payment of taxes for the year 1902, which were delinquent in January, 1904. The defendant claimed that the property was not taxable under the provisions of section 3, article 9 of the constitution. Appeal was taken from the judgment for the plaintiff.

The court held that section 3 of article 9 did not apply in this case as the farm was not necessary to the maintenance of the hospital.

Knights of Pythias to the number of 500 to 600, based on conservative estimates, will arrive in the city tomorrow afternoon, either on the regular trains or by special train, to participate in the big midsummer jubilee and grand contest to be had between the degree teams of North Star lodge, No. 35, of this city and Unity lodge, No. 4 of Minneapolis, for the state honors in initiation work. The contest is to be held at the layover Saturday evening and will be attended by a fine program now preparing and including an address of welcome by Mayor Cullum, a response by the grand chancellor of St. Paul and special music.

For a long time a good natured but lively rivalry has existed between the North Star lodge and Unity lodge as to which has the best buy-up the day after the contest is expected to settle the question for some time to come. In view of the prominence of both teams throughout the state, the event has aroused the liveliest interest and the Knights of Pythias are coming here from every part of the state to see the two teams squared.

Besides the big delegations from Superior and the Twin Cities there will be large numbers from Stillwater, Mankato, Anoka, Elk River, Brainerd, Staples, Pine City, Grand Rapids and Bemidji.

The grandstands at the city and state grounds have also promised to have good representation.

Saturday afternoon and Sunday the visiting Knights will be entertained with the layover at the city and state grounds.

The Knights of Pythias have been fortunate in securing a one-fare for the round trip, and they promise to bring plenty of friends to the city.

The Knights of Pythias are good returning Sunday and Monday.

SEMI-FINALISTS IN GOLF

Include Egan, Martin, Chandler Egan and Demoss.

Chicago, July 28.—On greens that were drenched by an early morning cloudburst and with October weather conditions prevailing, the eight survivors in the Western golf championship began the third and final round on the Glenview golf links today. Galleries, were distinguished by their absence. Victor Egan, Walter Egan and Walter Egan were the first away in the morning.

Champion Chandler Egan and R. D. Bokum of Glenview followed. Soon thereafter Mason Phelps and J. S. Demoss of Wisconsin and Ned Sawyer and Walter Egan sent their drives into the drenched greens.

H. C. Egan, Exmoor, defeated R. D. Bokum, Glenview, in the third round, 2 up, 1 to play.

As the result of the third match round the semi-finalists this afternoon are: R. B. Martin vs. Chandler Egan and J. C. Demoss, Tusconville, vs. W. E. Egan.

Demoss defeated Mr. E. Phelps 1 up 30 holes. Walter Egan defeated Ned Sawyer 1 up.

HAGGARD'S "SHE"

Resulted In Young Woman Committing Suicide.

South Haven, Mich., July 28.—Miss Lucy Monroe, aged 28, was found burned to death on a blazing brush pile at the country home of her father, C. J. Monroe, a prominent South Haven and Kalamazoo banker.

An empty oil can showed how the young woman had started the fatal fire. She imagined she was Ayesha, the heroine of H. Ryder Haggard's novel "She."

Miss Monroe often declared she wished she were younger, and some of her friends think she leaped into the fire like Ayesha to rescue her beauty and youth.

LOUTZENHEISER IS ARRAIGNED

Reaches Duluth on Afternoon Train—Appears In Court.

Judge Morris Fixes Examination For Thursday—Bail $5000.

A. B. Loutzenheiser, the defaulting teller of the First National bank, who was arrested in St. Paul yesterday while on his way to Duluth to give himself up, arrived over the Northern Pacific at 2:10 o'clock this afternoon in charge of Deputy United States Marshal S. J. Pica of St. Paul and accompanied by J. N. Dickey, assistant United States attorney, of St. Paul. The party was met at the depot by George R. Laybourn, local agent for the American Bonding company of Baltimore, with whom Loutzenheiser was bonded, and by Clyde W. Stillson, Loutzenheiser's attorney. Mr. Stillson received a wire from Loutzenheiser shortly before noon to meet him at the train and he did so. The telegram was filed at Rush City on the way up.

A large crowd of curious men and boys were at the depot and crowded about the party of which the defaulter was the center, staring and gaping with foolish curiosity. The crowd followed upon the footsteps of the little party most of the way to the government building where Loutzenheiser was at once taken to be arraigned.

Loutzenheiser would not talk to The Herald when an attempt was made to reach him. He told his attorney, Mr. Stillson, that he did not want to be interviewed. He was plainly agitated when he saw the crowd at the depot and his face was set and drawn as though his predicament were pressing upon his mind. He gathered himself with an effort and proceeded to the federal building steadily and trying to avoid looking at the crowd which lined the walk from the train clear up to Michigan street. Two or three times pointed fingers could be seen and the words "That's him" heard and each time Loutzenheiser would glance a little and set his face anew. He conversed with Mr. Stillson all the way up to the marshal's office in the federal building and on entering there the door was closed against everybody.

Loutzenheiser was arraigned before Judge Morris in United States court this afternoon at 3 o'clock. After the indictment was read, Mr. Stillson, as the representative of the prisoner, asked the court to put the hearing over until some day next week in order that he and his client might consider it more in detail and Loutzenheiser's interest protected. Judge Morris named next Thursday as the day for the hearing, the hour to be fixed by the United States attorney and the defendant's counsel.

At the request of Mr. Stillson bail was fixed, and Mr. Dickey for the United States named $5000. Mr. Stillson protested against so large a sum, but the court said that on an indictment for embezzling $10,000 he did not think $5000 bail was any too much and fixed it at that figure. Whether or not Loutzenheiser hopes to furnish bail could not be learned. Until he does he will be incarcerated in the St. Louis county jail.

CATTLE BARONS

Said to Be Settling Scores In Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., July 28.—Is an attempt being made to "get even" for the conviction of the Krause brothers on charges of illegally fencing government land? Federal officials think so.

Theodore Osborne of Alliance has been arrested on a charge of cattle stealing, it being asserted that the hide and head of a heifer belonging to a neighbor were found on his land. Osborne and his wife were chief witnesses against the Krauses.

Edward Wheelstone, another important witness against the Krause brothers, has also been placed under arrest on the same charge.

The Krause brothers have secured a continuance until the middle of August for the filing of a motion for a new trial.

FEAR OF HYDROPHOBIA

Causes an Order to Kill All Dogs.

Norristown, Pa., July 28.—Owing to a number of mad-dog alarms, residents of Lower Moreland township appealed to the state livestock sanitary board, which has ordered that all dogs in the township must be penned up or muzzled for a period of 100 days, or until the ban is lifted by the board.

Any dog seen on the public highway may be shot by any person, and the owner has no redress. In accordance with this order, E. Fletcher's pet dog, Newfoundland dog Beauty, was killed on the street, and the owner threatens to test the validity of the state board's authority, as he valued the dog very highly.

CURED OF RHEUMATISM

By Falling Into Tannery Vat In Germany.

Cologne, July 28.—Johann Simon, a tanner of Ulm, has been cured of a rheumatic complaint of several years' standing as a result of falling into a tan-pit.

Simon remained in the pit for more than half an hour before he was rescued.

He then found himself completely cured of his illness, with a feeling of rejuvenation permeating his limbs.
